Spending Plan To Combat War, Hunger Proposed To Truman

Board's Report Praised By President

KEY WEST, Fla., March 11 (AP) — A multi-billion dollar spending program under a powerful new foreign economics czar was proposed to President Truman today to "break the back of hunger and famine" and halt Soviet aggression "short of war."

The proposal came from the International Development Advisory Board headed by Nelson Rockefeller as a means of combatting "military aggression and subversion" on the one hand and "hunger, poverty, disease and illiteracy" on the other.

The report drew immediate praise from the President who said it would be of "great help" in the drafting of recommendations he will send to Congress in "the near future" for foreign defense and economic assistance in the next fiscal year.

Report Sent To Capitol Hill

Telling Rockefeller that "economic stagnation is the advance guard of Soviet conquest," Mr. Truman said he is sending the report to the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees for their consideration.

The program would include:

1. Unification of major foreign economic activities of the government under one overseas economic administration headed by a commanding administrator who would work in close collaboration with Secretary of State Acheson and Defense Mobilization Director Wilson.

2. Appropriations of $500,000,000 a year for several years for improvement of economic and health conditions in the Middle East, Africa, South Asia and Southeast Asia.

Development Authority

3. Creation of an international development authority with a fund of $500,000,000 to operate under a management contract with the International Bank for reconstruction and development to help finance public works in underdeveloped areas.

4. Creation of a new international finance corporation, as an affiliate of the International Bank, as part of five-point program to stimulate the flow of private investment capital in underdeveloped areas from the present $1,000,000,000 a year to a minimum of $2,000,000,000.

5. Development, by the proposed overseas economic administrator, of a program for bringing about private investment of $2,000,000,000 in production facilities abroad over the next few years.

"Get Tougher" Orders Given Chinese Courts

Mercy Is Forbidden, "Intent" Is Crime

HONG KONG, March 11 (AP) — Shih Liang, Red China's female minister of justice, has ordered her Communist courts to slam the gates of mercy on everyone even suspected of opposing the Peiping regime.

The courts have been too soft on anti-Reds, she said. Now they are to stop being lenient and let the heads roll.

Shih drove home her "get tougher" orders in a long interpretation of Peiping's new code of penalties for "crimes" against the state. Details of her views have just been received in this British colony on the edge of Red China.

May Be Retroactive

Shih made it quite clear that the courts can now order a prisoner shot for his "intentions," leaving it entirely up to the courts what the intentions may have been.

In placing her stamp of legality on the purge now going on in China, the minister warned that the new laws may be retroactive.

"Where errors have been made in the past, it behooves us to review the case x x x and arrive at a new correct sentence in accordance with the new regulations," she said.

Under such an order, any case could be reopened for "review" at the discretion of the court.

Shih said Communist courts have been guilty of releasing a prisoner because "in the class composition he was a middle peasant," or because "there was nothing much against him," or because "he was too young or too old."

Punishment Comes First

This, she said, must stop. Punishment must be meted out, and fast.

She told the dispensers of Red justice not to be misled by prisoners who make frank admissions of mistakes, tell the truth in court or lead exemplary lives in prison.

Such performances, she said "are not meritorious and should not be rewarded."

Hereafter punishment comes first, followed by "re-education" where that is possible. This is a departure from previous Communist policies which seemed to give the "culprit" a chance to "reform" and escape punishment.

Anti-Red Named Premier Of Iran

TEHRAN, Iran, March 11 (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi today named Hussein Ala, veteran diplomat and noted anti-Communist, as Iran's new premier. Informed sources said the Senate unanimously approved his appointment and the lower house is expected to confirm the nomination without difficulty tomorrow or Tuesday.

Ala is a former foreign minister. He became a national hero in 1946 because of his stand against the Soviet Union before the United Nations during a squabble over Iran's Azerbaijan Province which borders on Russia.

Western diplomats regard Ala as a good choice to resist Communist pressure on this strategic oil-producing country.

The Shah persuaded him to accept the premiership after the Majlis (parliament) refused earlier to approve Khalil Fahimi, who was named temporary premier following the assassination of Premier Ali Razmara on Wednesday by a religious fanatic.

Proposed Price Orders May Bring Some Cuts

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—The government is considering an order forcing manufacturers to roll back price boosts since outbreak of the Korean war which are not based on actual increases in cost.

Harold Leventhal, general counsel for the Office of Price Stabilization, said on an NBC radio show today such an order is under study.

Later, an OPS official said the proposed order could bring price reductions on many products but also could result in some price increases.

Graham Is Named To Manpower Post

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — Frank P. Graham (above), former senator and former president of the University of North Carolina, was named defense manpower administrator in the Labor Department today.

He will direct all defense manpower operations in the department, reporting directly to Secretary Tobin who announced the appointment.

Plans To Shelve RFC Probe Draw Republican Fire

Grand Jury To Open Investigation Today

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — Two Republican lawmakers investigating political influence in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation demanded today that plans to end the inquiry soon be shelved.

Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Capehart (R-Ind) made the demand as Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the inquiry committee, reiterated that he hopes to complete the job shortly—perhaps this week.

Spotlight On Big Loan

They spoke out as the subcommittee turned its spotlight on $6,300,000 in loans to the Central Iron and Steel Co., of Harrisburg, Pa., — granted over objections of subordinate RFC staff members, according to the subcommittee's recent report to the Senate.

The transactions, subject of tomorrow's hearings, may be the last of the "big loans" to be covered in the inquiry, Fulbright said.

Referred To Justice Dept.

The jury inquiry was ordered after the subcommittee referred the Justice Department to the hearing record for any evidence of perjury, tax evasions or other violations.

Capehart, insisting that the subcommittee continue, said, "We shouldn't stop now. We've got to get to the bottom of this mess."

Fulbright's plans to quit soon were not firmly set but he said:

"I honestly think there is not much more to be learned about the RFC that wouldn't be simply repetitious."

Fulbright has criticized the lending agency as sharply as the Republicans have.

Second Longest U. S. Casualty List Of War Is Issued

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — The second longest casualty list of the Korean war, containing 972 names, was issued today by the Defense Department.

A check of the next of kin notification, from which the list was compiled, showed that most of the casualties were suffered between Feb. 11 and Feb. 19.

The list, No. 247, identified 150 combat deaths, 510 wounded, 245 missing in action and 67 injured in accidents.

Plans To Curb Abuses In "Record" Studied

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) of the House Rules Committee said today controls are being studied to curb "the practice of using the Congressional Record for personal attacks and smear campaigns."

Sabath said he is trying to work out preventive rules. House leaders have privately voiced concern in the past over so-called abuses and regulations governing the Record.

B-25 Bomber Crashes

3 Americans, 23 Others Die In Plane Crash

HONG KONG, March 11 (AP)—A Pacific Overseas Airlines plane crashed and burned on one of Hong Kong's many hills today shortly after taking off in heavy fog for Siam, killing the 26 persons aboard.

Three American crewmen and one British passenger were listed among the victims. The remainder were Asiatic crewmen and passengers.

The four-engine Douglas DC-4 Skymaster crashed five minutes after taking off for Bangkok.

It struck Mt. Parker, scarcely 800 feet above busy King's Road in the populous Taikoo dockyard area.

White House Says Stenog Not Dismissed

Super-Carrier Bill Signed By Truman

KEY WEST, Fla., March 11 (AP)—President Truman went calmly to church today in the quiet of a sunny southern Sabbath against a background of events which found him:

1. Standing squarely behind a White House stenographer whose $9,540 mink coat has figured prominent in a Senate investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

2. Signing a bill authorizing a 57,000-ton carrier capable of carrying planes big and powerful enough to carry atomic bombs to a potential enemy. It covers in all 500,000 tons of new war shipping and authority to modernize 1,000,000 tons of existing shipping.

Truman, Murphy Confer

3. Talking over with Charles S. Murphy, his special assistant, efforts underway at Washington to bring organized labor leaders back into the defense mobilization program on which it walked out in a break with the administration.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short, under questioning at a news conference, made it clear that Mrs. Lauretta Young, wife of E. Merl Young, key figure in the RFC inquiry, has not been dismissed.

Young, a one-time $1,080 assistant messenger for the RFC, who became well-to-do working for firms which received RFC loans, is reported visiting with his wife in Florida.

Young's alleged influence with the RFC is one of the high points of the Senate inquiry which developed that Mrs. Young wears a fur coat paid for by a New York furrier who sought but did not get an RFC loan.

Keating Stands By Guns

Shortly after Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) asserted he had heard Mrs. Young had been dropped from the President's payroll word came from the Little White House: "It isn't true and it hasn't been under consideration."

In Washington Rep. Keating stuck by his report that Mrs. Young had been fired by President Truman.

He also said Mrs. Young was "being reinstated by the President" because of the Keating disclosure.

The Republican House member said in a statement today:

"I am standing by my guns. I'm sorry to hear that Mrs. Young is being reinstated by the President."

Brannan Victim Of Fake Want-Ad

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan was the victim today of a fake want-ad attempting to link him with the famous mink coat of the RFC investigation.

The Cabinet officer said it looks like the work of a "cruel, sadistic, damned fool."

Under "Found," this ad appeared in today's Washington Star:

"Natural pastel royal mink coat. 1600 Penna, Ave., N. W., Saturday morning. Or. 6226."

The address is the White House.

The telephone is Brannan's home.

Such a coat figured prominently in the Senate's current investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. It belongs to Mrs. E. Merl Young, a White House stenographer whose husband has been accused of influencing RFC lending.

Young has testified he bought the $9,540 garment for Mrs. Young with a loan from Joseph H. Rosenbaum, Washington attorney.

The investigating subcommittee has accused Rosenbaum of having "unusual success" in getting RFC loans for his clients, largely through Young's help.

Brannan's name has in no way figured in the coat angle or in any other way with the subcommittee's investigation.

DiSalle And Carey Clash On TV Program

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, said today that businessmen leading the government's mobilization program don't "know the difference between a New Dealer and a Communist." Price Director Michael V. DiSalle replied:

"You never work out problems by being on the outside and picking."

DiSalle and Carey clashed on an NBC television program presided over by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

DiSalle criticized labor's walkout from the mobilization program.

Lunchroom Owner Finds People Honest

Edith Brown, Columbus, O., lunchroom owner, didn't lose a nickel when a nearby shoe plant closed down, although her only credit record was a list of scrawled first names. Customers line up to pay Mrs. Brown, who is holding the battered cardboard tally sheet.

Nationalist China Appeals To U. N. To Condemn Reds

Charges 1,000,000 Massacred In Purge

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 11 (AP)—Nationalist China today asked the United Nations to condemn and punish the Chinese Reds for mass slayings on the mainland, which it called "a tragedy for the whole of mankind."

The appeal was sent through the Nationalist U. N. delegation by the Control Yuan, the Nationalists' top regulatory and investigative body.

Charges Million Slain

It followed charges by the Nationalist Defense Ministry that the Reds already have slain 1,000,000 persons of 25,000,000 marked for death in efforts to erase internal resistance prior to a third world war.

The Control Yuan asserted the Chinese Reds, backed by Russia, plan eventual extermination of 150,000,000 Chinese in a deliberate program to cut China's population of more than 450,000,000 persons to more manageable proportions.

Taipei newspaper publishers, asking the free world to take steps against the Chinese Reds, said two days ago that the ultimate goal of death was 200,000,000.

Reds Admit To Purge

Massacres already carried out on the mainland constitute "an unprecedented disaster for the Chinese nation and a tragedy for the whole of mankind," the Control Yuan said.

It exhorted the U. N. "severely to codemn the Chinese Reds and to adopt effective sanctions to halt their inhuman atrocities."

The fact that a great purge is actually in progress has been admitted by the Chinese Reds themselves. They naturally have given no comprehensive figures, but have openly decreed death for anyone who is even suspected of disapproving their regime.

Lineman Finds Sabu's Stolen Tableware

VAN NUYS, Calif., March 11 (AP)—Thanks to the curiosity of a telephone lineman, police today have recovered $8,000 worth of gold and silver tableware stolen last November from Sabu Dastagir, elephant boy of the films.

William M. Buchan was stringing line when he noticed a damaged wooden chest standing on end in a ditch. Throwing back the lid, he found a 79-piece gold flat ware set, a sterling silver tea set, and two air force medals.

Police identified the articels as Sabu's.

Baltimore Fire Claims Lives Of Four Children

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP) — A fourth child of the Carle Dicus family died today of burns suffered when a fire hit their West Baltimore row home Saturday.

Authorities at University Hospital reported Catherine, 7, died this morning.

Alice, 4, and Virginia, 7, were dead on arrival at a hospital yesterday. Doris, 17, died in the hospital a few hours after striking her head on the sidewalk as she tried to jump to safety.

Rail Slowdown Will Close J. & L.'s Pittsburgh Plant

PITTSBURGH, March 11 (AP) — Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation will shut its huge Pittsburgh works completely down tomorrow because of what it calls a slowdown strike by employes of a subsidiary railroad.

Closing the big South Side plant will throw 12,000 J. and L. employes out of work and cost the nation 4,500 tons of finished steel products a day. The company has been reported working on armor plate for tanks.

Agents of the National Mediation Board moved from Washington to Pittsburgh for a new try at settling the wage controversy between the fourth largest steel producer and the Monongahela connecting railroad's unionized employes.

The railroad performs essential switching and hauling operations within the plant.

Ordeal Of Fire Too Much For GI

TOKYO, March 11 (AP) — An indomitable young American is dead after surviving a gasoline fire bath and clubbings by his Chinese captors to escape from "Massacre Valley" on his 12th attempt.

But he died a free man.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters today confirmed the death of Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, Long Beach, N. Y.

The young soldier was in a U. S. Second Division task force ambushed by the Reds Feb. 13, as it proceeded along a mountain road north of Hoengsong in Central Korea.

Nearly 300 of his comrades were slain. Many more still are missing and only half the force of 2,400 men survived the attack.

The gaunt-faced soldier had seemed strong enough on the day of his escape Feb. 21, for doctors to permit him to talk about his experience. Three days later, however, his ordeal of fire, beatings, near starvation proved too much to bear. He died of burns and exhaustion in the Army's Fourth Field Hospital.

No Trace Of B-29

LONDON, March 11 (AP) — A three-nation search has failed to uncover a trace of a U. S. B-29 bomber missing in the Mediterranean area with 12 men aboard, U. S. Air Force headquarters here announced today.

GOP Threatens To Force House Action On Troops

Amendment To Draft Measure Is Planned

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Administration efforts to confine the troops-to-Europe issue to the Senate alone ran into a double-barreled Republican threat today to force House action on the question.

Rep. Arends (R-Ill) planned to lay before the House Armed Services Committee tomorrow an amendment to the manpower-draft bill requiring congressional approval for assignment of U. S. divisions to the North Atlantic pact army. He had the backing of the House Republican Policy Committee.

Plan Joint Resolution

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) told a reporter that if administration leaders attempt to weaken pending Senate resolutions calling for congressional consent, he and others may move to substitute a joint resolution. This would have the force of law if the House went along.

The issue arose from administration moves to send ground forces under the North Atlantic defense treaty to join troops of Allied nations under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in guarding Western Europe against Russia.

President Truman promised to dispatch an initial force of four divisions to join two other American divisions already in Europe. In the course of hearings by Senate committees the debate settled on the point of congressional consent.

Knowland, O'Mahoney Disagree

Resolutions awaiting Senate action support use of troops, but they urge advance approval of Congress. Several backers of the resolutions insist they do not wish to delay the four divisions.

In a radio panel discussion, Knowland said today that while he was in favor of depending on the judgment of the nation's military leaders, it was the responsibility of both houses of Congress to set political policy on the issue.

Challenging a contention by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) that congressional consultation on military moves would rob this nation of "flexibility" needed to meet possible Communist aggression, Knowland said:

"It should be understood if Russia moves in Europe we will be at war, and I think it is important that Russia should know that."

Enemy Making Furious Stand For Hongchon

Advancing Column Under Heavy Fire

TOKYO, Monday, March 12 (AP) — A spearhead of the U. S. First Cavalry Division lanced within seven miles of Hongchon Sunday, prodding Chinese defenders into a desperation stand for that key Communist base in Central Korea.

The dismounted cavalrymen, supported by tanks, moved doggedly ahead, advancing their lines farther north than any other American division in Korea, field dispatches said.

The Reds furiously hurled heavy artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire on the advancing column from high positions on both sides of the road.

Red resistance stiffened sharply north and northwest of Allied-held Yongdu as cavalry lines reached within 25 air miles south of the 38th Parallel.

Marines Gain Three Miles

To the east, assault troops of the U. S. First Marine Division punched three miles closer to Hongchon. The Leathernecks captured hills overlooking another road leading northwest into that vital Communist supply and assembly area.

The Marine advance met only light to moderate resistance, AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported from the front. He said apparently the Chinese were not yet ready to start an all-out fight for Hongchon in that sector. However, the area directly ahead was "loaded with Communists," advance troops reported.

The Marines were nine road miles and six air miles southeast of Hongchon, which is 22 air miles south of the 38th Parallel.

The Chinese 66th Army (corps) has been identified in the line, defending its headquarters at Hongchon. Two more Chinese Red armies — the 39th and 40th — were believed backing up the 66th for the defense of the supply hub. A Chinese Red army averages 30,000 to 40,000 men.

Red Tactics Adopted

Eastward from the Marine base at Hoengsong, U. S. Second Division troops ripped a page from Red tactics. They made a surprise night attack that sent Korean Communists reeling northward.

The Reds abandoned guns, foxholes and log-bunkered entrenchments in their haste to pull north, six miles east-northeast of Hoengsong in the center of the Allied line.

Gromyko "Nyet" Expected Today

PARIS, March 11 (AP)—Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko is expected to deliver a clear and positive "nyet" at tomorrow's Big Four meeting.

In Russia, "nyet" means "no," in case there is anyone left who hasn't heard.

The Western Power delegations will be greatly surprised, according to informed sources, if Gromyko does not say "nyet" to their compromise effort to arrange a Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Toward the end of Saturday's session at the Rose Palace in Paris, Alexandre Parodi, of France, announced that the U. S., France and Britain were ready to reword their proposed agenda to accommodate all of the Russian points.

That's why the delegates are meeting here—trying to arrange a list of subjects which the four foreign ministers can discuss with the idea of easing world tensions.

Gromyko listened to the rewording, said he reserved the right to comment on its length, and then speculated that it wasn't good enough. He denied that it accommodated all his points, or anything like all of them.

Tiny Cups Of Deadly Poison Sought After Loss In Bronx

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — An isolated beach section in the East Bronx was scoured today for tiny cups of a deadly poison. The poison could kill a child who touches it and then puts his finger in his mouth.

The poison is sodium fluoroacetate, known also by the number 1080. The Health Department says there is no antidote.

The purple, jelly-like substance was used in a rat war at Fort Schuyler, site of the State Maritime College.

It was distributed in little paper cups, like those used in restaurants for mayonnaise or relish.

Some of the cups got lost.

The search was set off last night by the deaths of two dogs, a cat and a number of birds.

By mid-afternoon 10 cups had been found outside the fort.

Later the police called off the search, saying they were satisfied all or most of the poison had been found.

Stanley Fox, vice-president of the Commonwealth Sanitation Company, said the containers were retrieved last Monday. Most were burned, he said, but a wind blew some into Long Island Sound.

First American War Dead From Korea Sail For Home

YOKOHAMA, Japan, March 11 (AP)—Fifty American war dead from four branches of service were embarked today on a somber, precedent-establishing voyage home.

They were the first war dead back from the icy mud of Korea.

They were of all ranks, from private to general, of various creeds and races. They died on many scattered battlefields.

This was the first time America has returned her dead from an active theater of war, although bodies of some Korean war casualties who died in hospitals have been returned home for burial.

The Army has evacuated all war cemeteries south of parallel 38 in Korea, transferring the bodies either to Pusan or to mortuaries in Japan.

The dead sailed for San Francisco aboard the transport General G. M. Randall, beneath an aerial cross of jet fighter planes, while the ship's bell tolled. Similar shiploads will follow.

The dead all have been identified positively. Officials said the list would be announced before the General Randall reached port.

On arrival in San Francisco, the identities will be checked again. Telegrams will be sent to relatives. Then, if desired, each body will be sent home with an individual escort.

20,000 Reds Reported Wiped Out By Typhus

TOKYO, March 11 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur's headquarters has received a report that typhus in Korea has wiped out the equivalent of two Chinese Red divisions—20,000 men.

This report directly contradicts a statement from Eighth Army headquarters in Korea only two days ago that there was no confirmed evidence of any typhus epidemic among the Chinese and North Korean troops.

Capehart, insisting that the subcommittee continue, said, "We shouldn't stop now. We've got to get to the bottom of this mess."

Fulbright's plans to quit soon were not firmly set but he said:

"I honestly think there is not much more to be learned about the RFC that wouldn't be simply repetitious."

Fulbright has criticized the lending agency as sharply as the Republicans have.

3 Americans, 23 Others Die In Plane Crash

HONG KONG, March 11 (AP)—A Pacific Overseas Airlines plane crashed and burned on one of Hong Kong's many hills today shortly after taking off in heavy fog for Siam, killing the 26 persons aboard.

Three American crewmen and one British passenger were listed among the victims. The remainder were Asiatic crewmen and passengers.

The four-engine Douglas DC-4 Skymaster crashed five minutes after taking off for Bangkok.

It struck Mt. Parker, scarcely 800 feet above busy King's Road in the populous Taikoo dockyard area.

White House Says Stenog Not Dismissed

Super-Carrier Bill Signed By Truman

KEY WEST, Fla., March 11 (AP)— President Truman went calmly to church today in the quiet of a sunny southern Sabbath against a background of events which found him:

1. Standing squarely behind a White House stenographer whose $9,540 mink coat has figured prominent in a Senate investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

2. Signing a bill authorizing a 57,000-ton carrier capable of carrying planes big and powerful enough to carry atomic bombs to a potential enemy. It covers in all 500,000 tons of new war shipping and authority to modernize 1,000,000 tons of existing shipping.

Truman, Murphy Confer

3. Talking over with Charles S. Murphy, his special assistant, efforts underway at Washington to bring organized labor leaders back into the defense mobilization program on which it walked out in a break with the administration.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short, under questioning at a news conference, made it clear that Mrs. Lauretta Young, wife of E. Merl Young, key figure in the RFC inquiry, has not been dismissed.

Young, a one-time $1,080 assistant messenger for the RFC, who became well-to-do working for firms which received RFC loans, is reported visiting with his wife in Florida.

Young's alleged influence with the RFC is one of the high points of the Senate inquiry which developed that Mrs. Young wears a fur coat paid for by a New York furrier who sought but did not get an RFC loan.

Keating Stands By Guns

Shortly after Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) asserted he had heard Mrs. Young had been dropped from the President's payroll word came from the Little White House: "It isn't true and it hasn't been under consideration."

In Washington Rep. Keating stuck by his report that Mrs. Young had been fired by President Truman.

He also said Mrs. Young was "being reinstated by the President" because of the Keating disclosure.

The Republican House member said in a statement today:

"I am standing by my guns. I'm sorry to hear that Mrs. Young is being reinstated by the President."

Brannan Victim Of Fake Want-Ad

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)— Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan was the victim today of a fake want-ad attempting to link him with the famous mink coat of the RFC investigation.

The Cabinet officer said it looks like the work of a "cruel, sadistic, damned fool."

Under "Found," this ad appeared in today's Washington Star:

"Natural pastel royal mink coat. 1600 Penna, Ave., N. W., Saturday morning. Or. 6226."

The address is the White House.

The telephone is Brannan's home.

Such a coat figured prominently in the Senate's current investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. It belongs to Mrs. E. Merl Young, a White House stenographer whose husband has been accused of influencing RFC lending.

Young has testified he bought the $9,540 garment for Mrs. Young with a loan from Joseph H. Rosenbaum, Washington attorney.

The investigating subcommittee has accused Rosenbaum of having "unusual success" in getting RFC loans for his clients, largely through Young's help.

Brannan's name has in no way figured in the coat angle or in any other way with the subcommittee's investigation.

DiSalle And Carey Clash On TV Program

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, said today that businessmen leading the government's mobilization program don't "know the difference between a New Dealer and a Communist." Price Director Michael V. DiSalle replied:

"You never work out problems by being on the outside and picking."

DiSalle and Carey clashed on an NBC television program presided over by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

DiSalle criticized labor's walkout from the mobilization program.

Lunchroom Owner Finds People Honest

Edith Brown, Columbus, O., lunchroom owner, didn't lose a nickel when a nearby shoe plant closed down, although her only credit record was a list of scrawled first names. Customers line up to pay Mrs. Brown, who is holding the battered cardboard tally sheet.

Nationalist China Appeals To U. N. To Condemn Reds

Charges 1,000,000 Massacred In Purge

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 11 (AP)— Nationalist China today asked the United Nations to condemn and punish the Chinese Reds for mass slayings on the mainland, which it called "a tragedy for the whole of mankind."

The appeal was sent through the Nationalist U. N. delegation by the Control Yuan, the Nationalists' top regulatory and investigative body.

Charges Million Slain

It followed charges by the Nationalist Defense Ministry that the Reds already have slain 1,000,000 persons of 25,000,000 marked for death in efforts to erase internal resistance prior to a third world war.

The Control Yuan asserted the Chinese Reds, backed by Russia, plan eventual extermination of 150,000,000 Chinese in a deliberate program to cut China's population of more than 450,000,000 persons to more manageable proportions.

Taipei newspaper publishers, asking the free world to take steps against the Chinese Reds, said two days ago that the ultimate goal of death was 200,000,000.

Reds Admit To Purge

Massacres already carried out on the mainland constitute "an unprecedented disaster for the Chinese nation and a tragedy for the whole of mankind," the Control Yuan said.

It exhorted the U. N. "severely to codemn the Chinese Reds and to adopt effective sanctions to halt their inhuman atrocities."

The fact that a great purge is actually in progress has been admitted by the Chinese Reds themselves. They naturally have given no comprehensive figures, but have openly decreed death for anyone who is even suspected of disapproving their regime.

Lineman Finds Sabu's Stolen Tableware

VAN NUYS, Calif., March 11 (AP)— Thanks to the curiosity of a telephone lineman, police today have recovered $8,000 worth of gold and silver tableware stolen last November from Sabu Dastagir, elephant boy of the films.

William M. Buchan was stringing line when he noticed a damaged wooden chest standing on end in a ditch. Throwing back the lid, he found a 79-piece gold flat ware set, a sterling silver tea set, and two air force medals.

Police identified the articels as Sabu's.

Baltimore Fire Claims Lives Of Four Children

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP) — A fourth child of the Carle Dicus family died today of burns suffered when a fire hit their West Baltimore row home Saturday.

Authorities at University Hospital reported Catherine, 7, died this morning.

Alice, 4, and Virginia, 7, were dead on arrival at a hospital yesterday. Doris, 17, died in the hospital a few hours after striking her head on the sidewalk as she tried to jump to safety.

Rail Slowdown Will Close J. & L.'s Pittsburgh Plant

PITTSBURGH, March 11 (AP) — Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation will shut its huge Pittsburgh works completely down tomorrow because of what it calls a slowdown strike by employes of a subsidiary railroad.

Closing the big South Side plant will throw 12,000 J. and L. employes out of work and cost the nation 4,500 tons of finished steel products a day. The company has been reported working on armor plate for tanks.

Agents of the National Mediation Board moved from Washington to Pittsburgh for a new try at settling the wage controversy between the fourth largest steel producer and the Monongahela connecting railroad's unionized employes.

The railroad performs essential switching and hauling operations within the plant.

Ordeal Of Fire Too Much For GI

TOKYO, March 11 (AP) — An indomitable young American is dead after surviving a gasoline fire bath and clubbings by his Chinese captors to escape from "Massacre Valley" on his 12th attempt.

But he died a free man.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters today confirmed the death of Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, Long Beach, N. Y.

The young soldier was in a U. S. Second Division task force ambushed by the Reds Feb. 13, as it proceeded along a mountain road north of Hoengsong in Central Korea.

Nearly 300 of his comrades were slain. Many more still are missing and only half the force of 2,400 men survived the attack.

The gaunt-faced soldier had seemed strong enough on the day of his escape Feb. 21, for doctors to permit him to talk about his experience. Three days later, however, his ordeal of fire, beatings, near starvation proved too much to bear. He died of burns and exhaustion in the Army's Fourth Field Hospital.

No Trace Of B-29

LONDON, March 11 (AP) — A three-nation search has failed to uncover a trace of a U. S. B-29 bomber missing in the Mediterranean area with 12 men aboard, U. S. Air Force headquarters here announced today.

GOP Threatens To Force House Action On Troops

Amendment To Draft Measure Is Planned

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)— Administration efforts to confine the troops-to-Europe issue to the Senate alone ran into a double-barreled Republican threat today to force House action on the question.

Rep. Arends (R-Ill) planned to lay before the House Armed Services Committee tomorrow an amendment to the manpower-draft bill requiring congressional approval for assignment of U. S. divisions to the North Atlantic pact army. He had the backing of the House Republican Policy Committee.

Plan Joint Resolution

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) told a reporter that if administration leaders attempt to weaken pending Senate resolutions calling for congressional consent, he and others may move to substitute a joint resolution. This would have the force of law if the House went along.

The issue arose from administration moves to send ground forces under the North Atlantic defense treaty to join troops of Allied nations under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in guarding Western Europe against Russia.

President Truman promised to dispatch an initial force of four divisions to join two other American divisions already in Europe. In the course of hearings by Senate committees the debate settled on the point of congressional consent.

Knowland, O'Mahoney Disagree

Resolutions awaiting Senate action support use of troops, but they urge advance approval of Congress. Several backers of the resolutions insist they do not wish to delay the four divisions.

In a radio panel discussion, Knowland said today that while he was in favor of depending on the judgment of the nation's military leaders, it was the responsibility of both houses of Congress to set political policy on the issue.

Challenging a contention by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) that congressional consultation on military moves would rob this nation of "flexibility" needed to meet possible Communist aggression, Knowland said:

"It should be understood if Russia moves in Europe we will be at war, and I think it is important that Russia should know that."

Enemy Making Furious Stand For Hongchon

Advancing Column Under Heavy Fire

TOKYO, Monday, March 12 (AP) — A spearhead of the U. S. First Cavalry Division lanced within seven miles of Hongchon Sunday, prodding Chinese defenders into a desperation stand for that key Communist base in Central Korea.

The dismounted cavalrymen, supported by tanks, moved doggedly ahead, advancing their lines farther north than any other American division in Korea, field dispatches said.

The Reds furiously hurled heavy artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire on the advancing column from high positions on both sides of the road.

Red resistance stiffened sharply north and northwest of Allied-held Yongdu as cavalry lines reached within 25 air miles south of the 38th Parallel.

Marines Gain Three Miles

To the east, assault troops of the U. S. First Marine Division punched three miles closer to Hongchon. The Leathernecks captured hills overlooking another road leading northwest into that vital Communist supply and assembly area.

The Marine advance met only light to moderate resistance, AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported from the front. He said apparently the Chinese were not yet ready to start an all-out fight for Hongchon in that sector. However, the area directly ahead was "loaded with Communists," advance troops reported.

The Marines were nine road miles and six air miles southeast of Hongchon, which is 22 air miles south of the 38th Parallel.

The Chinese 66th Army (corps) has been identified in the line, defending its headquarters at Hongchon. Two more Chinese Red armies — the 39th and 40th — were believed backing up the 66th for the defense of the supply hub. A Chinese Red army averages 30,000 to 40,000 men.

Red Tactics Adopted

Eastward from the Marine base at Hoengsong, U. S. Second Division troops ripped a page from Red tactics. They made a surprise night attack that sent Korean Communists reeling northward.

The Reds abandoned guns, foxholes and log-bunkered entrenchments in their haste to pull north, six miles east-northeast of Hoengsong in the center of the Allied line.

Gromyko "Nyet" Expected Today

PARIS, March 11 (AP)—Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko is expected to deliver a clear and positive "nyet" at tomorrow's Big Four meeting.

In Russia, "nyet" means "no," in case there is anyone left who hasn't heard.

The Western Power delegations will be greatly surprised, according to informed sources, if Gromyko does not say "nyet" to their compromise effort to arrange a Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Toward the end of Saturday's session at the Rose Palace in Paris, Alexandre Parodi, of France, announced that the U. S., France and Britain were ready to reword their proposed agenda to accommodate all of the Russian points.

That's why the delegates are meeting here—trying to arrange a list of subjects which the four foreign ministers can discuss with the idea of easing world tensions.

Gromyko listened to the rewording, said he reserved the right to comment on its length, and then speculated that it wasn't good enough. He denied that it accommodated all his points, or anything like all of them.

20,000 Reds Reported Wiped Out By Typhus

TOKYO, March 11 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur's headquarters has received a report that typhus in Korea has wiped out the equivalent of two Chinese Red divisions—20,000 men.

This report directly contradicts a statement from Eighth Army headquarters in Korea only two days ago that there was no confirmed evidence of any typhus epidemic among the Chinese and North Korean troops.

N. Y. Crime Probe Opens

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — The Senate Crime Investigating Committee begins public hearings here tomorrow with an all-star cast of nine witnesses including Gamblers Frank Erickson and Joe Adonis.

Tiny Cups Of Deadly Poison Sought After Loss In Bronx

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — An isolated beach section in the East Bronx was scoured today for tiny cups of a deadly poison. The poison could kill a child who touches it and then puts his finger in his mouth.

The poison is sodium fluoroacetate, known also by the number 1080. The Health Department says there is no antidote.

The purple, jelly-like substance was used in a rat war at Fort Schuyler, site of the State Maritime College.

It was distributed in little paper cups, like those used in restaurants for mayonnaise or relish.

Some of the cups got lost.

The search was set off last night by the deaths of two dogs, a cat and a number of birds.

By mid-afternoon 10 cups had been found outside the fort.

Later the police called off the search, saying they were satisfied all or most of the poison had been found.

Stanley Fox, vice-president of the Commonwealth Sanitation Company, said the containers were retrieved last Monday. Most were burned, he said, but a wind blew some into Long Island Sound.

First American War Dead From Korea Sail For Home

YOKOHAMA, Japan, March 11 (AP)—Fifty American war dead from four branches of service were embarked today on a somber, precedent-establishing voyage home.

They were the first war dead back from the icy mud of Korea.

They were of all ranks, from private to general, of various creeds and races. They died on many scattered battlefields.

This was the first time America has returned her dead from an active theater of war, although bodies of some Korean war casualties who died in hospitals have been returned home for burial.

The Army has evacuated all war cemeteries south of parallel 38 in Korea, transferring the bodies either to Pusan or to mortuaries in Japan.

The dead sailed for San Francisco aboard the transport General G. M. Randall, beneath an aerial cross of jet fighter planes, while the ship's bell tolled. Similar shiploads will follow.

The dead all have been identified positively. Officials said the list would be announced before the General Randall reached port.

On arrival in San Francisco, the identities will be checked again. Telegrams will be sent to relatives. Then, if desired, each body will be sent home with an individual escort.

Yugoslav Chief Jibes At Stalin

BELGRADE, March 11 (AP) — Premier Marshal Tito warned Russia and the Soviet satellites today that Yugoslavs stand ready to spill their blood to defend their independence and freedom.. He also made a sneering reference to Prime Minister Stalin—by name.

Dapper in a dark, doublebreasted civilian suit, Tito spoke before an audience of approximately 1,000 veterans who participated in World War II's underground fight. The speech was punctuated by applause.

For the first time, with Slavic scorn, he jibed at Stalin himself. Tito said he had come to the rally suffering from an attack of influenza which recently laid low Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj.

Yugoslavia's chief, who has taken over the Foreign Minister's duties, said the Soviet-led Cominform had interpreted Kardelj's absence as a sign that Yugoslavia was going over to the "imperialistic camp."

"That's why I am here," he said with a grin. "It's different in the eastern countries. If Stalin sneezes, that is considered a contribution to the science of Marxism-Leninism."

Broken Leg Penalty For Forgetfulness

NORFOLK, Va., March 11 (AP)—Archie Crawford, 55-year-old mechanic, took his car to a service station yesterday to have it greased.

He stayed in the car as it was hoisted six feet into the air on the grease rack and attendants slipped underneath to apply the grease.

When a brush fire broke out in the vicinity, Crawford stepped out of the car to get a closer look.

Hospital attendants say his fractured leg will heal okay.

First Of Baltimore's Quads Leaves Hospital

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pappas, who got all four of their children at once, have started bringing them home one at a time.

The heaviest of the celebrated quadruplets, Richard, left Maryland General Hospital yesterday weighing five pounds, nine ounces. He had gained four ounces over his birth weight.

Dr. Gibson J. Wells, hospital pediatrician who has been caring for the quads since their birth Feb. 24, says all are "doing beautifully."

The dead:

Oliver H. Roberts, 33, Prince Frederick, who perished in flames that destroyed one vehicle.

Clifton Gross, 24-year-old negro of Adelina, who died in Calvert County Hospital several hours later.

In critical condition was Merle Wood, 29, Prince Frederick.

Drive On Red Arsonists Stepped Up In Singapore

SINGAPORE, March 11 (AP) — British authorities gave shoot-to-kill orders today to police battling Red arsonists on the streets of Singapore and armed senior boys in the English public schools with rubber truncheons for use on junior Communist terrorists.

This was a part of a stepped-up campaign to stamp out Red terrorism in Singapore and the federation of Malaya. It came on the heels of a curt demand from Red China to admit a team from Peiping to investigate charges that Chinese are being persecuted in Malaya.

Proposed Central High

including black-out curtains for movies, television and electronics displays. Each classroom also will have storage for paper, books and supplies pertaining to that particular department.

Each also will have its own wash basin and drinking fountain. What is more, the architect noted, the ceilings will be acoustically treated and heating and ventilating in each room will be controlled by its own individual thermostat.

This proposed new Lonaconing building, which will be constructed on the old baseball diamond at the edge of Lonaconing and on the road leading to Barton, will have countless other features to make learning easier and more pleasant.

For instance, the entrance lobby will feature Vermont flagstone flooring and continuous glass exterior walls. There also will be fluorescent and incandescent lighting throughout the structure. It also will be equipped with the latest communications system between the principal's office and all of the classrooms. Steam heat, with a coal-burning boiler also are planned.

Separate Rooms

The music department will have separate rooms for vocal and instrumental teaching.

Minter observed yesterday that the Mt. Savage School is costing approximately 60 cents per cubic feet because of many money-saving modern innovations whereas the national average for school construction is between 90 cents and $1.25 per cubic foot.

The architect won't admit that he is superstitious. But he is keeping his fingers crossed. The date the bids on the new Central School are due is Friday, the 13th of April.

For the sleek look, ensemble each item of your costume carefully — stockings especially, today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHO DOES NOT marvel at the sleek costumes on the fashion pages? But the same perfection can be yours if you are willing to do the head and footwork that achieves it. The trained stylists who create such costumes consider no amount of thought and preparation too much to expend.

For example, a sylist may have a salon full of fabulous and expensive hats to choose from, but her search won't end there if she does not find the one that has a close affinity with the rest of the costume. The tireless quest may end up at the much more humble hat bar, since price is never a factor in assembling a harmonious costume. A look of continuity, the go-togetherness of the items is the major consideration.

For a Sleek Look

To attain the sleek look, nothing in your ensemble from the posy in your buttonhole to the stocking on your leg, is small enough to leave to careless chance.

In fact, with the new short slim skirts revealing greater lengths of leg, the stocking must be coordinated with considerable skill. The shade must be carefully chosen or it will break the hard-won straight line of your new spring outfit's silhouette.

Your best selection is a hosiery shade that is color co-ordinated to the main color of your costume. This does not necessarily mean matching, like dark navy hose with a navy suit. On the contrary, the smartest hose are much lighter in tone so they are merely a misty reflection of the color worn above.

All brands of stockings are color-keyed to the popular spring clothing colors, so with the list of mixmates below you can easily get the just-right shades you need. With some costume colors, several stocking shades are listed to allow for varying shoe colors.

New Stocking Shades

With dark or misty blue clothes, choose hose in misty blue, smoky violet or flesh; with brown, tawney-toned stockings; with burnt orange, apricot or sunny beige; with a beige costume, neutral beige; with gray, cloudy gray, flesh or misty blue; with red, rose beige; with violet and mauve, pinky beige and violet taupe; with dark green, golden beige; with black, flesh or off-black.

Flattery tips: The long slender heel to slim the ankle; the shadowed seam for slenderizing the leg; the hazy colors for keeping the legs beautifully inconspicuous.

Today's Sermonette

bomb at Hiroshima killing 100,000, but it doesn't worry us, it does not stir our conscience. And the dreadful thing about it all is we are developing a good conscience about it all.

Trueblood also says when a good conscience comes to a man by any other way than the gospel it is the invention of the devil. The thing that makes war so fearful is that we forget that we are human beings, sacred individuals for whom Christ died.

War is the devil's power over sinful men. Dr. Albert Schweitzer calls it reverence for life. It is he who tells us to look beneath the "Thou shalt not kill" and see what God wants us to see, namely, that life is precious. It is therefore a legitimate question: Where can men learn this reverence for life? How can we lose this hardness that permits us to read in the paper that millions of children are starving, and then sit down and enjoy a nice meal? There is only one place, and that is beneath the cross of Jesus. There we see the wages of sin is death.

Eagles And Bears Score Upset Wins

The Steelers, first half champions of the LaSalle High Bowling League, took two tremendous beatings, losing three games to the high-flying Redskins last week and dropping two out of three this week to the cellar-dwelling Bears. The three victories last week brought the Redskins to within one game of the leading Steelers. However, the third place Eagles pushed them back to two games by beating them three to nothing. "Big Jim" Connelly led the Eagles to their 3-0 victory over the Redskins with 145-418. Joe Fair topped the losing Skins' with a 137 single and 404 total.

Yugoslav Chief Jibes At Stalin

BELGRADE, March 11 (AP) — Premier Marshal Tito warned Russia and the Soviet satellites today that Yugoslavs stand ready to spill their blood to defend their independence and freedom.. He also made a sneering reference to Prime Minister Stalin—by name.

Dapper in a dark, doublebreasted civilian suit, Tito spoke before an audience of approximately 1,000 veterans who participated in World War II's underground fight. The speech was punctuated by applause.

For the first time, with Slavic scorn, he jibed at Stalin himself. Tito said he had come to the rally suffering from an attack of influenza which recently laid low Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj.

Yugoslavia's chief, who has taken over the Foreign Minister's duties, said the Soviet-led Cominform had interpreted Kardelj's absence as a sign that Yugoslavia was going over to the "imperialistic camp."

"That's why I am here," he said with a grin. "It's different in the eastern countries. If Stalin sneezes, that is considered a contribution to the science of Marxism-Leninism."

Broken Leg Penalty For Forgetfulness

NORFOLK, Va., March 11 (AP)—Archie Crawford, 55-year-old mechanic, took his car to a service station yesterday to have it greased.

He stayed in the car as it was hoisted six feet into the air on the grease rack and attendants slipped underneath to apply the grease.

When a brush fire broke out in the vicinity, Crawford stepped out of the car to get a closer look.

First Of Baltimore's Quads Leaves Hospital

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pappas, who got all four of their children at once, have started bringing them home one at a time.

The heaviest of the celebrated quadruplets, Richard, left Maryland General Hospital yesterday weighing five pounds, nine ounces. He had gained four ounces over his birth weight.

Dr. Gibson J. Wells, hospital pediatrician who has been caring for the quads since their birth Feb. 24, says all are "doing beautifully."

Two Die In Crash Near St. Leonard, Md.

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., March 11 (AP) — Two men were killed and another seriously injured early today in a highway smashup on Route 2 near St. Leonard.

The dead:

Oliver H. Roberts, 33, Prince Frederick, who perished in flames that destroyed one vehicle.

Clifton Gross, 24-year-old negro of Adelina, who died in Calvert County Hospital several hours later.

In critical condition was Merle Wood, 29, Prince Frederick.

Drive On Red Arsonists Stepped Up In Singapore

SINGAPORE, March 11 (AP) — British authorities gave shoot-to-kill orders today to police battling Red arsonists on the streets of Singapore and armed senior boys in the English public schools with rubber truncheons for use on junior Communist terrorists.

This was a part of a stepped-up campaign to stamp out Red terrorism in Singapore and the federation of Malaya. It came on the heels of a curt demand from Red China to admit a team from Peiping to investigate charges that Chinese are being persecuted in Malaya.

including black-out curtains for movies, television and electronics displays. Each classroom also will have storage for paper, books and supplies pertaining to that particular department.

Each also will have its own wash basin and drinking fountain. What is more, the architect noted, the ceilings will be acoustically treated and heating and ventilating in each room will be controlled by its own individual thermostat.

This proposed new Lonaconing building, which will be constructed on the old baseball diamond at the edge of Lonaconing and on the road leading to Barton, will have countless other features to make learning easier and more pleasant.

For instance, the entrance lobby will feature Vermont flagstone flooring and continuous glass exterior walls. There also will be fluorescent and incandescent lighting throughout the structure. It also will be equipped with the latest communications system between the principal's office and all of the classrooms. Steam heat, with a coal-burning boiler also are planned.

Separate Rooms

The music department will have separate rooms for vocal and instrumental teaching.

Minter observed yesterday that the Mt. Savage School is costing approximately 60 cents per cubic feet because of many money-saving modern innovations whereas the national average for school construction is between 90 cents and $1.25 per cubic foot.

The architect won't admit that he is superstitious. But he is keeping his fingers crossed. The date the bids on the new Central School are due is Friday, the 13th of April.

For the sleek look, ensemble each item of your costume carefully — stockings especially, today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHO DOES NOT marvel at the sleek costumes on the fashion pages? But the same perfection can be yours if you are willing to do the head and footwork that achieves it. The trained stylists who create such costumes consider no amount of thought and preparation too much to expend.

For example, a sylist may have a salon full of fabulous and expensive hats to choose from, but her search won't end there if she does not find the one that has a close affinity with the rest of the costume. The tireless quest may end up at the much more humble hat bar, since price is never a factor in assembling a harmonious costume. A look of continuity, the go-togetherness of the items is the major consideration.

For a Sleek Look

To attain the sleek look, nothing in your ensemble from the posy in your buttonhole to the stocking on your leg, is small enough to leave to careless chance.

In fact, with the new short slim skirts revealing greater lengths of leg, the stocking must be coordinated with considerable skill. The shade must be carefully chosen or it will break the hard-won straight line of your new spring outfit's silhouette.

Your best selection is a hosiery shade that is color co-ordinated to the main color of your costume. This does not necessarily mean matching, like dark navy hose with a navy suit. On the contrary, the smartest hose are much lighter in tone so they are merely a misty reflection of the color worn above.

All brands of stockings are color-keyed to the popular spring clothing colors, so with the list of mix-mates below you can easily get the just-right shades you need. With some costume colors, several stocking shades are listed to allow for varying shoe colors.

New Stocking Shades

With dark or misty blue clothes, choose hose in misty blue, smoky violet or flesh; with brown, tawney-toned stockings; with burnt orange, apricot or sunny beige; with a beige costume, neutral beige; with gray, cloudy gray, flesh or misty blue; with red, rose beige; with violet and mauve, pinky beige and violet taupe; with dark green, golden beige; with black, flesh or off-black.

Flattery tips: The long slender heel to slim the ankle; the shadowed seam for slenderizing the leg; the hazy colors for keeping the legs beautifully inconspicuous.

bomb at Hiroshima killing 100,000, but it doesn't worry us, it does not stir our conscience. And the dreadful thing about it all is we are developing a good conscience about it all.

Trueblood also says when a good conscience comes to a man by any other way than the gospel it is the invention of the devil. The thing that makes war so fearful is that we forget that we are human beings, sacred individuals for whom Christ died.

War is the devil's power over sinful men. Dr. Albert Schweitzer calls it reverence for life. It is he who tells us to look beneath the "Thou shalt not kill" and see what God wants us to see, namely, that life is precious. It is therefore a legitimate question: Where can men learn this reverence for life? How can we lose this hardness that permits us to read in the paper that millions of children are starving, and then sit down and enjoy a nice meal? There is only one place, and that is beneath the cross of Jesus. There we see the wages of sin is death.

Historical Pageant Will Be Staged As Feature Of Somerset Festival

Pioneer Life Will Be Given Stress

MEYERSDALE, Pa. — The 1951 historical pageant of the fourth annual Somerset County Maple Festival promises to be one of the outstanding attractions.

It will be presented in the State Theatre on Broadway in the Maple City April 13, 14 and 15, at 2:30 p. m.

The four episodes will portray early Indian and pioneer life in the county and the discovery of maple syrup; transportation on the National Old Trails Turnpike which passes through the southern part of Somerset county; the organization of the Farmers' National Grange and more specifically the Somerset County Pomona Grange, and the nationality dances and music of the younger immigrants to the north county mining towns.

A chorus of 45 voices, under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Rosenberger, will sing new, specially selected numbers appropriate to each episode. Several duets and solos will be rendered by the singers who come from Berlin, Meyersdale and Salisbury. The pageant orchestra will be under the direction of William M. Schaefer, music director of the Berlin-Brothersvalley High School in Berlin.

Iroquois Encampment

The first episode will show the Iroquois Indian encampment on the Peck farm near Meyersdale, and how the Indians first learned about making maple syrup. Chester Miller, music director of the Salisbury-Elk Lick High School, will sing the vocal solo.

The mighty Iroquois were greatly feared by all the other tribes. They were farmers as well as hunters, and once they discovered how to make the syrup from the sweet water of the maple tree, they set up permanent sugar camps to which their women and children journeyed each year during the sugar-making season.

The second part of the episode will deal with the story of George Crogan, "King of the Traders," the daring Irish adventurer who figured greatly in helping England get control of western Pennsylvania from the French who were aided by the Indians. The episode will close with the North American Indian dance by nine young men from Meyersdale.

Pack Horses

In the National Old Trails Turnpike episode life will be shown of the drovers with their pack horses and herds of cattle, sheep, hogs, and turkeys; wagoners with their Conestoga six-horse bell-teams, and the daily happenings at an old drovers' and wagoners' inn.

Several famous wagoners will appear including Dan Barchus of Salisbury, Nat Slicer of Meyersdale, and "Bella Hans" (John C.) Livengood, grandfather of editor emeritus William S. Livengood of the Meyersdale Republican. To his Conestoga wagon he hitched six iron-grey horses of which he was very proud.

In the pageant some very famous people will travel again through Somerset county on the Old Trails Turnpike. Some of these will be General Braddock, Christopher Gist, Mason and Dixon, Phineas T. Barnum and Jenny Lind, and President Polk and his wife. This episode will also feature a "bout" between two drovers, a square dance, and a clog dance by a wagoner, all of which contributed an evening's entertainment at the average inn on the Old Pike.

The third episode will bring the time down to the formation of the first National Farmers' Grange and later the Somerset County Pomona Grange. It will be under the direction of Miss Alice B. Ogline, present Somerset County Grange Master. She will be assisted by Miss Mildred M. Shultz, lecturer of the Somerset Grange.

The fourth episode will be furnished by the citizens of Windber, Boswell, and Central City in the northern part of the county. They will present nationality dances and accordian solos. Miss Agnes Shontz, instructor of the Shontz Dance Studio in Windber, will do Hungarian and Indian dances.

The entire pageant is under the direction of Miss Anna Bolden and Mrs. Rosenberger. The general committee is composed of Lawrence Lowstuter, Mrs. Silas Walker, A. J. Kerin, Mrs. Frances L. Imler, Walter W. Gress and Philip J. Reich.

West Virginia Legislature Extends Session

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 11 (AP) — Legislative leaders have decided to hold the session over until tomorrow to complete work on the $165,000,000 Budget Bill.

Although four of the five conference committees created by the two Houses to settle differences on controversial legislation were reported in agreement, the budget conferees still have not yet held their first meeting.

It was learned that the policy now agreed upon calls for the two Houses to act on the four other conference committee reports, then recess overnight to permit the Budget Committee to reach agreement on terms of the big appropriations measure.

This would call for the House and Senate to reconvene at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Under normal conditions the average person's heart beats more than 100,000 times every 24 hours.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

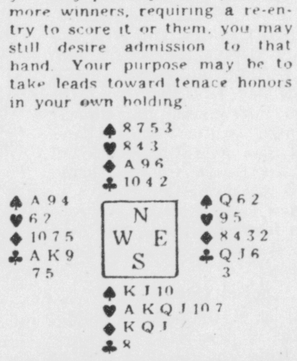
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

COUNT ENTRIES FIRST

WITH practically all of your side's really high cards concentrated in your own hand, opposite a weak dummy, one of the most important of your duties as declarer is to count up the possible entries into the inept holding before you play even one card to the first trick. Even if there is no long suit over there, in which you may possibly develop one or more winners, requiring a re-entry to score it or them, you may still desire admission to that hand. Your purpose may be to take leads toward tenace honors in your own holding.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♥	Pass

South could have made an extra trick in that contract, as the cards lay, but failed to exert the least bit of care, so scored only ten tricks. He was lucky, therefore, that North had not caused him to be in a contract of 5-Hearts because of his holding an ace opposite the game-demand two bid.

West took in his club K and led the A, which South ruffed with the heart 7—a very bad play. He cleared trumps with the A and K, then led to the diamond A so he could finesse the spade J. After that lost to the A, West put forth a third club, which South ruffed. Now, unable to get into the dummy to take the marked finesse against the spade Q, he had to keep leading from his own hand and so lost a trick to that card, therefore having to settle for exactly ten tricks.

You probably have already seen what South did incorrectly on the second trick. He should have ruffed that with a heart honor instead of the 7. That important card was smaller than the dummy's 8. After scoring two top trumps, he could then have used the 7 to the 8 as a re-entry to dummy. Counting up first and noting that he needed two dummy entries for two spade leads, he could hardly have failed to see how the second was buildable.

Tomorrow's Problem

If South bids 1-Club, North 1-Heart and South 2-Clubs on this rubber deal, what should follow?

Historical Pageant Will Be Staged As Feature Of Somerset Festival

Pioneer Life Will Be Given Stress

MEYERSDALE, Pa. — The 1951 historical pageant of the fourth annual Somerset County Maple Festival promises to be one of the outstanding attractions.

It will be presented in the State Theatre on Broadway in the Maple City April 13, 14 and 15, at 2:30 p. m.

The four episodes will portray early Indian and pioneer life in the county and the discovery of maple syrup; transportation on the National Old Trails Turnpike which passes through the southern part of Somerset county; the organization of the Farmers' National Grange and more specifically the Somerset County Pomona Grange, and the nationality dances and music of the younger immigrants to the north county mining towns.

A chorus of 45 voices, under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Rosenberger, will sing new, specially selected numbers appropriate to each episode. Several duets and solos will be rendered by the singers who come from Berlin, Meyersdale and Salisbury. The pageant orchestra will be under the direction of William M. Schaefer, music director of the Berlin-Brothersvalley High School in Berlin.

Iroquois Encampment

The first episode will show the Iroquois Indian encampment on the Peck farm near Meyersdale, and how the Indians first learned about making maple syrup. Chester Miller, music director of the Salisbury-Elk Lick High School, will sing the vocal solo.

The mighty Iroquois were greatly feared by all the other tribes. They were farmers as well as hunters, and once they discovered how to make the syrup from the sweet water of the maple tree, they set up permanent sugar camps to which their women and children journeyed each year during the sugar-making season.

The second part of the episode will deal with the story of George Crogan, "King of the Traders," the daring Irish adventurer who figured greatly in helping England get control of western Pennsylvania from the French who were aided by the Indians. The episode will close with the North American Indian dance by nine young men from Meyersdale.

Pack Horses

In the National Old Trails Turnpike episode life will be shown of the drovers with their pack horses and herds of cattle, sheep, hogs, and turkeys; wagoners with their Conestoga six-horse bell-teams, and the daily happenings at an old drovers' and wagoners' inn.

Several famous wagoners will appear including Dan Barchus of Salisbury, Nat Slicer of Meyersdale, and "Bella Hans" (John C.) Livengood, grandfather of editor emeritus William S. Livengood of the Meyersdale Republican. To his Conestoga wagon he hitched six iron-grey horses of which he was very proud.

In the pageant some very famous people will travel again through Somerset county on the Old Trails Turnpike. Some of these will be General Braddock, Christopher Gist, Mason and Dixon, Phineas T. Barnum and Jenny Lind, and President Polk and his wife. This episode will also feature a "bout" between two drovers, a square dance, and a clog dance by a wagoner, all of which contributed an evening's entertainment at the average inn on the Old Pike.

The third episode will bring the time down to the formation of the first National Farmers' Grange and later the Somerset County Pomona Grange. It will be under the direction of Miss Alice B. Ogline, present Somerset County Grange Master. She will be assisted by Miss Mildred M. Shultz, lecturer of the Somerset Grange.

The fourth episode will be furnished by the citizens of Windber, Boswell, and Central City in the northern part of the county. They will present nationality dances and accordian solos. Miss Agnes Shontz, instructor of the Shontz Dance Studio in Windber, will do Hungarian and Indian dances.

The entire pageant is under the direction of Miss Anna Bolden and Mrs. Rosenberger. The general committee is composed of Lawrence Lowstuter, Mrs. Silas Walker, A. J. Kerin, Mrs. Frances L. Imler, Walter W. Gress and Philip J. Reich.

West Virginia Legislature Extends Session

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 11 (AP) — Legislative leaders have decided to hold the session over until tomorrow to complete work on the $165,000,000 Budget Bill.

Although four of the five conference committees created by the two Houses to settle differences on controversial legislation were reported in agreement, the budget conferees still have not yet held their first meeting.

It was learned that the policy now agreed upon calls for the two Houses to act on the four other conference committee reports, then recess overnight to permit the Budget Committee to reach agreement on terms of the big appropriations measure.

This would call for the House and Senate to reconvene at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Under normal conditions the average person's heart beats more than 100,000 times every 24 hours.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

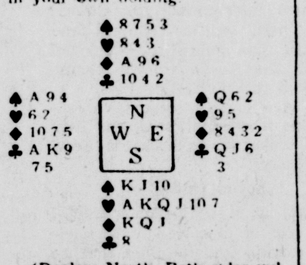
COUNT ENTRIES FIRST

WITH practically all of your side's really high cards concentrated in your own hand, opposite a weak dummy, one of the most important of your duties as declarer is to count up the possible entries into the inept holding before you play even one card to the first trick. Even if there is no long suit over there, in which you may possibly develop one or more winners, requiring a re-entry to score it or them, you may still desire admission to that hand. Your purpose may be to take leads toward tenace honors in your own holding.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

South could have made an extra trick in that contract, as the cards lay, but failed to exert the least bit of care, so scored only ten tricks. He was lucky, therefore, that North had not caused him to be in a contract of 5-Hearts because of his holding an ace opposite the game-demand two bid.

West took in his club K and led the A, which South ruffed with the heart 7—a very bad play. He cleared trumps with the A and K, then led to the diamond A so he could finesse the spade J. After that lost to the A, West put forth a third club, which South ruffed. Now, unable to get into the dummy to take the marked finesse against the spade Q, he had to keep leading from his own hand and so lost a trick to that card, therefore having to settle for exactly ten tricks.

You probably have already seen what South did incorrectly on the second trick. He should have ruffed that with a heart honor instead of the 7. That important card was smaller than the dummy's 8. After scoring two top trumps, he could then have used the 7 to the 8 as a re-entry to dummy. Counting up first and noting that he needed two dummy entries for two spade leads, he could hardly have failed to see how the second was buildable.

RFC: "Royal Fruit Cake"

The Senate Banking Subcommittee's probe of "influence" in Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans has brought out new demands for reorganizing or completely liquidating that agency. Sen. Kem (R., Mo.) introduced on March 5 a joint resolution for "termination of the powers and succession" of the RFC. Calling the agency "this royal fruit cake," Kem said a fundamental principle of American constitutional government is that "control of the federal purse strings should remain firmly in the hands of the elected representatives of the people in the Congress."

President Truman last year proposed to transfer the RFC to the Commerce Department, but the Senate vetoed the plan. At the same time Congress allowed a second Presidential plan, to shift the Federal Mortgage Association away from RFC to the Housing and Home Finance Agency, to go into effect. A new presidential reorganization plan now awaiting action by Congress would put the RFC under a single administrator.

The lending authority of the RFC was extended to June 30, 1954, with two additional years for liquidation, by a bill approved May 25, 1948. Congress at that time placed a top limit of $1.5 billion on outstanding RFC loans and investments at any one time.

Under earlier statutes the RFC would have expired on June 30, 1947. On that day President Truman signed a bill giving the agency a one-year extension of life, but ordering the rapid liquidation of its outstanding loans and security holdings and limiting new business to a total of $2 billion. The legislation provided also that no new loans could be made to foreign governments, to states, or on real estate.

The RFC was originally established by Congress in 1932 to meet financial emergencies of that period. In May 1946 President Truman said it would probably continue as a "more or less permanent agency."

In March 1949 the Hoover Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government recommended that the RFC, described as "accountable to nobody," be shifted to the Treasury Department. The Commission's final report, made on April 1, 1949, "strongly" recommended liquidation of the RFC and its replacement by "guarantees by the government operating through the Federal Reserve banks of loans to be made by commercial banks." Three commissioners, among them Secretary of State Acheson, dissented.

Founded at the request of President Hoover, the RFC's original function was to shore up banks, railroads, other institutions which needed new capital to weather the economic collapse of 1929-33. Even advances to states for relief purposes were made as loans. Under President Roosevelt the agency was given a more direct relief role. As R. W. Robey reported in the Washington Post in December 1933: "Through pouring funds into the economic organization at any legal available point, it has become a positive inflationary force."

In World War II the RFC loaned almost entirely to Allied governments and to defense industries. Under President Truman it has become concerned largely with small business. It now says that during the course of its operations, 90 per cent of RFC loans have been to small business (loans of less than $100,000), about 51 per cent to companies wanting to borrow less than $25,000.

In the last six months of 1950, of 1,579 business loans extended by the RFC, 1414 were for less than $100,000. More than half that total (841) were for $25,000 or less. Dollar-wise, however, big business loans predominated. Of the total of $140,987,000 lent to business, only $40,011,000 was accounted for by loans of $100,000 or less.

Russia Still Imperialistic

A radio "forum" recently asked its listeners what headline they would most like to read in the next day's newspaper. A sizable number said something like this: "Russians Revolt—Overthrow Communism."

Many observers are convinced that a majority of the people of Russia would vote against communism in a free election. Nowhere in the world where the voting is by genuinely secret ballot has communism ever won a majority.

But the men in the Kremlin know that, and they have gone to extremes in eliminating any chance of a successful uprising by force of arms. In a major war fought outside their own borders, they might have a powerful underground movement to cope with, but that's the maximum that could be expected.

But if this imaginary headline did appear in tomorrow's newspapers, what would it portend? Russia might no longer be Communist, but that land would still be Russia. Russia before 1917 was an imperialist country, just as it is today.

Russia has always been interested in controlling the Balkans, the Dardanelles, Manchuria. She has always shown concern about Korea, China, Japan. She has habitually been suspicious and uncooperative.

Ambassador Bedell Smith, in Moscow after the war, found himself facing the same bad manners and conspiratorial unpleasantness reported by Neill S. Brown as minister to Russia in the 1850s.

So it is safe to predict that if communism were overthrown for good in Russia, the U. S. would still have trouble with Russian imperialism. The task of containing Russia might be made easier if the Kremlin lost the support of Communist traitors in Washington, but the land of the steppes would still be a tough nut to crack. It is dangerous oversimplification to regard communism alone as the enemy.

The Great Deterrent

The declaration by Dr. Vannevar Bush that the atomic bomb could destroy Russia is the most emphatic statement on the subject which has come from any qualified American. And Dr. Bush does speak with authority. During World War II he was director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development and as such was the leader of the 30,000 scientists whose coordinated work resulted in giving America this new military weapon.

From the standpoint of America's and Europe's security it was heartening to have Dr. Bush speak as he did. But he also pointed out that the condition which now gives this country so great an advantage over the potential enemy could not be depended upon to keep the peace indefinitely. Nor is it of itself the complete safeguard.

The possibility always exists that the Soviet Union will learn all the secrets of atomic energy and be able to give them practical application.

The United States has sent an ambassador to the court of Generalissimo Franco in Madrid. The checks will be going over later.

How To Keep Well

Hidden Exercises

THE relationship between exercise and obesity is a moot question. Physicians in general agree that weight loss following running, jumping, bending, and twisting but the reduction is brought about chiefly by sweating. Any football or basketball player may part with 10 pounds in this manner in a vigorous game.

Exercise requires energy and it is conceivable that the individual who eats sparingly will lose more weight in the circumstances than one who consumes enough calories to make up—and more—for the energy that has been burned. On a low calorie diet, the exerciser will achieve greater success than the nonexerciser. Does fat accumulate over a muscle that is being exercised? This is a debatable point even tho the theory is advocated widely among beauty experts who make it their business to slenderize hips and busts by this means. Some claim even better results by combining physical exertion with massage. The only answer we can give is that fat still settles over the jaw muscles even tho they are on the go in those who eat all the time.

We do believe, however, that exercising the abdomen, legs, and pelvic girdle is important in obesity because it helps strengten the muscles which affect posture. Often there is a shift in the distribution of fat leading to strain on the back and legs along with increasing relaxation of the muscles of the abdomen. These conditions can be overcome by keeping the muscles concerned as strong as possible thru the "daily dozen". But it is not easy to go through a routine of calesthenics every morning on getting up. Discipline is required to bend on the count of one, touch the toes on the count of two, and return to normal at three. This has been labeled humorously, "the bedroom jerks."

More than a decade ago an Englishman described a method of exercising that could be done in working hours with out attracting attention. The plan was devised specifically for "fatties" and the constipated. It comprised a type of progressive resistance exercise capable of doubling the power of the normal muscles within four to six weeks.

The individual pulls his abdominal wall in and out at least 50 to 100 times during the day. Meanwhile the diaphragm is given a workout by breathing five times in a row. Each expiration is slightly less than the inspiration, so that by the fifth inspiration, the chest cage is expanded and held highly. This amounts to taking a deep breath and holding it. The pelvic floor is exercised by alternately drawing up and relaxing the anus. This is important because the pelvic floor frequently is weakened in the obese, leading to constipation, rectal prolapse, hemorrhoids, and urinary troubles. The fourth maneuver is most difficult to learn. It consists of moving the muscles along the sides of the abdomen by drawing the hip and lower ribs on one side. Furthermore, the head and body must be kept erect when walking to encourage the proper stance.

Those who advocate these invisible exercises recommend that they be done while traveling, waiting for a bus, or sitting at a desk or dinner the table. The secret is to do them so often they become habitual.

TINY BABIES

Mrs. F. writes: Is a very small baby given the same treatment as a premature?

REPLY

As a rule, yes, because a baby under 5½ pounds needs special attention. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet describing the care given prematures.

ACTH AND PAIN

D. T. writes: Does ACTH kill pain?

REPLY

Yes, by attacking the source of the disease, rather than through an analgesic action such as occurs with aspirin, codein, and morphine.

WEIGHT GAIN

Mrs. G. writes: Does reading while eating make a person gain weight?

REPLY

No, but eating while reading may do so.

ARTHRITIS SYMPTOMS

M. L. writes: Some physicians say I have arthritis and others say I do not. Could I have arthritis without swollen joints?

REPLY

Yes. Swelling is only one manifestation of the disease. Pain, stiffness, and crepitation (gritting sounds) are others.

STREPTOMYCIN

D. F. G. writes: Will streptomycin arrest tuberculosis of the lungs more than once? I have just broken down again after four years of health.

REPLY

It is possible and worth trying. Failure is likely, however, if the organisms are resistant to the streptomycin received previously.

NOT A SIGN

Mrs. F. writes: Are mentally ill people always dizzy?

REPLY

No. Dizziness is not a symptom of mental impairment except in the slang sense of the world.

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

President Truman's Temperament Is Major Topic Abroad; Hasty Replies To Oral Questions Worry Europeans; Impact Of American Ways Noticeable In Greece

(Ed. Note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

ATHENS — The chief subject every American is asked about, no matter what country he is traveling in, is Harry Truman's temperament. Why, you are asked, does your president write so many letters? Why does he call people so many names? Why does he make so many quick statements in press conferences?

Few people in the United States realize how widely the President's letter to Paul Hume, Washington music critic, was published—from London to the smaller cities of the Balkans. In Turkey some newspapers, having heard that the President once hurled an uncomplimentary epithet in my direction, got mixed up and thought the Hume letter had been written to me.

Leaving personalities strictly aside, however, the net effect of the President's mercurial disposition is to give the rest of the world an impression of American unsteadiness and a feeling that we are likely to fly off halfcocked. This applies to press conferences just as much as Presidential letter-writing, as two cases will illustrate.

A couple of weeks ago, Mr. Truman was asked at a press conference whether the United Nations forces in Korea would cross the 38th Parallel. He replied that he was leaving this entirely up to General MacArthur. Now, it so happened that this was not true. But true or not, nothing he could have said could have injured our relations more with other UN nations, for several reasons.

First, they feel important political decisions of this kind involving further embroglio with China and Russia are not up to the American military commander but to the entire UN. Second, both the French and the British repeatedly urged, requested and begged us not to go above the 38th Parallel prior to MacArthur's previous disastrous advance. Third. we are now demanding that Europe rearm under an American ground commander, an American naval commander and air commander. Unfortunately, Mr. Truman's hasty press conference statement makes them think twice about who would decide political matters regarding European defense.

The other Truman press conference boner was his famous statement that we are considering dropping the a-bomb on Korea which brought British Prime Minister Attlee hotfooting it to Washington.

Questions Sometimes Loaded

Most people don't remember that the three most recent Republican president's refused to answer oral questions at press conferences and that it is only a man of extraordinary versatility, such as Franklin Roosevelt was, who can get away with it. Every week, as 200 newsmen face the President, they come armed with questions which either they or their editors have concocted on a score of difficult, sometimes intricate, problems. Some are friendly, some are cauculated to embarrass, some merely want information. Presidents Coolidge and Hoover found it wiser to answer these only when handed in in writing, in advance, and this system of written questions began through the same kind of boner as that which Mr. Truman has occasionally been guilty of.

During the Washington Arms Conference in 1921 President Harding, who then permitted oral questions, was asked whether the treaty banning fortifications applied to the Japanese mainland which, of course, included Japanese islands. He replied in the affirmative. whereupon the State Department had to rewrite the entire treaty to clarify this issue. After that Harding permitted only questions in writing.

American Impact On Greece

You don't have to read the signs at the railroad stations to sense the difference between the Communist and capitalist countries when you pass a border in Europe. The minute you get into Greece from Communist Jugoslavia you can tell the difference in a dozen different ways — the availability of taxicabs, the speed of doing business, the vigor of the atmosphere. Part of this is due to American money and American methods, which have had a terrific impact on Greece during the last three years....Greece now rates as one of the most efficient countries in Europe. Gen. Reuben Jenkins, a former Georgia national guardsman, deserves great credit for training the Greek army into an aggressive, compact fighting force which could throw 10 divisions into battle overnight with 10 more divisions available in a week....Greek airways now cover the country. Whereas it once took days to get around Greece by boat, airplanes now reach almost every corner in a matter of hours. Much of this enterprise is due to American aid and encouragement. U. S. Ambassador Jack Peurifoy had a lot to do with persuading the Greek government to open its border to Jugoslavia at Salonika, thus permitting American food shipments to enter by the shortest route. I was on the first train from Greece into Jugoslavia carrying American food, marking a new milestone in Jugoslav-Greek friendship. Most people wouldn't realize the significance of this first pioneer train unless they remembered that, only brief months ago, Jugoslavia was still the chief source of arms for Communist guerrillas which had kept Greece in a state of bloody revolt for three years. In contrast, Jugoslav officials, with U. S. Ambassador George Allen, came from Belgrade to the Greek border to participate in a friendly ceremony with Greek officials and the U. S. consul at Salonika, Glenn Abbey....The greatest contribution to people-to-people friendship in the Near East over a long period of years has been supplied by Roberts College in Istanbul and the American Farm School in Salonika, under Charles House. Both have turned out thousands of youngsters who not only have improved their own country but have strengthened the friendship between the United States, Greece and Turkey. Wherever you go in the Near East, you bump into Roberts College graduates who are working for this better understanding.

Matter Of Fact

What The Russian Said

WASHINGTON

GENERAL OF THE ARMY MacArthur's prediction of a stalemate in Korea, and the news of another heavy Chinese offensive, should be read in context with the planned indiscretions of a Russian diplomat in this country. Neither the diplomat in question, nor the man he talked to, can be identified. But the diplomat's remarks are worth repeating.

The Russian asserted at the outset that the only reason the "imperialist" forces had not been finally defeated is that the Chinese do not have the necessary airpower and other modern weapons. In the last war, he said, the Soviet Union built a great air force and masses of weapons without outside technical assistance, and while the Nazis occupied key industrial areas in Russia.

The Chinese had unlimited manpower, and no part of China was occupied. Given "technical assistance" from the Soviet Union, Chinese deficiencies in airpower and modern weapons could in time—perhaps in a year or so—be remedied. Then the "imperialists" would be driven into the sea.

Meanwhile, the diplomat said flatly, neither the Russians nor the Chinese would entertain for an instant any proposal for a settlement which permitted the Americans to remain in Korea, at the 38th Parallel or anywhere else. Moreover, if by some chance the "imperialist" forces again reached the Manchurian and Soviet Siberian border, or if the Americans attacked the Chinese mainland, the Soviet Union would be forced to intervene openly in the war.

Base For Interpretation

These remarks can be best interpreted in the light of the Russian and Chinese roles in the Korean War. In the first place, it is now established, from documents captured in North Korea and from other evidence, that plans for capturing South Korea were first agreed upon between Mao Tse-tung and Stalin during Mao's first mission to Moscow, in December 1949.

From the first, Mao's contribution was to be in manpower, accordingly, the Chinese armies began to concentrate in Manchuria well in advance of June 25th. The Fifth and Sixth North Korean armies, which formed the spearhead of the attack, were sent across the border. These armies were actually composed of Chinese nationals of Korean origin, who had trained and fought with the Chinese Red Army. The Soviet contribution consisted of weapons, including tanks and aircraft, for the Koreans (for which the North Korean government was charged full value).

Meanwhile, the Chinese armies were kept in reserve in Manchuria, in case the plans miscarried. And the Kremlin, for its part, promised the Chinese to intervene with the Soviet Siberian air force if China itself were attacked. The plans of course did miscarry, and Mao, fulfilling his part of the bargain, sent in his best Chinese troops. But it is a striking fact that since the Chinese intervention, the Chinese have been fighting almost barehanded, with none of the equipment which the Russians initially supplied to the North Koreans.

In view of the foregoing, a reasonable interpretation of the Russian diplomat's remarks is about as follows:

Soviet Objectives

First, it is the primary Soviet objective if possible to persuade this country and its allies that no settlement of the Korean War is possible, and that the war is therefore endless and hopeless. If the UN forces now withdraw, the Kremlin will have enjoyed a marvelously cheap victory.

Yet if the UN forces do not withdraw, and the Chinese are defeated, it is a secondary Soviet objective to make as certain as possible that the UN forces do not take action which would make it necessary for Stalin to honor his bargain with China, and intervene openly.

Finally, it is clear that the Russians are extraordinarily reluctant so to strengthen the Chinese

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Missing Link

IN ALL THE excitement about Europe, with such voluminous and expert testimony about how many divisions we must send to defend the Rhine and other touristic rivers, little or nothing is being said about Central or South America.

It would seem that this is the missing link in our policy. These two American continents are joined together in an association of mutual self-interest which makes for a natural alliance. Besides, we are, with increasing rapidity, recognizing that with the probable exception of diamonds, the American continents can provide all essential minerals and metals necessary for our production and defense. In fact, with sensible capital investments, the American continents could supply all the raw materials essential to our well-being.

Yet, so strong is the European tradition among us that we plunge into constantly more expensive adventures on the continent of Europe, while we ignore altogether the great riches on the American continents.

Governor Dewey's metallurgical knowledge failed him when he testified before Senator Connally's committee, for the Governor seems to have forgotten the resources and reserves of Brazil and Chile in his excitement over how many divisions General Eisenhower requires, something about which General Eisenhower has been discreetly silent.

Herbert Hoover, who has always been a mining engineer and a metallurgist, who wrote a classical textbook on the subject and translated another from the Latin, contested Governor Dewey's worries in the following language:

"I presume Governor Dewey's statement was made in reply to one of mine, and Governor Dewey limited his statement to continental United States. I said that it is possible, by proper economic policy, to develop all of the necessary and critical raw materials in the Western Hemisphere. I include the whole hemisphere, and not the United States alone . . .

"Now, supplies of many of these critical commodities are a matter of price. For instance, if there was a sufficient price, and I do not think that it is a very much larger price, probably five cents a pound in the present buying power of money, this country could produce all of the zinc and all the lead, and the Western Hemisphere could produce all of the copper that it would require. As to uranium supplies they would be more costly, if we had to get them out of the Western Hemisphere. There is also cobalt and chromium and there are aluminum ores. They are all possible at a sufficient price. So that the argument does not run in full. It only runs to the expenditures."

So, I looked up a few facts:

Antimony ore is available in Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Honduras, th United States and Mexico.

Bauxite, from which aluminum is made, is available in British Guiana, Curacao, Jamaica, Surinam and the United States.

Chrome ore is found in the United States and Canada, the Philippines and Cuba.

Cobalt ore is found in the United States and Canada.

Copper is found in Chile, Peru and Ecuador, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Lead ore comes from the United States, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Canada, Mexico and Newfoundland.

Manganese is found in the United States and Mexico, but more in Brazil, Chile and Cuba.

Petroleum comes from the United States, Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia.

Tin ore comes to us in vast quantities from Bolivia. There is also tin ore in Brazil and Chile.

Much is said about the lack of tungsten. Argentina, Brazil, the United States, Canada, Mexico, Bolivia and Peru supply tungsten.

Vanadium comes from Peru and the United States.

Zinc comes from the Argentine, Bolivia, Peru, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

This is neither a complete list of metals nor a complete list of what is available on the American continents. It is a sample to cut sharply into the argument that these two great continents, which for centuries have been regarded as nature's treasure house, have suddenly become Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard merely to establish a political argument. Brazil alone, with adequate capital investment and engineering skill, can show the politician that it is not necessary to kill American boys to get metals.

As for uranium, there is ample on the American continent and everybody knows it, including Joe Stalin—and the Geiger counters are chasing each other to find samples.

If we think of the American continents more, and devote ourselves to cultivating the good will of our Latin neighbors, we will be showing some common sense.

Best Investments

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Fla., March 11—This week I am not discussing the immediate effect of inflation which I have already covered. Rather, I am telling you what will happen 10 years hence. During the past 10 years our dollar has declined in value to about 50 cents. If we should get into World War III, I expect, during the 10 postwar years, our dollar will become worth less than 25 cents. How can readers protect their hard-earned savings under such conditions?

Health And Education

Cold statistics show that the greatest wealth consists of good health and good judgment. The most wasteful people and the poorest investors are those who sacrifice their health for money, pleasure, or social position. They will ultimately be treated by society as an orange peel is treated after one has sucked out the juice. Hence, wise investors will put health first. The next best investment is to give our children good, practical education and sane religious ideals. Therefore, storing up physical, mental and spiritual resources is of great importance. These are the best hedges against long-term inflation. The less the dollar becomes worth, the more these reserves will be worth.

With these blessings you surely will also want a home. If you have none and have the funds, buy one now. When you buy commodities for less than they can be produced, or buy land for less than it can be cleared, or buy a house for less than it can be built, all for your own use, you are sure to make money. Some day people will see the light and switch some of their bank accounts, which may constantly become of less value, into good land and houses. Remember there are over two hundred billions of dollars almost idle in bank accounts or disposable government bonds which could be spent for better homes.

What About World War III?

Only Mr. Stalin knows whether World War III will start in 1951. His present policy seems to be to scare us, with violent propaganda, to spend hundreds of billions more on armaments and thereby force serious inflation and depression upon us. Russia may believe that the easiest way to beat the capitalistic system is to make it nonprofitable. If so, this surely will cause our people to scramble for real estate, commodities (oils, metals, etc.) and the stocks of merchandising companies. They will buy no bonds except "convertibles."

Some ask who will then have the money to buy farms, houses, and other real resources? My answer is that the farmers, merchants, and even wage workers who now have over a billion of almost idle funds will then have the money. Not being satisfied with what they now have and hating to pay taxes, I fear they will force the government to print more paper money and issue more bonds. As a result, if World War III should come, I expect to see, during the post-war years, letter postage at 25 cents, hair cuts at $5, and common labor at 100 per day.

We Have The Brains

Conditions in the United States will be tough for all who are now living on their money; but those with character, education, and energy to work will come through okay. Just as the brains of man overcame the wild beasts, so the brains of the United States, England and Western Europe should overcome the savages of Russia and elsewhere. Their representatives now yelp and howl, like animals, at the sessions of the United Nations; but we have nothing to fear if we continue to build up our health, our intelligence, and put our money into real property instead of depending upon paper profits or perhaps even bank books.

We may temporarily "lose face" by quitting Korea. Indo-China, India, Burma, and China will appear to scare us off. If we avoid

He was a good man, and full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. Acts 11:24. Read verses 19-30.

All too frequently the spiritual estate of the Christian fellowship is in the hands of unspiritual leadership. What a lift the church would experience if it were in the hands of men whose goodness followed the pattern which Jesus described!

He thought of a good man as a humble man. When he wanted to define humility he dramatized it when he stooped and washed his disciples' feet. "If I, your Lord and Master, wash your feet, you ought also to wash one another's feet."

Also, a good man, according to Jesus, identified himself with humanity everywhere. "If all men count with you . . . If you can walk with kings nor lose the common touch . . . you'll be a man." (Kipling) The selfconscious feeling of national, religious, and racial groups that they alone are the people who count, is one of the fountain heads of the world's woe.

Again, Jesps would regard a man as good who honestly sets out to find the ultimate truth that lies back of this bewildering, measureless universe. The more staggering the universe becomes, and the more hopeless the conditions, the more necessary it is to have a personal God.

Let Us Pray: Give us a spirit, our Father, that seeks to measure life alongside the life of Jesus. Amen.

RFC: "Royal Fruit Cake"

The Senate Banking Subcommittee's probe of "influence" in Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans has brought out new demands for reorganizing or completely liquidating that agency. Sen. Kem (R., Mo.) introduced on March 5 a joint resolution for "termination of the powers and succession" of the RFC. Calling the agency "this royal fruit cake," Kem said a fundamental principle of American constitutional government is that "control of the federal purse strings should remain firmly in the hands of the elected representatives of the people in the Congress."

President Truman last year proposed to transfer the RFC to the Commerce Department, but the Senate vetoed the plan. At the same time Congress allowed a second Presidential plan, to shift the Federal Mortgage Association away from RFC to the Housing and Home Finance Agency, to go into effect. A new presidential reorganization plan now awaiting action by Congress would put the RFC under a single administrator.

The lending authority of the RFC was extended to June 30, 1954, with two additional years for liquidation, by a bill approved May 25, 1948. Congress at that time placed a top limit of $1.5 billion on outstanding RFC loans and investments at any one time.

Under earlier statutes the RFC would have expired on June 30, 1947. On that day President Truman signed a bill giving the agency a one-year extension of life, but ordering the rapid liquidation of its outstanding loans and security holdings and limiting new business to a total of $2 billion. The legislation provided also that no new loans could be made to foreign governments, to states, or on real estate.

The RFC was originally established by Congress in 1932 to meet financial emergencies of that period. In May 1946 President Truman said it would probably continue as a "more or less permanent agency."

In March 1949 the Hoover Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government recommended that the RFC, described as "accountable to nobody," be shifted to the Treasury Department. The Commission's final report, made on April 1, 1949, "strongly" recommended liquidation of the RFC and its replacement by "guarantees by the government operating through the Federal Reserve banks of loans to be made by commercial banks." Three commissioners, among them Secretary of State Acheson, dissented.

Founded at the request of President Hoover, the RFC's original function was to shore up banks, railroads, other institutions which needed new capital to weather the economic collapse of 1929-33. Even advances to states for relief purposes were made as loans. Under President Roosevelt the agency was given a more direct relief role. As R. W. Robey reported in the Washington Post in December 1933: "Through pouring funds into the economic organization at any legal available point, it has become a positive inflationary force."

In World War II the RFC loaned almost entirely to Allied governments and to defense industries. Under President Truman it has become concerned largely with small business. It now says that during the course of its operations, 90 per cent of RFC loans have been to small business (loans of less than $100,000), about 51 per cent to companies wanting to borrow less than $25,000.

In the last six months of 1950, of 1,579 business loans extended by the RFC, 1414 were for less than $100,000. More than half that total (841) were for $25,000 or less. Dollar-wise, however, big business loans predominated. Of the total of $140,987,000 lent to business, only $40,011,000 was accounted for by loans of $100,000 or less.

Russia Still Imperialistic

A radio "forum" recently asked its listeners what headline they would most like to read in the next day's newspaper. A sizable number said something like this: "Russians Revolt—Overthrow Communism."

Many observers are convinced that a majority of the people of Russia would vote against communism in a free election. Nowhere in the world where the voting is by genuinely secret ballot has communism ever won a majority.

But the men in the Kremlin know that, and they have gone to extremes in eliminating any chance of a successful uprising by force of arms. In a major war fought outside their own borders, they might have a powerful underground movement to cope with, but that's the maximum that could be expected.

But if this imaginary headline did appear in tomorrow's newspapers, what would it portend? Russia might no longer be Communist, but that land would still be Russia. Russia before 1917 was an imperialist country, just as it is today.

Russia has always been interested in controlling the Balkans, the Dardanelles, Manchuria. She has always shown concern about Korea, China, Japan. She has habitually been suspicious and uncooperative.

Ambassador Bedell Smith, in Moscow after the war, found himself facing the same bad manners and conspiratorial unpleasantness reported by Neill S. Brown as minister to Russia in the 1850s.

So it is safe to predict that if communism were overthrown for good in Russia, the U. S. would still have trouble with Russian imperialism. The task of containing Russia might be made easier if the Kremlin lost the support of Communist traitors in Washington, but the land of the steppes would still be a tough nut to crack. It is dangerous oversimplification to regard communism alone as the enemy.

The Great Deterrent

The declaration by Dr. Vannevar Bush that the atomic bomb could destroy Russia is the most emphatic statement on the subject which has come from any qualified American. And Dr. Bush does speak with authority. During World War II he was director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development and as such was the leader of the 30,000 scientists whose coordinated work resulted in giving America this new military weapon.

From the standpoint of America's and Europe's security it was heartening to have Dr. Bush speak as he did. But he also pointed out that the condition which now gives this country so great an advantage over the potential enemy could not be depended upon to keep the peace indefinitely. Nor is it of itself the complete safeguard.

The possibility always exists that the Soviet Union will learn all the secrets of atomic energy and be able to give them practical application.

The United States has sent an ambassador to the court of Generalissimo Franco in Madrid. The checks will be going over later.

How To Keep Well

Hidden Exercises

THE relationship between exercise and obesity is a moot question. Physicians in general agree that weight loss following running, jumping, bending, and twisting but the reduction is brought about chiefly by sweating. Any football or basketball player may part with 10 pounds in this manner in a vigorous game.

Exercise requires energy and it is conceivable that the individual who eats sparingly will lose more weight in the circumstances than one who consumes enough calories to make up—and more—for the energy that has been burned. On a low calorie diet, the exerciser will achieve greater success than the nonexerciser. Does fat accumulate over a muscle that is being exercised? This is a debatable point even tho the theory is advocated widely among beauty experts who make it their business to slenderize hips and busts by this means. Some claim even better results by combining physical exertion with massage. The only answer we can give is that fat still settles over the jaw muscles even tho they are on the go in those who eat all the time.

We do believe, however, that exercising the abdomen, legs, and pelvic girdle is important in obesity because it helps strengten the muscles which affect posture. Often there is a shift in the distribution of fat leading to strain on the back and legs along with increasing relaxation of the muscles of the abdomen. These conditions can be overcome by keeping the muscles concerned as strong as possible thru the "daily dozen". But it is not easy to go through a routine of calesthenics every morning on getting up. Discipline is required to bend on the count of one, touch the toes on the count of two, and return to normal at three. This has been labeled humorously, "the bedroom jerks."

More than a decade ago an Englishman described a method of exercising that could be done in working hours with out attracting attention. The plan was devised specifically for "fatties" and the constipated. It comprised a type of progressive resistance exercise capable of doubling the power of the normal muscles within four to six weeks.

The individual pulls his abdominal wall in and out at least 50 to 100 times during the day. Meanwhile the diaphragm is given a workout by breathing five times in a row. Each expiration is slightly less than the inspiration, so that by the fifth inspiration, the chest cage is expanded and held highly. This amounts to taking a deep breath and holding it. The pelvic floor is exercised by alternately drawing up and relaxing the anus. This is important because the pelvic floor frequently is weakened in the obese, leading to constipation, rectal prolapse, hemorrhoids, and urinary troubles. The fourth maneuver is most difficult to learn. It consists of moving the muscles along the sides of the abdomen by drawing the hip and lower ribs on one side. Furthermore, the head and body must be kept erect when walking to encourage the proper stance.

Those who advocate these invisible exercises recommend that they be done while traveling, waiting for a bus, or sitting at a desk or dinner the table. The secret is to do them so often they become habitual.

TINY BABIES

Mrs. F. writes: Is a very small baby given the same treatment as a premature?

REPLY

As a rule, yes, because a baby under 5½ pounds needs special attention. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet describing the care given prematures.

ACTH AND PAIN

D. T. writes: Does ACTH kill pain?

REPLY

Yes, by attacking the source of the disease, rather than through an analgesic action such as occurs with aspirin, codein, and morphine.

WEIGHT GAIN

Mrs. G. writes: Does reading while eating make a person gain weight?

REPLY

No, but eating while reading may do so.

ARTHRITIS SYMPTOMS

M. L. writes: Some physicians say I have arthritis and others say I do not. Could I have arthritis without swollen joints?

REPLY

Yes. Swelling is only one manifestation of the disease. Pain, stiffness, and crepitation (gritting sounds) are others.

STREPTOMYCIN

D. F. G. writes: Will streptomycin arrest tuberculosis of the lungs more than once? I have just broken down again after four years of health.

REPLY

It is possible and worth trying. Failure is likely, however, if the organisms are resistant to the streptomycin received previously.

NOT A SIGN

Mrs. F. writes: Are mentally ill people always dizzy?

REPLY

No. Dizziness is not a symptom of mental impairment except in the slang sense of the world.

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

President Truman's Temperament Is Major Topic Abroad; Hasty Replies To Oral Questions Worry Europeans; Impact Of American Ways Noticeable In Greece

(Ed. Note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

ATHENS — The chief subject every American is asked about, no matter what country he is traveling in, is Harry Truman's temperament. Why, you are asked, does your president write so many letters? Why does he call people so many names? Why does he make so many quick statements in press conferences?

Few people in the United States realize how widely the President's letter to Paul Hume, Washington music critic, was published—from London to the smaller cities of the Balkans. In Turkey some newspapers, having heard that the President once hurled an uncomplimentary epithet in my direction, got mixed up and thought the Hume letter had been written to me.

Leaving personalities strictly aside, however, the net effect of the President's mercurial disposition is to give the rest of the world an impression of American unsteadiness and a feeling that we are likely to fly off halfcocked. This applies to press conferences just as much as Presidential letter-writing, as two cases will illustrate.

A couple of weeks ago, Mr. Truman was asked at a press conference whether the United Nations forces in Korea would cross the 38th Parallel. He replied that he was leaving this entirely up to General MacArthur. Now, it so happened that this was not true. But true or not, nothing he could have said could have injured our relations more with other UN nations, for several reasons.

First, they feel important political decisions of this kind involving further embroglio with China and Russia are not up to the American military commander but to the entire UN. Second, both the French and the British repeatedly urged, requested and begged us not to go above the 38th Parallel prior to MacArthur's previous disastrous advance. Third, we are now demanding that Europe rearm under an American ground commander, an American naval commander and air commander. Unfortunately, Mr. Truman's hasty press conference statement makes them think twice about who would decide political matters regarding European defense.

The other Truman press conference boner was his famous statement that we are considering dropping the a-bomb on Korea which brought British Prime Minister Attlee hotfooting it to Washington.

Questions Sometimes Loaded

Most people don't remember that the three most recent Republican president's refused to answer oral questions at press conferences and that it is only a man of extraordinary versatility, such as Franklin Roosevelt was, who can get away with it. Every week, as 200 newsmen face the President, they come armed with questions which either they or their editors have concocted on a score of difficult, sometimes intricate, problems. Some are friendly, some are cauculated to embarrass, some merely want information. Presidents Coolidge and Hoover found it wiser to answer these only when handed in in writing, in advance, and this system of written questions began through the same kind of boner as that which Mr. Truman has occasionally been guilty of.

During the Washington Arms Conference in 1921 President Harding, who then permitted oral questions, was asked whether the treaty banning fortifications applied to the Japanese mainland which, of course, included Japanese islands. He replied in the affirmative, whereupon the State Department had to rewrite the entire treaty to clarify this issue. After that Harding permitted only questions in writing.

American Impact On Greece

You don't have to read the signs at the railroad stations to sense the difference between the Communist and capitalist countries when you pass a border in Europe. The minute you get into Greece from Communist Jugoslavia you can tell the difference in a dozen different ways — the availability of taxicabs, the speed of doing business, the vigor of the atmosphere. Part of this is due to American money and American methods, which have had a terrific impact on Greece during the last three years....Greece now rates as one of the most efficient countries in Europe. Gen. Reuben Jenkins, a former Georgia national guardsman, deserves great credit for training the Greek army into an aggressive, compact fighting force which could throw 10 divisions into battle overnight with 10 more divisions available in a week....Greek airways now cover the country. Whereas it once took days to get around Greece by boat, airplanes now reach almost every corner in a matter of hours. Much of this enterprise is due to American aid and encouragement. U. S. Ambassador Jack Peurifoy had a lot to do with persuading the Greek government to open its border to Jugoslavia at Salonika, thus permitting American food shipments to enter by the shortest route. I was on the first train from Greece into Jugoslavia carrying American food, marking a new milestone in Jugoslav-Greek friendship. Most people wouldn't realize the significance of this first pioneer train unless they remembered that, only brief months ago, Jugoslavia was still the chief source of arms for Communist guerrillas which had kept Greece in a state of bloody revolt for three years. In contrast, Jugoslav officials, with U. S. Ambassador George Allen, came from Belgrade to the Greek border to participate in a friendly ceremony with Greek officials and the U. S. consul at Salonika, Glenn Abbey....The greatest contribution to people-to-people friendship in the Near East over a long period of years has been supplied by Roberts College in Istanbul and the American Farm School in Salonika, under Charles House. Both have turned out thousands of youngsters who not only have improved their own country but have strengthened the friendship between the United States, Greece and Turkey. Wherever you go in the Near East, you bump into Roberts College graduates who are working for this better understanding.

What The Russian Said

WASHINGTON

GENERAL OF THE ARMY MacArthur's prediction of a stalemate in Korea, and the news of another heavy Chinese offensive, should be read in context with the planned indiscretions of a Russian diplomat in this country. Neither the diplomat in question, nor the man he talked to, can be identified. But the diplomat's remarks are worth repeating.

The Russian asserted at the outset that the only reason the "imperialist" forces had not been finally defeated is that the Chinese do not have the necessary airpower and other modern weapons. In the last war, he said, the Soviet Union built a great air force and masses of weapons without outside technical assistance, and while the Nazis occupied key industrial areas in Russia.

The Chinese had unlimited manpower, and no part of China was occupied. Given "technical assistance" from the Soviet Union, Chinese deficiencies in airpower and modern weapons could in time—perhaps in a year or so—be remedied. Then the "imperialists" would be driven into the sea.

Meanwhile, the diplomat said flatly, neither the Russians nor the Chinese would entertain for an instant any proposal for a settlement which permitted the Americans to remain in Korea, at the 38th Parallel or anywhere else. Moreover, if by some chance the "imperialist" forces again reached the Manchurian and Soviet Siberian border, or if the Americans attacked the Chinese mainland, the Soviet Union would be forced to intervene openly in the war.

Base For Interpretation

These remarks can be best interpreted in the light of the Russian and Chinese roles in the Korean War. In the first place, it is now established, from documents captured in North Korea and from other evidence, that plans for capturing South Korea were first agreed upon between Mao Tse-tung and Stalin during Mao's first mission to Moscow, in December 1949.

From the first, Mao's contribution was to be in manpower, accordingly, the Chinese armies began to concentrate in Manchuria well in advance of June 25th. The Fifth and Sixth North Korean armies, which formed the spearhead of the attack, were sent across the border. These armies were actually composed of Chinese nationals of Korean origin, who had trained and fought with the Chinese Red Army. The Soviet contribution consisted of weapons, including tanks and aircraft, for the Koreans (for which the North Korean government was charged full value).

Meanwhile, the Chinese armies were kept in reserve in Manchuria, in case the plans miscarried. And the Kremlin, for its part, promised the Chinese to intervene with the Soviet Siberian air force if China itself were attacked. The plans of course did miscarry, and Mao, fulfilling his part of the bargain, sent in his best Chinese troops. But it is a striking fact that since the Chinese intervention, the Chinese have been fighting almost barehanded, with none of the equipment which the Russians initially supplied to the North Koreans.

In view of the foregoing, a reasonable interpretation of the Russian diplomat's remarks is about as follows:

Soviet Objectives

First, it is the primary Soviet objective if possible to persuade this country and its allies that no settlement of the Korean War is possible, and that the war is therefore endless and hopeless. If the UN forces now withdraw, the Kremlin will have enjoyed a marvelously cheap victory.

Yet if the UN forces do not withdraw, and the Chinese are defeated, it is a secondary Soviet objective to make as certain as possible that the UN forces do not take action which would make it necessary for Stalin to honor his bargain with China, and intervene openly.

Finally, it is clear that the Russians are extraordinarily reluctant so to strengthen the Chinese

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Missing Link

IN ALL THE excitement about Europe, with such voluminous and expert testimony about how many divisions we must send to defend the Rhine and other touristic rivers, little or nothing is being said about Central or South America.

It would seem that this is the missing link in our policy. These two American continents are joined together in an association of mutual self-interest which makes for a natural alliance. Besides, we are, with increasing rapidity, recognizing that with the probable exception of diamonds, the American continents can provide all essential minerals and metals necessary for our production and defense. In fact, with sensible capital investments, the American continents could supply all the raw materials essential to our well-being.

Yet, so strong is the European tradition among us that we plunge into constantly more expensive adventures on the continent of Europe, while we ignore altogether the great riches on the American continents.

Governor Dewey's metallurgical knowledge failed him when he testified before Senator Connally's committee, for the Governor seems to have forgotten the resources and reserves of Brazil and Chile in his excitement over how many divisions General Eisenhower requires, something about which General Eisenhower has been discreetly silent.

Herbert Hoover, who has always been a mining engineer and a metallurgist, who wrote a classical textbook on the subject and translated another from the Latin, contested Governor Dewey's worries in the following language:

"I presume Governor Dewey's statement was made in reply to one of mine, and Governor Dewey limited his statement to continental United States. I said that it is possible, by proper economic policy, to develop all of the necessary and critical raw materials in the Western Hemisphere. I include the whole hemisphere, and not the United States alone . . .

"Now, supplies of many of these critical commodities are a matter of price. For instance, if there was a sufficient price, and I do not think that it is a very much larger price, probably five cents a pound in the present buying power of money, this country could produce all of the zinc and all the lead, and the Western Hemisphere could produce all of the copper that it would require. As to uranium supplies they would be more costly, if we had to get them out of the Western Hemisphere. There is also cobalt and chromium and there are aluminum ores. They are all possible at a sufficient price. So that the argument does not run in full. It only runs to the expenditures."

So, I looked up a few facts:

Antimony ore is available in Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Honduras, th United States and Mexico.

Bauxite, from which aluminum is made, is available in British Guiana, Curacao, Jamaica, Surinam and the United States.

Chrome ore is found in the United States and Canada, the Philippines and Cuba.

Cobalt ore is found in the United States and Canada.

Copper is found in Chile, Peru and Ecuador, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Lead ore comes from the United States, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Canada, Mexico and Newfoundland.

Manganese is found in the United States and Mexico, but more in Brazil, Chile and Cuba.

Petroleum comes from the United States, Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia.

Tin ore comes to us in vast quantities from Bolivia. There is also tin ore in Brazil and Chile.

Much is said about the lack of tungsten. Argentina, Brazil, the United States, Canada, Mexico, Bolivia and Peru supply tungsten.

Vanadium comes from Peru and the United States.

Zinc comes from the Argentine, Bolivia, Peru, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

This is neither a complete list of metals nor a complete list of what is available on the American continents. It is a sample to cut sharply into the argument that these two great continents, which for centuries have been regarded as nature's treasure house, have suddenly become Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard merely to establish a political argument. Brazil alone, with adequate capital investment and engineering skill, can show the politician that it is not necessary to kill American boys to get metals.

As for uranium, there is ample on the American continent and everybody knows it, including Joe Stalin—and the Geiger counters are chasing each other to find samples.

If we think of the American continents more, and devote ourselves to cultivating the good will of our Latin neighbors, we will be showing some common sense.

Best Investments

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Fla., March 11—This week I am not discussing the immediate effect of inflation which I have already covered. Rather, I am telling you what will happen 10 years hence. During the past 10 years our dollar has declined in value to about 50 cents. If we should get into World War III, I expect, during the 10 postwar years, our dollar will become worth less than 25 cents. How can readers protect their hard-earned savings under such conditions?

Health And Education

Cold statistics show that the greatest wealth consists of good health and good judgment. The most wasteful people and the poorest investors are those who sacrifice their health for money, pleasure, or social position. They will ultimately be treated by society as an orange peel is treated after one has sucked out the juice. Hence, wise investors will put health first. The next best investment is to give our children good, practical education and sane religious ideals. Therefore, storing up physical, mental and spiritual resources is of great importance. These are the best hedges against long-term inflation. The less the dollar becomes worth, the more these reserves will be worth.

With these blessings you surely will also want a home. If you have none and have the funds, buy one now. When you buy commodities for less than they can be produced, or buy land for less than it can be cleared, or buy a house for less than it can be built, all for your own use, you are sure to make money. Some day people will see the light and switch some of their bank accounts, which may constantly become of less value, into good land and houses. Remember there are over two hundred billions of dollars almost idle in bank accounts or disposable government bonds which could be spent for better homes.

What About World War III?

Only Mr. Stalin knows whether World War III will start in 1951. His present policy seems to be to scare us, with violent propaganda, to spend hundreds of billions more on armaments and thereby force serious inflation and depression upon us. Russia may believe that the easiest way to beat the capitalistic system is to make it nonprofitable. If so, this surely will cause our people to scramble for real estate, commodities (oils, metals, etc.) and the stocks of merchandising companies. They will buy no bonds except "convertibles."

Some ask who will then have the money to buy farms, houses, and other real resources? My answer is that the farmers, merchants, and even wage workers who now have over a billion of almost idle funds will then have the money. Not being satisfied with what they now have and hating to pay taxes, I fear they will force the government to print more paper money and issue more bonds. As a result, if World War III should come, I expect to see, during the post-war years, letter postage at 25 cents, hair cuts at $5, and common labor at 100 per day.

We Have The Brains

Conditions in the United States will be tough for all who are now living on their money; but those with character, education, and energy to work will come through okay. Just as the brains of man overcame the wild beasts, so the brains of the United States, England and Western Europe should overcome the savages of Russia and elsewhere. Their representatives now yelp and howl, like animals, at the sessions of the United Nations; but we have nothing to fear if we continue to build up our health, our intelligence, and put our money into real property instead of depending upon paper profits or perhaps even bank books.

We may temporarily "lose face" by quitting Korea. Indo-China, India, Burma, and China will appear to scare us off. If we avoid

RESPONSIBLE LEADERSHIP

He was a good man, and full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. Acts 11:24. Read verses 19-30.

All too frequently the spiritual estate of the Christian fellowship is in the hands of unspiritual leadership. What a lift the church would experience if it were in the hands of men whose goodness followed the pattern which Jesus described!

He thought of a good man as a humble man. When he wanted to define humility he dramatized it when he stooped and washed his disciples' feet. "If I, your Lord and Master, wash your feet, you ought also to wash one another's feet."

Also, a good man, according to Jesus, identified himself with humanity everywhere. "If all men count with you . . . If you can walk with kings nor lose the common touch . . . you'll be a man." (Kipling) The selfconscious feeling of national, religious, and racial groups that they alone are the people who count, is one of the fountain heads of the world's woe.

Again, Jesps would regard a man as good who honestly sets out to find the ultimate truth that lies back of this bewildering, measureless universe. The more staggering the universe becomes, and the more hopeless the conditions, the more necessary it is to have a personal God.

Let Us Pray: Give us a spirit, our Father, that seeks to measure life alongside the life of Jesus. Amen.

Dairy Calf Club To Elect Officers

Officers will be elected Tuesday at 8 p.m. by the Allegany County Dairy Calf Club at a meeting at the office of Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, at the Court House.

Various phases of dairying will be discussed at the business meeting. Any boys interested in joining the club may do so Tuesday.

Conference Planned On Wage Boosts

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county schools, will confer with members of the County Board of Commissioners Tuesday to discuss the cost of a proposed increase in teachers' pay.

Kopp will present figures on the total cost of the program.

The county commissioners suggested an increase to the teachers in the lower brackets in order to enable them to meet the rising cost of living.

Allegany county starts teachers with a bachelor's degree at $2,400 instead of the state minimum of $2,200. The top county scale is $3,900.

Matter Of Fact

Communists, with aircraft and heavy weapons, that the Chinese might become in fact supreme in Asia.

"Technical assistance" is no substitute for this sort of equipment, which Chinese industry cannot conceivably produce in the foreseeable future.

The fact is that the Chinese have been playing Russia's game in Korea, with no compensating advantages to the Chinese. If the current offensive fails, the Chinese will then have no alternative but to admit failure, or to commit all China's by no means inexhaustible reserves of trained military manpower to Korea, in an attempt to drown superior UN firepower in human blood.

The Chinese Communist leaders are anything but fools, and they must be fully aware that the Chinese are paying the piper while the Russians call the tune. A settlement becomes possible when it is in the interests of both sides to settle. This is why it is still hoped that the Chinese will eventually cease to play Russia's game in Korea, and will become willing to settle on reasonable terms. This hope may well be dashed—the Chinese may by now be left without a shred of independence. But there is no reason to assume that the hope is forlorn, if the UN stands firm.

Baker Is Named Commander Of Cumberland Amvet Post

J. Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets, elected Robert Francis Baker as commander at a meeting Thursday night. He is the first member of the post ever to be renamed commander. Baker was commander in 1949.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—

LET'S PUT aside this dreary nonsense of war and want, tyranny and taxes. Mightier events are astir.

Spring is here and Elliott Roosevelt is in love again. Old Faithful has broken through the hard crust of wintry bachelorhood once more, breaking ground like a blushing crocus and restoring the faith of a lot of us in romance and spring itself.

Elliott's lucky umteenth wife-to-be is a fine looking matror named Minnewa. Friends and admirers of the distinguished commentator on the American scene are in a veritable tizzy over the impending nuptials. They see in this union an historic note. This will be the first time Elliott ever married anybody named Minnewa.

There are a few bothersome and irritating little details to attend to before the happy day. Minnewa is married and there's the business of what to do with her child, and there's always the chance that the new union will upset the delicate balance of Elliott's support of his own scattered children.

But love will find a way, and if all goes well Elliott will be safely married again before the first rose blooms, a source of comfort to the country in times of stress.

Mickey Rooney, another man of distinction and career dabbler in matrimony, has taken cognizance of this tender season and its traditional implications. Through his studio, MGM, and a spokesman, Mickey has issued a statement which should enable all insomniacs to cease their restless tossing at night.

Mickey and his latest estranged wife, Martha Vickers, are going back together for old time's sake. They feel, according to the spokesman, that such enduring ties as they had known can never really be cut. After all, they were united in the holy bonds of acrimony from June 3, 1949 all the way to the following Dec. 6.

But spring is more than a time of blue skies and the rebirth of the land and the spirit. It is a time of quick storms, too, a time when a wan and chilled wait of air can pierce the precious zephyrs of the season. Babs Hutton, for instance, is fresh out of husbands.

Babs made an unnerving discovery recently, and one that came as a distinct shock to all true followers of her previous brushes with wedded bliss. The millionairess discovered, she said, that her fourth husband, Prince Igor Troubetzkoy, actually was interested in her money!

We can all afford to sympathize with the young lady in her shattering disillusionment. It must indeed be a blow to a wife to learn that her mate, home from a hard day's work on the ski slopes of San Moritz or the Chemin de fer table at Cannes, is coming home not to see what the little woman has cooked for supper, or notice how well she laundered the curtains, but to count her money.

It must have been a bolt from the blue for this sensitive little housewife. How can a girl ever tell? That's what I always say. Well, Babs, in the game of matrimony we've got to take the good with the bad. Better luck the next four times!

• – • – •

Another sad chapter of this vernal equinox is the case of poor little Denise Darcel. Her husband, Peter Crosby, conked her with a glass of champagne at a little family eating place named El Morocco recently. She left him, it is said, when she discovered that the scoundrel had used domestic champagne.

Like many a separated wife who has had to take in washing to make ends meet, Denise promptly went to work—doing a song and grind at Ciro's on Miami Beach. One can appreciate her desire to get away from it all.

As long as we're recounting the cloudy side of spring, it should be stressed that the showers of April are known to produce flowers in May. One searches for a sign, however. It could be Elliott. It could be Mickey. Or it could be the news from London that Winston Churchill is back in the House of Commons after an attack of boils.

But one of the most encouraging of all recent items was a notation that a Boston astrologer had discovered a very large asteroid racing toward the earth thousands of miles an hour. He said he thought it would burn itself out harmlessly when it his the heavy atmosphere above the earth. But, he added with a satisfied little cackle, he wasn't too sure.

We are in a state of Emergency.
We must build our military strength—and,
at the same time, we must keep our economy strong
for the long pull. Inflation bleeds both!

One way to hit at the heart of

more production

Right now, our nation faces a tremendous production job.

We have been producing at near-capacity to meet our civilian demands. Now we must also produce guns, tanks, planes and other war materials to build our military strength.

How do we do it?

We must shift part of our production from peacetime to war goods. This means fewer civilian goods to buy until we can increase our production of both defense and civilian goods.

Increased production calls for improved management and labor skills, more factories, expanded plants, and new machinery.

If Government, management and labor pull together—if every one of us works harder, accepts the fact that living is going to be tougher—we can do the job!

What's more, by increasing production, by making supply catch up with demand, we not only make America stronger, we also do much to help to check Inflation.

5 more things that must be done to check Inflation—even with price controls

1. Support increases in taxes: To put our Government on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.
2. Maintain credit curbs: To reduce the competition for civilian goods.
3. Increase personal savings: To provide investment money for greater production and to lessen the demand for goods.
4. Buy only for real needs: Overbuying only increases shortages, and adds to the inflationary pressures.
5. Cut non-military expenditures: To provide money for vital military needs and to hold down tax increases and borrowing.

These things won't be easy for any of us to do. We must also forego increased wages and profits unless they are the result of increased production. But everybody will agree it's worth sacrificing to prevent the Sixth Column Enemy—INFLATION—from bleeding our economy.

Matter Of Fact

Communists, with aircraft and heavy weapons, that the Chinese might become in fact supreme in Asia.

"Technical assistance" is no substitute for this sort of equipment, which Chinese industry cannot conceivably produce in the foreseeable future.

The fact is that the Chinese have been playing Russia's game in Korea, with no compensating advantages to the Chinese. If the current offensive fails, the Chinese will then have no alternative but to admit failure, or to commit all China's by no means inexhaustible reserves of trained military manpower to Korea, in an attempt to drown superior UN firepower in human blood.

The Chinese Communist leaders are anything but fools, and they must be fully aware that the Chinese are paying the piper while the Russians call the tune. A settlement becomes possible when it is in the interests of both sides to settle. This is why it is still hoped that the Chinese will eventually cease to play Russia's game in Korea, and will become willing to settle on reasonable terms. This hope may well be dashed—the Chinese may by now be left without a shred of independence. But there is no reason to assume that the hope is forlorn, if the UN stands firm.

Brigham Young Plays St. Louis In NIT Tonight

St. Bonaventure Faces St. John's Redmen In Other Quarter-Final

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Seeded favorites swing into action in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tomorrow while NCAA officials try to fill remaining gaps in their championship event opening the following week.

St. Johns of Brooklyn, seeded No. 1, will play St. Bonaventure and Brigham Young, No. 3, will face St. Louis tomorrow night in invitation quarter-final games at Madison Square Garden.

Brigham Young, champion of the Skyline Six, and St. Louis, the team that licked Kentucky, clash in the opener at 7:45 p. m. (EST). The second game will start at approximately 9:45 p. m.

The other quarter-final games are set for Tuesday night, sending North Carolina State's national scoring leaders against Seton Hall and Arizona, the Border champs, against Dayton. N. C. State is seeded second and Arizona fourth. Semi-finals are Thursday and finals Saturday.

Meanwhile, the 16-team NCAA field is filling up gradually, with only four spots to be determined.

Three of these are "at large" representatives from the eastern sector which Asa Bushnell, a member of the selection committee, promises will be picked by early tomorrow afternoon.

Seven teams are under consideration for the vacancies. They are Holy Cross, Villanova, Toledo, Louisville, Cincinnati, Connecticut and Washington and Jefferson.

The fourth opening in the NCAA field will go to the Southwest Conference champion, which is to be determined.

Texas A. and M. got the jump toward this title by beating Texas, 45-33, last Friday night in the first game of a best-of-three playoff series. The second game is scheduled tomorrow night at Austin, Tex., where the Aggies haven't beaten Texas in 17 years, with the decisive game, if necessary, Tuesday night.

University of Washington wrapped up the Pacific Coast Conference crown and an automatic NCAA bid by winning its second straight from UCLA in the playoff last night at Seattle, 71-54.

Here is the NCAA setup, as it stands now:

Eastern Regional

At Raleigh, N. C., March 20 — North Carolina State vs. at large team; Kentucky vs. at large team.

Western Regional

March 21—Kansas State vs. Arizona; Brigham Young vs. San Jose (Calif.) State or Montana State.

March 22—Oklahoma A. and M. vs. San Jose State or Montana State; Washington vs. Texas A. and M. or Texas.

(Semi-finals March 23 and finals March 24).

San Jose State and Montana State were named last week as "at large" teams for the western eliminations. St. Johns of Brooklyn was picked as one of the four "at large" representatives in the east. The draw for the "at large" teams has not been made.

In the opening round games of the N.I.T. Saturday, the St. Louis Billikens downed LaSalle (Philadelphia) 73-61, Seton Hall walloped Beloit (Wis.) College, 71-57, St. Bonaventure eliminated Cincinnati, 70-67, and Dayton defeated Lawrence Tech, 77-71.

The Old Second Guesser

SAN FRANCISCO

THIS IS A sparkling and hospitable city. I hadn't been here half a day before I was invited to the Bohemian Club and a prize fight at the Cow Palace which was between Joe Louis and a gent named Andy Walker who boxes like somewhere in his breeding there had been a cross with a wrestler. As the battle proceeded, it turned out the name of the auditorium was most appropriate.

Now at lunch, we were joined by a gay, genial companion who began to tell stories of his career and experiences, and these proved to be most entertaining. First he exhibited a prop ticket made up by the Union Pacific Railroad which he pulled out of his pocket and unrolled. When completely unfurled, it reached out to the butler's pantry. Then he related his adventures in visiting Herbert Hoover who was President of the United States at the time.

"First of all," began our friend, "my wife and I had a compartment so I decided to take the upper berth after she had made up her mind, since she has a whim of steel. Now, I could never get used to pajamas and have always stuck to go d old-fashioned nightshirts. As I was climbing up the ladder, some idiot had left the electric fan turned on and the tail got caught—that is, of the garment. I had to unbutton and shed the shirt to save my life and just in time, too. I switched the gadget off and slept in my underwear, since I wasn't going to risk a clean one, and the first was in shreds." (A funny idea, even if not true. Editor's note)

"We got in the dining car for breakfast all right, and I looked over the menu and saw the prices were pretty high, so I kicked my wife gently under the table, and remarked to the steward,

"'You know we eat a very light meal in the morning.'

"'That's too bad,' he said, 'because I was told there would be no charge, and you are to be the guests of the railroad.'

"'Let me look again,' our friend added. 'I find I feel quite a lot hungrier than usual today.'

The big blowoff is when he reports about arriving at the White House.

"Mr. Hoover greeted us," he went on, and then said, "'I want to put a White House car at your disposal while here.'

"'Oh no,' I protested. 'You may need to use it yourself.'"

These are just some samples of San Francisco wit. The man, himself, is a first-class citizen and very wealthy so I was told. He folded up his ticket and went on his way.

That night we rode out to the Cow Palace, and, after some painful preliminaries, old Joe Louis came ambling down the aisle into the ring. He looks about the same on the outside, except for a bald spot which glistens in the lights, but something must have run down inside. I had seen him in most of his great fights, and I fully expected he could close up for the evening any time he thought he ought to leave to catch a plane.

In the first round, he hit Walker with a left hook that turned his legs to rubber, and I thought the old champion could have finished him then, but might be carrying him a few rounds to give the crowd a show. It is true his opponent would wrestle and hold and run. Neverthelsss, old Joe hit him with everything he had, both rights and lefts, and he couldn't put him down for the count. Walker was pretty well chewed up, although still on his feet when the referee stopped it.

The Palace was crowded to the rafters, and it echoed with boos for the old champ as his hand was held up in victory. At the start, he was the hero and loudly cheered, until the spectators realized he couldn't knock out the California fighter, and then they turned. I suppose that's what they pay their money for—to express their feelings, but on my way home I felt it was a sad sight for the great Louis to have to hear this barrage of boos.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 11 (INS)—"Brigadoon," the Allen Lerner musical hit for which M. G. M. paid a fortune, is being readied for Gene Kelly and Kathryn Grayson. Gene, in Europe, and Kathryn, getting ready to go there, have not been together on the screen since the highly successful "Anchors Aweigh."

Gene Kelly

Lerner, himself, arrives next week to write the script, but the picture is not penciled in for production until late summer or early fall. Kelly has first to make "Huckleberry Finn."

The dances are as important in "Brigadoon" as the songs, and there is nobody better on staging and originating these routines than Mr. Kelly.

Jeanne Crain, who is probably the most easy going and least temperamental actress on the 20th lot, for the first time in her life put in a pitch for a role. She wanted the Anne Baxter part in "Doctor's Diary" and a chance to work with Joe Mankiewicz and she made no bones about it.

So, Jeanne, one of 20th's important stars, was given the good news on Saturday that she gets the role that Anne Baxter had to forfeit because of approaching motherhood.

Ann Blyth's tests were excellent, but it was planned to borrow her for another picture. Negotiations are on to sign Charles Laughton for the role of the dean.

Chit-chat:

In Rome traveling with Rita Hayworth is her old friend Lola Leighter and Lola's husband, Jackson. That's why I believe that Rita will only stop briefly at L'Horizon to see Rebecca and Yasmin and then head for America.

I know she has plans to get here next month, and when she arrives there will be discussions on motion pictures. She has several stories she likes, which she will bring with her. It's my guess Lola will make the trip with her.

I believe right now Rita could use some money since she is receiving little from "Loves Of Carmen," her last picture.

Bob Crosby won't make any money out of his personal letter from President Truman. It's a nice one!

Last week, Bob wrote the President suggesting that the name of government bonds be changed from sevings bonds to security bonds and that the slogan, "Invest In Your Own Security," be adopted to sell them.

A few days ago, Bing's brother received his answer. H. S. T. wrote that the suggestion was so well received in Washington that the Treasury Department is seriously considering a completely new campaign on his idea.

It's no way to win friends and influence people to dodge photographers. That's exactly what Gloria De Haven and Nicky Hilton did at the Captain's Table when the camera boys tried to get their picture together.

At the same place Roddy McDowall was with Susan Morrow whom he took home early. Then he came back with another girl. Fine goings on, Roddy.

Ave Gardner flew back to New York with Frank Sinatra from Palm Springs last week, so it seems there's no let up to this romance.

The Woman's Home Companion has bought the rights to Will Rogers' love letters to his wife.

It was printed that Barbara Hutton's divorce intention was posted in a women's prison in Mexico in keeping with the law that it appear in a public place, but the exact spot was never revealed. It was posted in the ladies powder room!

In 1683, William Penn is said to have paid $468 for a pound of coffee during a trip to New York.

Brigham Young Plays St. Louis In NIT Tonight

St. Bonaventure Faces St. John's Redmen In Other Quarter-Final

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Seeded favorites swing into action in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tomorrow while NCAA officials try to fill remaining gaps in their championship event opening the following week.

St. Johns of Brooklyn, seeded No. 1, will play St. Bonaventure and Brigham Young, No. 3, will face St. Louis tomorrow night in invitation quarter-final games at Madison Square Garden.

Brigham Young, champion of the Skyline Six, and St. Louis, the team that licked Kentucky, clash in the opener at 7:45 p. m. (EST). The second game will start at approximately 9:45 p. m.

The other quarter-final games are set for Tuesday night, sending North Carolina State's national scoring leaders against Seton Hall and Arizona, the Border champs, against Dayton. N. C. State is seeded second and Arizona fourth. Semi-finals are Thursday and finals Saturday.

Meanwhile, the 16-team NCAA field is filling up gradually, with only four spots to be determined.

Three of these are "at large" representatives from the eastern sector which Asa Bushnell, a member of the selection committee, promises will be picked by early tomorrow afternoon.

Seven teams are under consideration for the vacancies. They are Holy Cross, Villanova, Toledo, Louisville, Cincinnati, Connecticut and Washington and Jefferson.

The fourth opening in the NCAA field will go to the Southwest Conference champion, which is to be determined.

Texas A. and M. got the jump toward this title by beating Texas, 45-33, last Friday night in the first game of a best-of-three playoff series. The second game is scheduled tomorrow night at Austin, Tex., where the Aggies haven't beaten Texas in 17 years, with the decisive game, if necessary, Tuesday night.

University of Washington wrapped up the Pacific Coast Conference crown and an automatic NCAA bid by winning its second straight from UCLA in the playoff last night at Seattle, 71-54.

Here is the NCAA setup, as it stands now:

Eastern Regional

At Raleigh, N. C., March 20 — North Carolina State vs. at large team; Kentucky vs. at large team.

Western Regional

March 21—Kansas State vs. Arizona; Brigham Young vs. San Jose (Calif.) State or Montana State.

March 22—Oklahoma A. and M. vs. San Jose State or Montana State; Washington vs. Texas A. and M. or Texas.

(Semi-finals March 23 and finals March 24).

San Jose State and Montana State were named last week as "at large" teams for the western eliminations. St. Johns of Brooklyn was picked as one of the four "at large" representatives in the east. The draw for the "at large" teams has not been made.

In the opening round games of the N.I.T. Saturday, the St. Louis Billikens downed LaSalle (Philadelphia) 73-61, Seton Hall walloped Beloit (Wis.) College, 71-57, St. Bonaventure eliminated Cincinnati, 70-67, and Dayton defeated Lawrence Tech, 77-71.

Frisco Sidelights

SAN FRANCISCO

THIS IS A sparkling and hospitable city. I hadn't been here half a day before I was invited to the Bohemian Club and a prize fight at the Cow Palace which was between Joe Louis and a gent named Andy Walker who boxes like somewhere in his breeding there had been a cross with a wrestler. As the battle proceeded, it turned out the name of the auditorium was most appropriate.

Now at lunch, we were joined by a gay, genial companion who began to tell stories of his career and experiences, and these proved to be most entertaining. First he exhibited a prop ticket made up by the Union Pacific Railroad which he pulled out of his pocket and unrolled. When completely unfurled, it reached out to the butler's pantry. Then he related his adventures in visiting Herbert Hoover who was President of the United States at the time.

"First of all," began our friend, "my wife and I had a compartment so I decided to take the upper berth after she had made up her mind, since she has a whim of steel. Now, I could never get used to pajamas and have always stuck to go d old-fashioned nightshirts. As I was climbing up the ladder, some idiot had left the electric fan turned on and the tail got caught—that is, of the garment. I had to unbutton and shed the shirt to save my life and just in time, too. I switched the gadget off and slept in my underwear, since I wasn't going to risk a clean one, and the first was in shreds." (A funny idea, even if not true. Editor's note)

"We got in the dining car for breakfast all right, and I looked over the menu and saw the prices were pretty high, so I kicked my wife gently under the table, and remarked to the steward,

"'You know we eat a very light meal in the morning.'

"'That's too bad,' he said, 'because I was told there would be no charge, and you are to be the guests of the railroad.'

"'Let me look again,' our friend added. 'I find I feel quite a lot hungrier than usual today.'

The big blowoff is when he reports about arriving at the White House.

"Mr. Hoover greeted us," he went on, and then said, "'I want to put a White House car at your disposal while here.'

"'Oh no,' I protested. 'You may need to use it yourself.'"

These are just some samples of San Francisco wit. The man, himself, is a first-class citizen and very wealthy so I was told. He folded up his ticket and went on his way.

That night we rode out to the Cow Palace, and, after some painful preliminaries, old Joe Louis came ambling down the aisle into the ring. He looks about the same on the outside, except for a bald spot which glistens in the lights, but something must have run down inside. I had seen him in most of his great fights, and I fully expected he could close up for the evening any time he thought he ought to leave to catch a plane.

In the first round, he hit Walker with a left hook that turned his legs to rubber, and I thought the old champion could have finished him then, but might be carrying him a few rounds to give the crowd a show. It is true his opponent would wrestle and hold and run. Neverthelsss, old Joe hit him with everything he had, both rights and lefts, and he couldn't put him down for the count. Walker was pretty well chewed up, although still on his feet when the referee stopped it.

The Palace was crowded to the rafters, and it echoed with boos for the old champ as his hand was held up in victory. At the start, he was the hero and loudly cheered, until the spectators realized he couldn't knock out the California fighter, and then they turned. I suppose that's what they pay their money for—to express their feelings, but on my way home I felt it was a sad sight for the great Louis to have to hear this barrage of boos.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 11 (INS)—"Brigadoon," the Allen Lerner musical hit for which M. G. M. paid a fortune, is being readied for Gene Kelly and Kathryn Grayson. Gene, in Europe, and Kathryn, getting ready to go there, have not been together on the screen since the highly successful "Anchors Aweigh."

Gene Kelly

Lerner, himself, arrives next week to write the script, but the picture is not penciled in for production until late summer or early fall. Kelly has first to make "Huckleberry Finn."

The dances are as important in "Brigadoon" as the songs, and there is nobody better on staging and originating these routines than Mr. Kelly.

Jeanne Crain, who is probably the most easy going and least temperamental actress on the 20th lot, for the first time in her life put in a pitch for a role. She wanted the Anne Baxter part in "Doctor's Diary" and a chance to work with Joe Mankiewicz and she made no bones about it.

So, Jeanne, one of 20th's important stars, was given the good news on Saturday that she gets the role that Anne Baxter had to forfeit because of approaching motherhood.

Ann Blyth's tests were excellent, but it was planned to borrow her for another picture. Negotiations are on to sign Charles Laughton for the role of the dean.

Chit-chat:

In Rome traveling with Rita Hayworth is her old friend Lola Leighter and Lola's husband, Jackson. That's why I believe that Rita will only stop briefly at L'Horizon to see Rebecca and Yasmin and then head for America.

I know she has plans to get here next month, and when she arrives there will be discussions on motion pictures. She has several stories she likes, which she will bring with her. It's my guess Lola will make the trip with her.

I believe right now Rita could use some money since she is receiving little from "Loves Of Carmen," her last picture.

Bob Crosby won't make any money out of his personal letter from President Truman. It's a nice one!

Last week, Bob wrote the President suggesting that the name of government bonds be changed from sevings bonds to security bonds and that the slogan, "Invest In Your Own Security," be adopted to sell them.

A few days ago, Bing's brother received his answer. H. S. T. wrote that the suggestion was so well received in Washington that the Treasury Department is seriously considering a completely new campaign on his idea.

Pen-Mar Loop Will Operate With 7 Teams

Interstate League Approves Schedule

The Pen-Mar Baseball League will function as a 7-team circuit this year with all of the 1950 clubs back in line but Keyser Ridge.

Meeting yesterday at the Frostburg American Legion Home, the league decided to open its season April 29. Each team will play 12 home games and 12 games away. The closing date is August 26 while the playoffs will get under way on September 2. Playoff semi-finals will be best-of-three games while the finals will be best-of-five contests.

Teams entered for the 1951 race are Klondyke, Wellersburg, Eckhart, Ellerslie, Mt. Savage, Zihlman and Barrelville. Saturday games will start at 3 p. m. and Sunday contests at 2:30.

The player limit was set at 25, including manager.

All games determining a playoff position or championship must be not less than nine innings.

Persons desiring to umpire in the league are requested to contact President Charles Poisal, phone 6481-W.

Approves Schedule

The Interstate League met yesterday at Romney and approved a 25-game schedule for each team. The season opens Sunday, April 29 with Cumebrland Black Sox at Cumberland Moose (Penn Avenue Field); Moorefield at Romney and Centerville at Hyndman VFW.

The Everett American Legion applied for a franchise but was too late. If there are any withdrawals, however, Everett will be given first consideration for the berth.

By-laws were revised and approved by unanimous vote. A special provision makes servicemen who were signed eligible to play in league games when they are home on furlough during the regular season or during the playoffs.

The season ends Sunday, August 26.

Major Leagues Vote Today On Happy Chandler

Commissioner Needs Twelve Of 16 Votes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 11 (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler will get a final "yes" or "no" on a new term tomorrow morning by secret ballot at a joint meeting of the major leagues. No other candidate will be on the ballot.

Chandler was given a "fighting chance" by Clark Griffith of the Washington senators, one of his staunchest supporters, after the two leagues met separately for some three and a half hours at the Shoremede Hotel.

A list of about 30 men, including Chandler, was presented by the four-man screening committee. Biographical data on each was submitted to the owners who were asked to keep the list in confidence.

It was learned however, that it included George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues; Frank Lausche, governor of Ohio; J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, and Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Securities Resources Board. An owner said there was no dark horse candidate.

Both the pro and anti-Chandler groups still professed confidence. It was reported that a five-team stand pat block was lined up on each side with Chandler likely to get a majority of the vote but not the necessary 12. At St. Petersburg, he had a 9-7 margin on one of two ballots. The other was 8-8.

This is the way the lineup was reported by informed baseball men:

FOR CHANDLER	ANTI-CHANDLER
Detroit	New York Yankees
Philadelphia A's	Boston Braves
Washington	St. Louis Cardinals
New York Giants	St. Louis Browns
Cincinnati Reds	Chicago White Sox
Chicago Cubs	Pittsburgh
Boston Red Sox
Cleveland Indians
DOUBTFUL
Philadelphia Phillies
Brooklyn

Although Chandler was denied a new contract Dec. 11, 1950, he will come up for vote as a new candidate. If he gets 12, he's in, he will succeed himself as commissioner. If he loses, baseball will continue screening candidates for the job. Chandler has said he will serve out the last second of his term expiring April 30, 1952.

Both Ford Frick, National League president, and Will Harridge, head of the American League, said "it would be a legal question" whether Chandler could be removed from office if he is rejected tomorrow and still insists on finishing out his term.

Ferrier Scores At Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 11 (AP) — Lanky Jim Ferrier of San Francisco played it safe down the home stretch today to capture top money in the $10,000 Miami Beach Open Golf Tournament by a one-stroke margin.

Ferrier went the last 18 holes in 69, three under par, for a 72-hole total of 273 to nose out Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and burly Chuck Klein of San Antonio, Tex.

Ferrier was four strokes under par for the Normandy Isle Course after covering today's first nine in 32, and with one nine-hole lap to go was two strokes better than Klein's and three under Snead, the defending champion.

Taking no chances on the backstretch, Ferrier played even par for eight holes, and at the par four 18th, knowing he could win the $2,000 top prize with a five, babied his ball up the middle of the fairway and took his full quota.

Leading at the 54-hole mark by one stroke with 204, Ferrier clinched the top money today with his performance on the outgoing nine, closing with three straight birdies at the seventh, eighth and ninth for his 32, which was just a stroke higher than the competitive record.

Klein, the runner up last night at 203, took 33 for the first nine to fall two strokes behind Ferrier.

Still trying hard for a successful comeback after a layoff of more than two months with a fractured bone in his left hand, Snead also covered the first nine in 33.

Both Snead, with a 35, and Klein, with a 36, beat Ferrier on the back nine, but neither had the finishing kick necessary to overcome Big Jim's lead and they finished with 274s to collect $1,200 each.

Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., closed with a 68 for 207 and fourth place. In a three-way for fifth were Jack Burke, Jr., Houston, Tex.; Al Besselink, Mt. Clemens, Mich., and Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass.

Johnny Bratton, Charlie Fusari Fight This Week

Welters To Tangle In Chicago Match

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—The eliminations to determine a successor to Ray Robinson as welterweight champion begins in Chicago Wednesday night when hard-hitting Johnny Bratton of Chicago faces blond Charlie Fusari of Irvington, N. J., in a 15-rounder for NBA recognition.

The winner of this fight must meet Kid Gavilan of Cuba within 45 days, according to the NBA edict. The survivor of the second elimination then must meet England's Eddie Thomas within three months.

New York, which is not a member of the NBA, will not recognize the Bratton-Fusari victor as champion. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York commission, says there must be a series of eliminations before a champ can be named. He also insists that Billy Graham, high-ranking New York welter, be included in any tournament.

The Wednesday bout will be telecast and broadcast by CBS.

On Friday, Irish Bobby Murphy of San Diego, and lanky Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia, will tangle in a Madison Square Garden ten rounder. This bout should be a slugfest all the way. It will be telecast by NBC and broadcast by ABC.

Bucceroni, 23, has won 30 of 31 fights, and has an 18-fight win streak going. Murphy, beaten by Harry Matthews in a thriller nine days ago, has a 55-4 record.

Roland La Starza, once beaten New York heavyweight contender, faces Keen Simmons of Bayonne, N. J., in the main ten at Providence, R. I., Monday night. Archie Moore, No. 1 light heavyweight contender from Toledo, tackles Abel Cestac of Argentina, in a ten at Toledo Tuesday night.

Major Leagues Vote Today On Happy Chandler

Commissioner Needs Twelve Of 16 Votes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 11 (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler will get a final "yes" or "no" on a new term tomorrow morning by secret ballot at a joint meeting of the major leagues. No other candidate will be on the ballot.

Chandler was given a "fighting chance" by Clark Griffith of the Washington senators, one of his staunchest supporters, after the two leagues met separately for some three and a half hours at the Shoremede Hotel.

A list of about 30 men, including Chandler, was presented by the four-man screening committee. Biographical data on each was submitted to the owners who were asked to keep the list in confidence.

It was learned however, that it included George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues; Frank Lausche, governor of Ohio; J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, and Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Securities Resources Board. An owner said there was no dark horse candidate.

Both the pro and anti-Chandler groups still professed confidence. It was reported that a five-team stand pat block was lined up on each side with Chandler likely to get a majority of the vote but not the necessary 12. At St. Petersburg, he had a 9-7 margin on one of two ballots. The other was 8-8.

This is the way the lineup was reported by informed baseball men:

FOR CHANDLER	ANTI-CHANDLER
Detroit	New York Yankees
Philadelphia A's	Boston Braves
Washington	St. Louis Cardinals
New York Giants	St. Louis Browns
Cincinnati Reds	Chicago White Sox
Chicago Cubs	Pittsburgh
Boston Red Sox
DOUBTFUL
Philadelphia Phillies
Brooklyn

Although Chandler was denied a new contract Dec. 11, 1950, he will come up for vote as a new candidate. If he gets 12, he's in, he will succeed himself as commissioner. If he loses, baseball will continue screening candidates for the job. Chandler has said he will serve out the last second of his term expiring April 30, 1952.

Both Ford Frick, National League president, and Will Harridge, head of the American League, said "it would be a legal question" whether Chandler could be removed from office if he is rejected tomorrow and still insists on finishing out his term.

Carl Hartman scored 43.6 per cent of the 1,430 points credited to Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks who won 14 and lost 12 during the 1950-51 campaign, their first under Ralph Poling who succeeded Jesse Riggleman before the 1950 grid season got under way.

Ralph Poling

The Ridgeley sharpshooter scored 623 points in 26 games for a 24-point average, believed to be the highest ever made by a schoolboy cager in the tri-state area. His 29 field goals and 62 points in a game against the West Virginia School for the Deaf also are new records.

Albert Decker was the runner-up with 266 points and Abe was third with 197.

Ferrier Scores At Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 11 (AP) — Lanky Jim Ferrier of San Francisco played it safe down the home stretch today to capture top money in the $10,000 Miami Beach Open Golf Tournament by a one-stroke margin.

Ferrier went the last 18 holes in 69, three under par, for a 72-hole total of 273 to nose out Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and burly Chuck Klein of San Antonio, Tex.

Ferrier was four strokes under par for the Normandy Isle Course after covering today's first nine in 32, and with one nine-hole lap to go was two strokes better than Klein's and three under Snead, the defending champion.

Taking no chances on the backstretch, Ferrier played even par for eight holes, and at the par four 18th, knowing he could win the $2,000 top prize with a five, babied his ball up the middle of the fairway and took his full quota.

Leading at the 54-hole mark by one stroke with 204, Ferrier clinched the top money today with his performance on the outgoing nine, closing with three straight birdies at the seventh, eighth and ninth for his 32, which was just a stroke higher than the competitive record.

Klein, the runner up last night at 203, took 33 for the first nine to fall two strokes behind Ferrier.

Still trying hard for a successful comeback after a layoff of more than two months with a fractured bone in his left hand, Snead also covered the first nine in 33.

Both Snead, with a 35, and Klein, with a 36, beat Ferrier on the back nine, but neither had the finishing kick necessary to overcome Big Jim's lead and they finished with 274s to collect $1,200 each.

Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., closed with a 68 for 207 and fourth place. In a three-way for fifth were Jack Burke, Jr., Houston, Tex.; Al Besselink, Mt. Clemens, Mich., and Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass.

Johnny Bratton, Charlie Fusari Fight This Week

Welters To Tangle In Chicago Match

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—The eliminations to determine a successor to Ray Robinson as welterweight champion begins in Chicago Wednesday night when hard-hitting Johnny Bratton of Chicago faces blond Charlie Fusari of Irvington, N. J., in a 15-rounder for NBA recognition.

The winner of this fight must meet Kid Gavilan of Cuba within 45 days, according to the NBA edict. The survivor of the second elimination then must meet England's Eddie Thomas within three months.

New York, which is not a member of the NBA, will not recognize the Bratton-Fusari victor as champion. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York commission, says there must be a series of eliminations before a champ can be named. He also insists that Billy Graham, high-ranking New York welter, be included in any tournament.

The Wednesday bout will be telecast and broadcast by CBS.

On Friday, Irish Bobby Murphy of San Diego, and lanky Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia, will tangle in a Madison Square Garden ten rounder. This bout should be a slugfest all the way. It will be telecast by NBC and broadcast by ABC.

Bucceroni, 23, has won 30 of 31 fights, and has an 18-fight win streak going. Murphy, beaten by Harry Matthews in a thriller nine days ago, has a 55-4 record.

Roland La Starza, once beaten New York heavyweight contender, faces Keen Simmons of Bayonne, N. J., in the main ten at Providence, R. I., Monday night. Archie Moore, No. 1 light heavyweight contender from Toledo, tackles Abel Cestac of Argentina, in a ten at Toledo Tuesday night.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Fully Clothed And In Her Right Mind

"THE (New York) Daily News' was built on legs," its late publisher, Joseph Patterson, once remarked, "but when we got enough circulation we draped them." This extraordinarily shrewd method of attaining success is not confined entirely to publishing. It's been done in Hollywood, notably in the case of Hedy Lamarr whose first film to be seen in this country displayed her almost entirely undraped. Subsequently, . . . well, there's no sense crying over spilt milk.

John Crosby

Another conspicuous example of the same technique is Miss Faye Emerson, a girl of many talents, whose undraped neckline was easily the most spectacular fashion note of 1950. Well, Miss Emerson built her circulation to a point even "The Daily News" would envy. Then she draped. The new draped or heavily wrapped Emerson, in fact, could get through January in Fargo, North Dakota, without adding anything except her winter earrings.

• — • — •

It's the policy here to keep the readers informed of the new fashion trends in TV. And Miss Emerson is unquestionably the arbiter in these matters. Well, this is the late word, girls. Cover up. Not long ago, Miss Emerson was observed in a dress with the most enormous white collar seen in these parts since the days of the Pilgrims. Looked like something out of Nathaniel Hawthorne, modified by Louisa M. Alcott. The real Miss Emerson happened to be sitting about a yard away from the filmed Miss Emerson at the time which afforded an excellent opportunity to test the theory, advanced by several scholars, that transcribed women are preferable to live ones. Well, I don't know. Preferable in what way? You can turn the transcribed ones off, of course. But in most respects, there are serious shortcomings in electronics.

Where were we?

Besides dressing warmly, Miss Emerson has changed a lot of other things around on her show. Some time ago, Miss Lilli Palmer characterized the current crop of television females as "a lot of chattering dames." This was not only one of the most trenchant bits of criticism of the winter but one of the most effective.

• — • — •

Almost immediately, Miss Emerson began displaying her brains, of which she possesses a good many, almost as flagrantly as she had once . . . well, I mean the intellectual climate of the show changed radically. If you have been listening in on Faye recently, you would have heard Patrice Munsel and Garson Kanin discuss how to stage an opera. Sam Levenson and somebody's mother talked about the influence of television on children.

Just last week Miss Emerson unveiled three foreign correspondents to whom the United States is alien land—Anton Smole, of Yugoslavia, K. Balaraman of India, and Alex Faulkner of London. She asked each one to name the biggest story they had sent back to their own countries from this one, a very lively idea indeed. My sole criticism came at the end when she asked each correspondent if he thought there would be a war this year. All said no. "That's very interesting," said Miss Emerson, "because the feeling over here is that there will be war." I consider that statement a little sweeping.

• — • — •

At various other times, Robert Coles, chairman of the Hayden Planetarium, and Willy Ley, an authority on rockets, thrashed around in outer space with Miss Faye. Paul Hume, Harriet Van Horne and Bosley Crowther delved into criticism, especially the sort of criticism emanating from Blair House. And the head of fraud bureau of the Ridgefield Park, N. J., police department gave a very instructive lesson on confidence games. All these things I found educational. Miss Emerson, incidentally, has ceased chattering almost entirely, sometimes just selling a little Pepsi Cola and letting the guests handle the rest of the talk.

The Emerson show is now entirely on film, which has brought along some problems. Miss Denise Darcel, for example, devoted a large part of a 15 minute show filmed a month in advance to explaining how kind, how gentlemanly American men were. The next day, the tabloids were full of the story about her husband drenching her with champagne at El Morocco.

Eagles Honor 63 Members At Memorial Rites

Flower Garden Is Setting For Pageant

"Think more of the heritage you will leave behind than of the gold you can gather during your lifetime," William L. Wilson, local attorney, told more than 500 Eagles and guests at yesterday's memorial service in the Fraternal Order of Eagles Home.

Wilson was orator for the annual service held by Aerie No. 245 to honor the 47 members who died during the past year and 16 who lost their lives in World War II.

The 3,100 member lodge held the impressive ceremony amid a white setting denoting a spring flower garden with girls standing on either side of the altar dropping red carnations on a Bible as the names of the deceased members were read.

Present Ritual

The program began with the processional, played by the Colomy Orchestra. Rev. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, delivered the invocation.

Members of Allegany High School Choir, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Willison, presented "Sing and Rejoice" with Carole Reith as accompanist.

The lodge ritual was given by Worthy President Floyd S. Elliot, Worthy Chaplain Thomas J. Hopwood and Past Worthy President John W. Harbaugh.

Herman L. Myers, worthy secretary, read the names of the members to be honored as the flower placing ceremony was conducted.

Pageant Is Given

The memorial pageant began with a prayer by Rabbi Herbert N. Wilner, of B'er Chayim Temple, followed by the Allegany High School Choir singing "O Bread of Life," by Franck. The oration was delivered by Wilson after which the choir sang "Ode To America."

Rev. Louis Glantz O.F.M. Cap., pastor of SS. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church, pronounced the benediction.

Among the members honored at the ceremony was Past State President Harry G. Rice.

C. William H. Baer, past president, was chairman of the Memorial committee assisted by Herman S. Miller.

Attendance at this memorial service was the largest in many years, according to officials.

Woman Seeks $2,500 Damages

A Cumberland woman, who contends that her feet were seriously injured when an employe of the local store of Peoples Service Drug Stores, Inc., allegedly dragged a large basket over them, has filed suit in Allegany County Circuit Court for $2,500 damages against the drug store firm.

Mrs. Madeline Wright, 321 Bedford Street, through her attorney, William H. Geppert, filed the suit Friday.

In her declaration, Mrs. Wright contends that on or about last September 2 she went into the local Peoples Drug Store on Baltimore Street as a customer. She asserted that while standing in an aisle beside the cigar counter she was "negligently and carelessly" struck by a large basket which was being dragged across the floor by Robert Lancaster, an employe of the store.

Mrs. Wright added that the basket ran over both her feet, lacerating, dislocating and injuring her toes and feet. She asserts that she has lost the use of one toe which will have to be amputated along with part of her foot.

Fire Truck Lurches Into Ditch

South End Fire Company's pumper is seen lodged in a ditch off the end of Winifred Road after the vehicle became caught in a rut Saturday afternoon as it was speeding to quench a grass fire on the road. The fire truck was extricated yesterday morning. Officials said it suffered only minor damage in the mishap and that it will be back into service soon. Nobody was injured as the heavy truck slipped off the soft shoulder of the road. An auxiliary pumper from Central Fire Department is being used until South End's truck can be placed back into service.

South End Lad Hit By Glancing Shot From Rifle

Ronnie Fisher, 10, Wounded In Thigh

A 10-year-old South Cumberland boy was shot yesterday afternoon while playing with companions in Constitution Park.

Ronnie Fisher, son of Mrs. Leona Maphis, 619 Maryland Avenue, was admitted to Memorial Hospital with a bullet wound in his right thigh. Hospital attaches said the bullet is lodged in his leg and that he was resting comfortably last night.

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, of the Cumberland Police Department, said he received a call from an attendant at Constitution Park about 1:30 p.m. and that he and Officer W. P. Crabtree investigated. They drove to the eastern edge of the park, dismounted and brought the Fisher boy back to the squad car and to Memorial Hospital.

Lt. Lilya said Fisher and five other boys, ranging in age from 11 to 14, were on a hike in the park and had eaten their lunch and were shooting a .22 calibre rifle in the extreme eastern section.

Howard Davis, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Davis, 613 Maryland Avenue, was shooting at a piece of wood when a bullet ricocheted and struck Fisher, Lt. Lilya said.

Police said last night that no charges had been preferred.

Large Crowd Hears Address By LeTourneau

Between 800 and 900 persons crowded into the auditorium of Centre Street Methodist Church at 2:30 p. m. yesterday to hear Robert G. LeTourneau, designer of earth-moving machines, tell them how he literally made God a "partner" in his business.

LeTourneau spoke Saturday night and yesterday morning at Keyser, W. Va., and then made a hurried trip to Cumberland. Shortly after he talked here, the Christian business man boarded his own plane and flew to Canton, Ohio, where he was scheduled to speak last night.

Rev. Arthur Scrogum presided at yesterday's mass meeting. He is president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association, which sponsored LeTourneau's visit.

The audience was so large, Rev. Scrogum said, that a number of persons had to stand to hear the business man's down-to-earth message.

The speaker said in part,

"There are two things I like to do. One is to design machinery, turn on the power and see it work; the other is to tell people about the power of the Gospel and see it work in their lives."

More County Air Markers Seen By Spring

Jamison Seeks Boost In Program

More air markers in Allegany county is one of the aims of the State Aviation Commission, according to a letter received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The letter, from R. A. Jamison, director of the State Aviation Commission, to, William H. Lemmert, board president, said the commission is preparing to expand its air marking program throughout the state this spring.

Jamison stressed that particularly in Allegany county is there a great need for more air markers to insure greater air safety.

Warren G. Mullenax, operator of the Cumberland Airport, said last night he believes there should be 12 or 13 air markers in the county, but only about five of them may be seen readily from the air.

The commission director has asked the county commissioners to forward to him the name and address of the owners of suitable buildings, where permission might be had for the painting of air markers on roofs. These markers feature an arrow pointing north and list the latitude and longitude. Those near a community also include the name of the community.

Jamison listed some general requirements for roofs for air markers. They should be in good repair, with a total roof area of between 1,200 and 1,500 square feet needed. The building should be in a prominent location, on the outskirts of a community and/or near a main highway or railroad.

He added that the view should not be obstructed by trees or tall adjacent buildings.

The county commissioners have taken the matter under advisement and Lemmert emphasized that he hoped county property owners would cooperate.

To Address Rotarians

Drivers Escape Injury In Area Traffic Mishaps

Tractor Trailer Is Badly Damaged

Two motorists miraculously escaped injury in two unrelated highway traffic accidents near Keyser, W. Va., according to West Virginia State Police.

Norman J. Keehl, 25, Detroit, Mich., walked away unhurt after the tractor-trailer he was driving left Route 50 coming down Allegany Front Mountain yesterday morning. State Police said the site of the crash is known locally as both Shanty Hollow and Mountain Hut.

The Detroit man, who was driving the truck loaded with frozen egg yolks, said his truck brakes would not hold when he applied them as he rounded a curve. As a result the big truck tore up 40 feet of fencing along the highway, pulled up four posts, uprooted one tree and broke branches on others before coming to rest at the foot of a 40-foot bank.

State Plice said the tractor was almost split in two by a tree which it struck. Keehl estimated the damage at about $15,000, principally to the tractor and trailer, which were valued at around $24,000.

The other driver who was fortunate in not being hurt, despite his accident, was listed as Russell DeVore, Jr., about 20, Oak View, Westernport. His late model automobile tore down 100 feet of fencing and one telephone pole along Route 220, about five-and-a-half miles south of Keyser, police said. His car, almost a total wreck, came to rest on its top.

Man Fractures Leg In Wreck

Joe Lewis, about 50, Frostburg, was admitted to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, last night for treatment of a fractured left leg which he suffered in a head-on collision on Route 36, just north of Mt. Savage, State Police reported.

The Frostburg man was a passenger in an automobile which Robert Goldsworthy, 23, Mt. Savage, was driving north on Route 36. Goldsworthy, who sustained a laceration over his left eye and bruised both knees, was treated in Miners Hospital and released.

William Henry Booth, 31, RFD 1, Vale Summit, was driving the other car south on Route 36. He sustained lacerations and abrasions but did not require hospital treatment.

State Trooper Charles DeWitt, who investigated, said that Booth was driving on the wrong side of the road. The trooper is continuing his investigation. No charges have been filed.

Both automobiles were extensively damaged.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. CARL H. CLAPP

Thou Shalt Not Kill. Matthew 27:3-5

Today's sermonette is a digest of the message preached yesterday at St. Mark's Reformed Church by the pastor, Rev. Carl H. Clapp. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

In one of the city parks of the City of Pittsburgh there is a tree surrounded by a heavy iron fence. On the fence is a metal plaque with this inscription: "This tree was planted by General U. S. Grant."

Rev. Clapp

The purpose of the iron fence is obvious, to save the tree from abuse. In many respects the moral law is like the iron fence which God has erected around certain sacred things to protect them.

At the moment our concern is about the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill." This is the iron fence which God has put about human life. The character out of the passion story which illustrates this is Judas Iscariot. Here was a man who violated many of the commandments.

I am impressed by the fact that Judas was so near Jesus at all times. The availability of Jesus was at hand. Even to the last moment Judas could have repented. But after he had killed himself there was no repentance. The sense of this commandment is the sacredness of human life. It says our bodies are God's temple, and this command is the iron fence God has built around it.

There are many ways of destroying this temple. Dr. Rogness says a house can go to ruin by what you do or by what you do not do to it. It is so with God's temple, the body, and the life which inhabits it. A man can kill himself or others in many ways, by shooting, or driving his car on the sidewalk, eating, drinking or prostitutes. But the command is, "Thou shalt not kill." In all these cases man is breaking down the iron fence.

The commandment embraces not only the negative, "Thou shalt not," but also the moral demand to love and befriend our neighbor.

How should we care for the temple? Elton Trueblood has said our greatest need is the cultivation of an uneasy conscience. We have become hardened and calloused to death, and to killings and to suffering. We have read of Hitler and his killing so many, or the atom

He was buried in Hampton, Va., National Cemetery Friday with full military honors.

Driver Of Bus Awaits Hearing On Wednesday

Cited For Incident Near Cresaptown

Lester W. White, 3 Altamont Terrace, has been released from the Allegany County Jail for a hearing at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday before Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdew on a charge of violating a State Motor Vehicle law.

State Police Corporal Samuel Conrad arrested White Friday after conducting an investigation into the manner in which White allegedly was driving a privately-owned school bus in the Cresaptown area.

The corporal said White had been employed by the owner of the bus to drive children from Allegany High School as far as Cresaptown. He also transported children from Cresaptown School to the vicinity of Rawlings, Conrad added.

Children who rode the bus home last Thursday from Allegany High School told Cpl. Conrad a fellow student, Robert Athey, of Bowling Green, drove the bus away from the school and as far as Warner's Store in Cresaptown. There he left the bus to board another bus back to his Bowling Green home, he told Cpl. Conrad. White rode on the bus with the children, Cpl. Conrad said.

From Warner's Store to the Cresaptown School, White drove the bus, pupils told Cpl. Conrad.

Cpl. Conrad added that five of the eight or 10 children, who were on the bus between Warner's Store and the Cresaptown School, have been asked to appear at the hearing Wednesday morning.

White was lodged in the County Jail about 6 p. m. Friday and released on bond about noon Sunday.

Bowling Green Tax Area Will Be Discussed

Delegation Plans Hearing Tuesday

A special meeting will be held at the Bowling Green Fire Hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock to discuss provisions of a bill to establish fire hydrants and a street lighting system in that community.

Copies of the proposed legislation, House Bill 444, have been received here.

A hearing on the bill will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the State House in Annapolis before the Allegany County Delegation.

Charles M. See, chairman, said the county legislators are anxious to have a good representation from the area at the hearing.

Tonight's meeting is being held so residents of the proposed taxing district may have an opportunity to discuss questions which have arisen since a rough draft of the bill was discussed two weeks ago.

The bill sets up the special taxing district to finance the installation and maintenance of a system of fire hydrants according to fire underwriters specifications and to set up a lighting system for the community.

Some 80 homes in the rapidly growing community are included in the taxing area. The value of real estate in the district is estimated at about $850,000.

In general, the bill provides for levying a tax of up to 30 cents to pay for a lighting system, water rental on hydrants and their maintenance, plus an additional tax of 25 cents to defray costs of water pipes and hydrants and purchase and installation of street hydrants, to be discontinued when the cost of the facilities is paid in full.

The bill includes provision for a referendum within 60 days of passage of the act.

Proposed Central High School Features Functional Equipment

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

When the designs for the proposed new Central High School become reality, Lonaconing will boast one of America's most modern and functional schools.

That is the belief of S. Russ Minter, Cumberland architect, who has drawn the plans for this new building, which may cost in the neighborhood of $1,500,000.

In the first place, the architect explains, the visualized Central High School will be completely fireproof. It will be made of reinforced concrete which will not burn.

Many Glass Blocks

Although the exterior walls will be of brick construction, there will be extensive use of glass blocks to allow more light to penetrate into the building.

The building, as proposed in Minter's drawings, will have ribbon-type windows and almost the entire wall surface above these windows will be in glass block.

Most of the classroom portion of the building for junior and senior high school pupils will be two stories high. One-story sections will include the manual training shop, the cafeteria, the library, music room, gymnasium and locker room and the auditorium.

Also in the one-story portion of the planned school is a small corrective gymnasium, for boys and girls with physical defects. Minter said that the Mt. Savage School, now nearing completion, also will be equipped with a corrective gymnasium.

Minter called attention to the fact that in general, Mt. Savage and Central will offer similar modern features.

Designs Differ

The big difference between the two new schools is that their functional designs will be different. In the first place Mt. Savage School was designed for all 12 grades whereas Central will take care of only the last six years, the junior and senior high school levels.

Mt. Savage School is a shell-type design. One shell will house the junior and senior high school sections and the other the elementary grades. The two shells both connect with the gymnasium, auditorium and cafeteria, but pupils from the two shells will not have to walk through the opposite shells.

Minter said that the Central High School will be of horizontal plane design. Another noticeable difference between the planned Lonaconing school and the actual Mt. Savage school is that there are more special rooms for shop, laboratories and other functions of that type in the Central plan.

Black-Out Curtains

Each of the 33 classrooms in the Central School will be equipped with audio-visual education aids,

In her declaration, Mrs. Wright contends that on or about last September 2 she went into the local Peoples Drug Store on Baltimore Street as a customer. She asserted that while standing in an aisle beside the cigar counter she was "negligently and carelessly" struck by a large basket which was being dragged across the floor by Robert Lancaster, an employe of the store.

Mrs. Wright added that the basket ran over both her feet, lacerating, dislocating and injuring her toes and feet. She asserts that she has lost the use of one toe which will have to be amputated along with part of her foot.

Fire Truck Lurches Into Ditch

South End Fire Company's pumper is seen lodged in a ditch off the end of Winifred Road after the vehicle became caught in a rut Saturday afternoon as it was speeding to quench a grass fire on the road. The fire truck was extricated yesterday morning. Officials said it suffered only minor damage in the mishap and that it will be back into service soon. Nobody was injured as the heavy truck slipped off the soft shoulder of the road. An auxiliary pumper from Central Fire Department is being used until South End's truck can be placed back into service.

South End Lad Hit By Glancing Shot From Rifle

Ronnie Fisher, 10, Wounded In Thigh

A 10-year-old South Cumberland boy was shot yesterday afternoon while playing with companions in Constitution Park.

Ronnie Fisher, son of Mrs. Leona Maphis, 619 Maryland Avenue, was admitted to Memorial Hospital with a bullet wound in his right thigh. Hospital attaches said the bullet is lodged in his leg and that he was resting comfortably last night.

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, of the Cumberland Police Department, said he received a call from an attendant at Constitution Park about 1:30 p.m. and that he and Officer W. P. Crabtree investigated. They drove to the eastern edge of the park, dismounted and brought the Fisher boy back to the squad car and to Memorial Hospital.

Lt. Lilya said Fisher and five other boys, ranging in age from 11 to 14, were on a hike in the park and had eaten their lunch and were shooting a .22 calibre rifle in the extreme eastern section.

Howard Davis, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Davis, 613 Maryland Avenue, was shooting at a piece of wood when a bullet ricocheted and struck Fisher, Lt. Lilya said.

Police said last night that no charges had been preferred.

Large Crowd Hears Address By LeTourneau

Between 800 and 900 persons crowded into the auditorium of Centre Street Methodist Church at 2:30 p. m. yesterday to hear Robert G. LeTourneau, designer of earth-moving machines, tell them how he literally made God a "partner" in his business.

LeTourneau spoke Saturday night and yesterday morning at Keyser, W. Va., and then made a hurried trip to Cumberland. Shortly after he talked here, the Christian business man boarded his own plane and flew to Canton, Ohio, where he was scheduled to speak last night.

Rev. Arthur Scrogum presided at yesterday's mass meeting. He is president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association, which sponsored LeTourneau's visit.

The audience was so large, Rev. Scrogum said, that a number of persons had to stand to hear the business man's down-to-earth message.

The speaker said in part,

"There are two things I like to do. One is to design machinery, turn on the power and see it work; the other is to tell people about the power of the Gospel and see it work in their lives."

More County Air Markers Seen By Spring

Jamison Seeks Boost In Program

More air markers in Allegany county is one of the aims of the State Aviation Commission, according to a letter received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The letter, from R. A. Jamison, director of the State Aviation Commission, to, William H. Lemmert, board president, said the commission is preparing to expand its air marking program throughout the state this spring.

Jamison stressed that particularly in Allegany county is there a great need for more air markers to insure greater air safety.

Warren G. Mullenax, operator of the Cumberland Airport, said last night he believes there should be 12 or 13 air markers in the county, but only about five of them may be seen readily from the air.

The commission director has asked the county commissioners to forward to him the name and address of the owners of suitable buildings, where permission might be had for the painting of air markers on roofs. These markers feature an arrow pointing north and list the latitude and longitude. Those near a community also include the name of the community.

Jamison listed some general requirements for roofs for air markers. They should be in good repair, with a total roof area of between 1,200 and 1,500 square feet needed. The building should be in a prominent location, on the outskirts of a community and/or near a main highway or railroad.

He added that the view should not be obstructed by trees or tall adjacent buildings.

The county commissioners have taken the matter under advisement and Lemmert emphasized that he hoped county property owners would cooperate.

To Address Rotarians

Drivers Escape Injury In Area Traffic Mishaps

Tractor Trailer Is Badly Damaged

Two motorists miraculously escaped injury in two unrelated highway traffic accidents near Keyser, W. Va., according to West Virginia State Police.

Norman J. Keehl, 25, Detroit, Mich., walked away unhurt after the tractor-trailer he was driving left Route 50 coming down Allegany Front Mountain yesterday morning. State Police said the site of the crash is known locally as both Shanty Hollow and Mountain Hut.

The Detroit man, who was driving the truck loaded with frozen egg yolks, said his truck brakes would not hold when he applied them as he rounded a curve. As a result the big truck tore up 40 feet of fencing along the highway, pulled up four posts, uprooted one tree and broke branches on others before coming to rest at the foot of a 40-foot bank.

State Plice said the tractor was almost split in two by a tree which it struck. Keehl estimated the damage at about $15,000, principally to the tractor and trailer, which were valued at around $24,000.

The other driver who was fortunate in not being hurt, despite his accident, was listed as Russell DeVore, Jr., about 20, Oak View, Westernport. His late model automobile tore down 100 feet of fencing and one telephone pole along Route 220, about five-and-a-half miles south of Keyser, police said. His car, almost a total wreck, came to rest on its top.

Man Fractures Leg In Wreck

Joe Lewis, about 50, Frostburg, was admitted to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, last night for treatment of a fractured left leg which he suffered in a head-on collision on Route 36, just north of Mt. Savage, State Police reported.

The Frostburg man was a passenger in an automobile which Robert Goldsworthy, 23, Mt. Savage, was driving north on Route 36. Goldsworthy, who sustained a laceration over his left eye and bruised both knees, was treated in Miners Hospital and released.

William Henry Booth, 31, RFD 1, Vale Summit, was driving the other car south on Route 36. He sustained lacerations and abrasions but did not require hospital treatment.

State Trooper Charles DeWitt, who investigated, said that Booth was driving on the wrong side of the road. The trooper is continuing his investigation. No charges have been filed.

Both automobiles were extensively damaged.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. CARL H. CLAPP

Thou Shalt Not Kill. Matthew 27:3-5

Today's sermonette is a digest of the message preached yesterday at St. Mark's Reformed Church by the pastor, Rev. Carl H. Clapp. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

In one of the city parks of the City of Pittsburgh there is a tree surrounded by a heavy iron fence. On the fence is a metal plaque with this inscription: "This tree was planted by General U. S. Grant."

The purpose of the iron fence is obvious, to save the tree from abuse. In many respects the moral law is like the iron fence which God has erected around certain sacred things to protect them.

Rev. Clapp

At the moment our concern is about the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill." This is the iron fence which God has put about human life. The character out of the passion story which illustrates this is Judas Iscariot. Here was a man who violated many of the commandments.

I am impressed by the fact that Judas was so near Jesus at all times. The availability of Jesus was at hand. Even to the last moment Judas could have repented. But after he had killed himself there was no repentance. The sense of this commandment is the sacredness of human life. It says our bodies are God's temple, and this command is the iron fence God has built around it.

There are many ways of destroying this temple. Dr. Rogness says a house can go to ruin by what you do or by what you do not do to it. It is so with God's temple, the body, and the life which inhabits it. A man can kill himself or others in many ways, by shooting, or driving his car on the sidewalk, eating, drinking or prostitutes. But the command is, "Thou shalt not kill." In all these cases man is breaking down the iron fence.

The commandment embraces not only the negative, "Thou shalt not," but also the moral demand to love and befriend our neighbor.

How should we care for the temple? Elton Trueblood has said our greatest need is the cultivation of an uneasy conscience. We have become hardened and calloused to death, and to killings and to suffering. We have read of Hitler and his killing so many, or the atom

Cited For Incident Near Cresaptown

Lester W. White, 3 Altamont Terrace, has been released from the Allegany County Jail for a hearing at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday before Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdew on a charge of violating a State Motor Vehicle law.

State Police Corporal Samuel Conrad arrested White Friday after conducting an investigation into the manner in which White allegedly was driving a privately-owned school bus in the Cresaptown area.

The corporal said White had been employed by the owner of the bus to drive children from Allegany High School as far as Cresaptown. He also transported children from Cresaptown School to the vicinity of Rawlings, Conrad added.

Children who rode the bus home last Thursday from Allegany High School told Cpl. Conrad a fellow student, Robert Athey, of Bowling Green, drove the bus away from the school and as far as Warner's Store in Cresaptown. There he left the bus to board another bus back to his Bowling Green home, he told Cpl. Conrad. White rode on the bus with the children, Cpl. Conrad said.

From Warner's Store to the Cresaptown School, White drove the bus, pupils told Cpl. Conrad.

Cpl. Conrad added that five of the eight or 10 children, who were on the bus between Warner's Store and the Cresaptown School, have been asked to appear at the hearing Wednesday morning.

White was lodged in the County Jail about 6 p. m. Friday and released on bond about noon Sunday.

Bowling Green Tax Area Will Be Discussed

Delegation Plans Hearing Tuesday

A special meeting will be held at the Bowling Green Fire Hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock to discuss provisions of a bill to establish fire hydrants and a street lighting system in that community.

Copies of the proposed legislation, House Bill 444, have been received here.

A hearing on the bill will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the State House in Annapolis before the Allegany County Delegation.

Charles M. See, chairman, said the county legislators are anxious to have a good representation from the area at the hearing.

Tonight's meeting is being held so residents of the proposed taxing district may have an opportunity to discuss questions which have arisen since a rough draft of the bill was discussed two weeks ago.

The bill sets up the special taxing district to finance the installation and maintenance of a system of fire hydrants according to fire underwriters specifications and to set up a lighting system for the community.

Some 80 homes in the rapidly growing community are included in the taxing area. The value of real estate in the district is estimated at about $850,000.

In general, the bill provides for levying a tax of up to 30 cents to pay for a lighting system, water rental on hydrants and their maintenance, plus an additional tax of 25 cents to defray costs of water pipes and hydrants and purchase and installation of street hydrants, to be discontinued when the cost of the facilities is paid in full.

The bill includes provision for a referendum within 60 days of passage of the act.

Proposed Central High School Features Functional Equipment

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

When the designs for the proposed new Central High School become reality, Lonaconing will boast one of America's most modern and functional schools.

That is the belief of S. Russ Minter, Cumberland architect, who has drawn the plans for this new building, which may cost in the neighborhood of $1,500,000.

In the first place, the architect explains, the visualized Central High School will be completely fireproof. It will be made of reinforced concrete which will not burn.

Many Glass Blocks

Although the exterior walls will be of brick construction, there will be extensive use of glass blocks to allow more light to penetrate into the building.

The building, as proposed in Minter's drawings, will have ribbon-type windows and almost the entire wall surface above these windows will be in glass block.

Most of the classroom portion of the building for junior and senior high school pupils will be two stories high. One-story sections will include the manual training shop, the cafeteria, the library, music room, gymnasium and locker room and the auditorium.

Also in the one-story portion of the planned school is a small corrective gymnasium, for boys and girls with physical defects. Minter said that the Mt. Savage School, now nearing completion, also will be equipped with a corrective gymnasium.

Minter called attention to the fact that in general, Mt. Savage and Central will offer similar modern features.

Designs Differ

The big difference between the two new schools is that their functional designs will be different. In the first place Mt. Savage School was designed for all 12 grades whereas Central will take care of only the last six years, the junior and senior high school levels.

Mt. Savage School is a shell-type design. One shell will house the junior and senior high school sections and the other the elementary grades. The two shells both connect with the gymnasium, auditorium and cafeteria, but pupils from the two shells will not have to walk through the opposite shells.

Minter said that the Central High School will be of horizontal plane design. Another noticeable difference between the planned Lonaconing school and the actual Mt. Savage school is that there are more special rooms for shop, laboratories and other functions of that type in the Central plan.

Black-Out Curtains

Each of the 33 classrooms in the Central School will be equipped with audio-visual education aids,

ALLIES ADVANCE ON KEY RED BASE

Spending Plan To Combat War, Hunger Proposed To Truman

Board's Report Praised By President

KEY WEST, Fla., March 11 (AP) — A multi-billion dollar spending program under a powerful new foreign economics czar was proposed to President Truman today to "break the back of hunger and famine" and halt Soviet aggression "short of war."

The proposal came from the International Development Advisory Board headed by Nelson Rockefeller as a means of combatting "military aggression and subversion" on the one hand and "hunger, poverty, disease and illiteracy" on the other.

The report drew immediate praise from the President who said it would be of "great help" in the drafting of recommendations he will send to Congress in "the near future" for foreign defense and economic assistance in the next fiscal year.

Report Sent To Capitol Hill

Telling Rockefeller that "economic stagnation is the advance guard of Soviet conquest," Mr. Truman said he is sending the report to the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees for their consideration.

The program would include:

1. Unification of major foreign economic activities of the government under one overseas economic administration headed by a commanding administrator who would work in close collaboration with Secretary of State Acheson and Defense Mobilization Director Wilson.

2. Appropriations of $500,000,000 a year for several years for improvement of economic and health conditions in the Middle East, Africa, South Asia and Southeast Asia.

Development Authority

3. Creation of an international development authority with a fund of $500,000,000 to operate under a management contract with the International Bank for reconstruction and development to help finance public works in underdeveloped areas.

4. Creation of a new international finance corporation, as an affiliate of the International Bank, as part of five-point program to stimulate the flow of private investment capital in underdeveloped areas from the present $1,000,000,000 a year to a minimum of $2,000,000,000.

5. Development, by the proposed overseas economic administrator, of a program for bringing about private investment of $2,000,000,000 in production facilities abroad over the next few years.

"Get Tougher" Orders Given Chinese Courts

Mercy Is Forbidden, "Intent" Is Crime

HONG KONG, March 11 (AP) — Shih Liang, Red China's female minister of justice, has ordered her Communist courts to slam the gates of mercy on everyone even suspected of opposing the Peiping regime.

The courts have been too soft on anti-Reds, she said. Now they are to stop being lenient and let the heads roll.

Shih drove home her "get tougher" orders in a long interpretation of Peiping's new code of penalties for "crimes" against the state. Details of her views have just been received in this British colony on the edge of Red China.

May Be Retroactive

Shih made it quite clear that the courts can now order a prisoner shot for his "intentions," leaving it entirely up to the courts what the intentions may have been.

In placing her stamp of legality on the purge now going on in China, the minister warned that the new laws may be retroactive.

"Where errors have been made in the past, it behooves us to review the case x x x and arrive at a new correct sentence in accordance with the new regulations," she said.

Under such an order, any case could be reopened for "review" at the discretion of the court.

Shih said Communist courts have been guilty of releasing a prisoner because "in the class composition he was a middle peasant," or because "there was nothing much against him," or because "he was too young or too old."

Punishment Comes First

This, she said, must stop. Punishment must be meted out, and fast.

She told the dispensers of Red justice not to be misled by prisoners who make frank admissions of mistakes, tell the truth in court or lead exemplary lives in prison.

Such performances, she said "are not meritorious and should not be rewarded."

Hereafter punishment comes first, followed by "re-education" where that is possible. This is a departure from previous Communist policies which seemed to give the "culprit" a chance to "reform" and escape punishment.

Anti-Red Named Premier Of Iran

TEHRAN, Iran, March 11 (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi today named Hussein Ala, veteran diplomat and noted anti-Communist, as Iran's new premier. Informed sources said the Senate unanimously approved his appointment and the lower house is expected to confirm the nomination without difficulty tomorrow or Tuesday.

Ala is a former foreign minister. He became a national hero in 1946 because of his stand against the Soviet Union before the United Nations during a squabble over Iran's Azerbaijan Province which borders on Russia.

Western diplomats regard Ala as a good choice to resist Communist pressure on this strategic oil-producing country.

The Shah persuaded him to accept the premiership after the Majlis (parliament) refused earlier to approve Khalil Fahimi, who was named temporary premier following the assassination of Premier Ali Razmara on Wednesday by a religious fanatic.

Proposed Price Orders May Bring Some Cuts

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—The government is considering an order forcing manufacturers to roll back price boosts since outbreak of the Korean war which are not based on actual increases in cost.

Harold Leventhal, general counsel for the Office of Price Stabilization, said on an NBC radio show today such an order is under study.

Later, an OPS official said the proposed order could bring price reductions on many products but also could result in some price increases.

Graham Is Named To Manpower Post

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — Frank P. Graham (above), former senator and former president of the University of North Carolina, was named defense manpower administrator in the Labor Department today.

He will direct all defense manpower operations in the department, reporting directly to Secretary Tobin who announced the appointment.

Plans To Shelve RFC Probe Draw Republican Fire

Grand Jury To Open Investigation Today

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — Two Republican lawmakers investigating political influence in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation demanded today that plans to end the inquiry soon be shelved.

Sens. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Capehart (R-Ind) made the demand as Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the inquiry committee, reiterated that he hopes to complete the job shortly—perhaps this week.

Spotlight On Big Loan

They spoke out as the subcommittee turned its spotlight on $6,300,000 in loans to the Central Iron and Steel Co., of Harrisburg, Pa., — granted over objections of subordinate RFC staff members, according to the subcommittee's recent report to the Senate.

The transactions, subject of tomorrow's hearings, may be the last of the "big loans" to be covered in the inquiry, Fulbright said.

Referred To Justice Dept.

The jury inquiry was ordered after the subcommittee referred the Justice Department to the hearing record for any evidence of perjury, tax evasions or other violations.

Capehart, insisting that the subcommittee continue, said, "We shouldn't stop now. We've got to get to the bottom of this mess."

Fulbright's plans to quit soon were not firmly set but he said:

"I honestly think there is not much more to be learned about the RFC that wouldn't be simply repetitious."

Fulbright has criticized the lending agency as sharply as the Republicans have.

Second Longest U. S. Casualty List Of War Is Issued

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP) — The second longest casualty list of the Korean war, containing 972 names, was issued today by the Defense Department.

A check of the next of kin notification, from which the list was compiled, showed that most of the casualties were suffered between Feb. 11 and Feb. 19.

The list, No. 247, identified 150 combat deaths, 510 wounded, 245 missing in action and 67 injured in accidents.

Plans To Curb Abuses In "Record" Studied

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) of the House Rules Committee said today controls are being studied to curb "the practice of using the Congressional Record for personal attacks and smear campaigns."

Sabath said he is trying to work out preventive rules. House leaders have privately voiced concern in the past over so-called abuses and regulations governing the Record.

B-25 Bomber Crashes

3 Americans, 23 Others Die In Plane Crash

HONG KONG, March 11 (AP)—A Pacific Overseas Airlines plane crashed and burned on one of Hong Kong's many hills today shortly after taking off in heavy fog for Siam, killing the 26 persons aboard.

Three American crewmen and one British passenger were listed among the victims. The remainder were Asiatic crewmen and passengers.

The four-engine Douglas DC-4 Skymaster crashed five minutes after taking off for Bangkok.

It struck Mt. Parker, scarcely 800 feet above busy King's Road in the populous Taikoo dockyard area.

White House Says Stenog Not Dismissed

Super-Carrier Bill Signed By Truman

KEY WEST, Fla., March 11 (AP)—President Truman went calmly to church today in the quiet of a sunny southern Sabbath against a background of events which found him:

1. Standing squarely behind a White House stenographer whose $9,540 mink coat has figured prominent in a Senate investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

2. Signing a bill authorizing a 57,000-ton carrier capable of carrying planes big and powerful enough to carry atomic bombs to a potential enemy. It covers in all 500,000 tons of new war shipping and authority to modernize 1,000,000 tons of existing shipping.

Truman, Murphy Confer

3. Talking over with Charles S. Murphy, his special assistant, efforts underway at Washington to bring organized labor leaders back into the defense mobilization program on which it walked out in a break with the administration.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short, under questioning at a news conference, made it clear that Mrs. Lauretta Young, wife of E. Merl Young, key figure in the RFC inquiry, has not been dismissed.

Young, a one-time $1,080 assistant messenger for the RFC, who became well-to-do working for firms which received RFC loans, is reported visiting with his wife in Florida.

Young's alleged influence with the RFC is one of the high points of the Senate inquiry which developed that Mrs. Young wears a fur coat paid for by a New York furrier who sought but did not get an RFC loan.

Keating Stands By Guns

Shortly after Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) asserted he had heard Mrs. Young had been dropped from the President's payroll word came from the Little White House: "It isn't true and it hasn't been under consideration."

In Washington Rep. Keating stuck by his report that Mrs. Young had been fired by President Truman.

He also said Mrs. Young was "being reinstated by the President" because of the Keating disclosure.

The Republican House member said in a statement today:

"I am standing by my guns. I'm sorry to hear that Mrs. Young is being reinstated by the President."

Brannan Victim Of Fake Want-Ad

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan was the victim today of a fake want-ad attempting to link him with the famous mink coat of the RFC investigation.

The Cabinet officer said it looks like the work of a "cruel, sadistic, damned fool."

Under "Found," this ad appeared in today's Washington Star:

"Natural pastel royal mink coat. 1600 Penna. Ave., N. W., Saturday morning. Or. 6226."

The address is the White House.

The telephone is Brannan's home.

Such a coat figured prominently in the Senate's current investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. It belongs to Mrs. E. Merl Young, a White House stenographer whose husband has been accused of influencing RFC lending.

Young has testified he bought the $9,540 garment for Mrs. Young with a loan from Joseph H. Rosenbaum, Washington attorney.

The investigating subcommittee has accused Rosenbaum of having "unusual success" in getting RFC loans for his clients, largely through Young's help.

Brannan's name has in no way figured in the coat angle or in any other way with the subcommittee's investigation.

DiSalle And Carey Clash On TV Program

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, said today that businessmen leading the government's mobilization program don't "know the difference between a New Dealer and a Communist." Price Director Michael V. DiSalle replied:

"You never work out problems by being on the outside and picking."

DiSalle and Carey clashed on an NBC television program presided over by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

DiSalle criticized labor's walkout from the mobilization program.

Nationalist China Appeals To U. N. To Condemn Reds

Charges 1,000,000 Massacred In Purge

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 11 (AP)—Nationalist China today asked the United Nations to condemn and punish the Chinese Reds for mass slayings on the mainland, which it called "a tragedy for the whole of mankind."

The appeal was sent through the Nationalist U. N. delegation by the Control Yuan, the Nationalists' top regulatory and investigative body.

Charges Million Slain

It followed charges by the Nationalist Defense Ministry that the Reds already have slain 1,000,000 persons of 25,000,000 marked for death in efforts to erase internal resistance prior to a third world war.

The Control Yuan asserted the Chinese Reds, backed by Russia, plan eventual extermination of 150,000,000 Chinese in a deliberate program to cut China's population of more than 450,000,000 persons to more manageable proportions.

Taipei newspaper publishers, asking the free world to take steps against the Chinese Reds, said two days ago that the ultimate goal of death was 200,000,000.

Reds Admit To Purge

Massacres already carried out on the mainland constitute "an unprecedented disaster for the Chinese nation and a tragedy for the whole of mankind," the Control Yuan said.

It exhorted the U. N. "severely to codemn the Chinese Reds and to adopt effective sanctions to halt their inhuman atrocities."

The fact that a great purge is actually in progress has been admitted by the Chinese Reds themselves. They naturally have given no comprehensive figures, but have openly decreed death for anyone who is even suspected of disapproving their regime.

Lineman Finds Sabu's Stolen Tableware

VAN NUYS, Calif., March 11 (AP)—Thanks to the curiosity of a telephone lineman, police today have recovered $8,000 worth of gold and silver tableware stolen last November from Sabu Dastagir, elephant boy of the films.

William M. Buchan was stringing line when he noticed a damaged wooden chest standing on end in a ditch. Throwing back the lid, he found a 79-piece gold flat ware set, a sterling silver tea set, and two air force medals.

Police identified the articels as Sabu's.

Baltimore Fire Claims Lives Of Four Children

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP) — A fourth child of the Carle Dicus family died today of burns suffered when a fire hit their West Baltimore row home Saturday.

Authorities at University Hospital reported Catherine, 7, died this morning.

Alice, 4, and Virginia, 7, were dead on arrival at a hospital yesterday. Doris, 17, died in the hospital a few hours after striking her head on the sidewalk as she tried to jump to safety.

Rail Slowdown Will Close J. & L.'s Pittsburgh Plant

PITTSBURGH, March 11 (AP) — Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation will shut its huge Pittsburgh works completely down tomorrow because of what it calls a slowdown strike by employes of a subsidiary railroad.

Closing the big South Side plant will throw 12,000 J. and L. employes out of work and cost the nation 4,500 tons of finished steel products a day. The company has been reported working on armor plate for tanks.

Agents of the National Mediation Board moved from Washington to Pittsburgh for a new try at settling the wage controversy between the fourth largest steel producer and the Monongahela connecting railroad's unionized employes.

The railroad performs essential switching and hauling operations within the plant.

Ordeal Of Fire Too Much For GI

TOKYO, March 11 (AP) — An indomitable young American is dead after surviving a gasoline fire bath and clubbings by his Chinese captors to escape from "Massacre Valley" on his 12th attempt.

But he died a free man.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters today confirmed the death of Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, Long Beach, N. Y.

The young soldier was in a U. S. Second Division task force ambushed by the Reds Feb. 13, as it proceeded along a mountain road north of Hoengsong in Central Korea.

Nearly 200 of his comrades were slain. Many more still are missing and only half the force of 2,400 men survived the attack.

The gaunt-faced soldier had seemed strong enough on the day of his escape Feb. 21, for doctors to permit him to talk about his experience. Three days later, however, his ordeal of fire, beatings, near starvation proved too much to bear. He died of burns and exhaustion in the Army's Fourth Field Hospital.

No Trace Of B-29

LONDON, March 11 (AP) — A three-nation search has failed to uncover a trace of a U. S. B-29 bomber missing in the Mediterranean area with 12 men aboard, U. S. Air Force headquarters here announced today.

GOP Threatens To Force House Action On Troops

Amendment To Draft Measure Is Planned

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—Administration efforts to confine the troops-to-Europe issue to the Senate alone ran into a double-barreled Republican threat today to force House action on the question.

Rep. Arends (R-Ill) planned to lay before the House Armed Services Committee tomorrow an amendment to the manpower-draft bill requiring congressional approval for assignment of U. S. divisions to the North Atlantic pact army. He had the backing of the House Republican Policy Committee.

Plan Joint Resolution

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) told a reporter that if administration leaders attempt to weaken pending Senate resolutions calling for congressional consent, he and others may move to substitute a joint resolution. This would have the force of law if the House went along.

The issue arose from administration moves to send ground forces under the North Atlantic defense treaty to join troops of Allied nations under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in guarding Western Europe against Russia.

President Truman promised to dispatch an initial force of four divisions to join two other American divisions already in Europe. In the course of hearings by Senate committees the debate settled on the point of congressional consent.

Knowland, O'Mahoney Disagree

Resolutions awaiting Senate action support use of troops, but they urge advance approval of Congress. Several backers of the resolutions insist they do not wish to delay the four divisions.

In a radio panel discussion, Knowland said today that while he was in favor of depending on the judgment of the nation's military leaders, it was the responsibility of both houses of Congress to set political policy on the issue.

Challenging a contention by Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) that congressional consultation on military moves would rob this nation of "flexibility" needed to meet possible Communist aggression, Knowland said:

"It should be understood if Russia moves in Europe we will be at war, and I think it is important that Russia should know that."

Advancing Column Under Heavy Fire

TOKYO, Monday, March 12 (AP) — A spearhead of the U. S. First Cavalry Division lanced within seven miles of Hongchon Sunday, prodding Chinese defenders into a desperation stand for that key Communist base in Central Korea.

The dismounted cavalrymen, supported by tanks, moved doggedly ahead, advancing their lines farther north than any other American division in Korea, field dispatches said.

The Reds furiously hurled heavy artillery, mortar and machine-gun fire on the advancing column from high positions on both sides of the road.

Red resistance stiffened sharply north and northwest of Allied-held Yongdu as cavalry lines reached within 25 air miles south of the 38th Parallel.

Marines Gain Three Miles

To the east, assault troops of the U. S. First Marine Division punched three miles closer to Hongchon. The Leathernecks captured hills overlooking another road leading northwest into that vital Communist supply and assembly area.

The Marine advance met only light to moderate resistance, AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported from the front. He said apparently the Chinese were not yet ready to start an all-out fight for Hongchon in that sector. However, the area directly ahead was "loaded with Communists," advance troops reported.

The Marines were nine road miles and six air miles southeast of Hongchon, which is 22 air miles south of the 38th Parallel.

The Chinese 66th Army (corps) has been identified in the line, defending its headquarters at Hongchon. Two more Chinese Red armies — the 39th and 40th — were believed backing up the 66th for the defense of the supply hub. A Chinese Red army averages 30,000 to 40,000 men.

Red Tactics Adopted

Eastward from the Marine base at Hoengsong, U. S. Second Division troops ripped a page from Red tactics. They made a surprise night attack that sent Korean Communists reeling northward.

The Reds abandoned guns, foxholes and log-bunkered entrenchments in their haste to pull north, six miles east-northeast of Hoengsong in the center of the Allied line.

Gromyko "Nyet" Expected Today

PARIS, March 11 (AP)—Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko is expected to deliver a clear and positive "nyet" at tomorrow's Big Four meeting.

In Russia, "nyet" means "no," in case there is anyone left who hasn't heard.

The Western Power delegations will be greatly surprised, according to informed sources, if Gromyko does not say "nyet" to their compromise effort to arrange a Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

Toward the end of Saturday's session at the Rose Palace in Paris, Alexandre Parodi, of France, announced that the U. S., France and Britain were ready to reword their proposed agenda to accommodate all of the Russian points.

That's why the delegates are meeting here—trying to arrange a list of subjects which the four foreign ministers can discuss with the idea of easing world tensions.

Gromyko listened to the rewording, said he reserved the right to comment on its length, and then speculated that it wasn't good enough. He denied that it accommodated all his points, or anything like all of them.

20,000 Reds Reported Wiped Out By Typhus

TOKYO, March 11 (AP) — Gen. MacArthur's headquarters has received a report that typhus in Korea has wiped out the equivalent of two Chinese Red divisions—20,000 men.

This report directly contradicts a statement from Eighth Army headquarters in Korea only two days ago that there was no confirmed evidence of any typhus epidemic among the Chinese and North Korean troops.

N. Y. Crime Probe Opens

Tiny Cups Of Deadly Poison Sought After Loss In Bronx

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP) — An isolated beach section in the East Bronx was scoured today for tiny cups of a deadly poison. The poison could kill a child who touches it and then puts his finger in his mouth.

The poison is sodium fluoroacetate, known also by the number 1080. The Health Department says there is no antidote.

The purple, jelly-like substance was used in a rat war at Fort Schuyler, site of the State Maritime College.

It was distributed in little paper cups, like those used in restaurants for mayonnaise or relish.

Some of the cups got lost.

The search was set off last night by the deaths of two dogs, a cat and a number of birds.

By mid-afternoon 10 cups had been found outside the fort.

Later the police called off the search, saying they were satisfied all or most of the poison had been found.

Stanley Fox, vice-president of the Commonwealth Sanitation Company, said the containers were retrieved last Monday. Most were burned, he said, but a wind blew some into Long Island Sound.

First American War Dead From Korea Sail For Home

YOKOHAMA, Japan, March 11 (AP)—Fifty American war dead from four branches of service were embarked today on a somber, precedent-establishing voyage home.

They were the first war dead back from the icy mud of Korea.

They were of all ranks, from private to general, of various creeds and races. They died on many scattered battlefields.

This was the first time America has returned her dead from an active theater of war, although bodies of some Korean war casualties who died in hospitals have been returned home for burial.

The Army has evacuated all war cemeteries south of parallel 38 in Korea, transferring the bodies either to Pusan or to mortuaries in Japan.

The dead sailed for San Francisco aboard the transport General G. M. Randall, beneath an aerial cross of jet fighter planes, while the ship's bell tolled. Similar shiploads will follow.

The dead all have been identified positively. Officials said the list would be announced before the General Randall reached port.

On arrival in San Francisco, the identities will be checked again. Telegrams will be sent to relatives. Then, if desired, each body will be sent home with an individual escort.

Yugoslav Chief Jibes At Stalin

BELGRADE, March 11 (AP) — Premier Marshal Tito warned Russia and the Soviet satellites today that Yugoslavs stand ready to spill their blood to defend their independence and freedom.. He also made a sneering reference to Prime Minister Stalin—by name.

Dapper in a dark, doublebreasted civilian suit, Tito spoke before an audience of approximately 1,000 veterans who participated in World War II's underground fight. The speech was punctuated by applause.

For the first time, with Slavic scorn, he jibed at Stalin himself. Tito said he had come to the rally suffering from an attack of influenza which recently laid low Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj.

Yugoslavia's chief, who has taken over the Foreign Minister's duties, said the Soviet-led Cominform had interpreted Kardelj's absence as a sign that Yugoslavia was going over to the "imperialistic camp."

"That's why I am here," he said with a grin. "It's different in the eastern countries. If Stalin sneezes, that is considered a contribution to the science of Marxism-Leninism."

Broken Leg Penalty For Forgetfulness

NORFOLK, Va., March 11 (AP)—Archie Crawford, 55-year-old mechanic, took his car to a service station yesterday to have it greased.

He stayed in the car as it was hoisted six feet into the air on the grease rack and attendants slipped underneath to apply the grease.

When a brush fire broke out in the vicinity, Crawford stepped out of the car to get a closer look.

Hospital attendants say his fractured leg will heal okay.

First Of Baltimore's Quads Leaves Hospital

BALTIMORE, March 11 (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pappas, who got all four of their children at once, have started bringing them home one at a time.

The heaviest of the celebrated quadruplets, Richard, left Maryland General Hospital yesterday weighing five pounds, nine ounces. He had gained four ounces over his birth weight.

Dr. Gibson J. Wells, hospital pediatrician who has been caring for the quads since their birth Feb. 24, says all are "doing beautifully."

Two Die In Crash Near St. Leonard, Md.

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., March 11 (AP) — Two men were killed and another seriously injured early today in a highway smashup on Route 2 near St. Leonard.

The dead:

Oliver H. Roberts, 33, Prince Frederick, who perished in flames that destroyed one vehicle.

Clifton Gross, 24-year-old negro of Adelina, who died in Calvert County Hospital several hours later.

In critical condition was Merle Wood, 29, Prince Frederick.

Drive On Red Arsonists Stepped Up In Singapore

SINGAPORE, March 11 (AP) — British authorities gave shoot-to-kill orders today to police battling Red arsonists on the streets of Singapore and armed senior boys in the English public schools with rubber truncheons for use on junior Communist terrorists.

This was a part of a stepped-up campaign to stamp out Red terrorism in Singapore and the federation of Malaya. It came on the heels of a curt demand from Red China to admit a team from Peiping to investigate charges that Chinese are being persecuted in Malaya.

including black-out curtains for movies, television and electronics displays. Each classroom also will have storage for paper, books and supplies pertaining to that particular department.

Each also will have its own wash basin and drinking fountain. What is more, the architect noted, the ceilings will be acoustically treated and heating and ventilating in each room will be controlled by its own individual thermostat.

This proposed new Lonaconing building, which will be constructed on the old baseball diamond at the edge of Lonaconing and on the road leading to Barton, will have countless other features to make learning easier and more pleasant.

For instance, the entrance lobby will feature Vermont flagstone flooring and continuous glass exterior walls. There also will be fluorescent and incandescent lighting throughout the structure. It also will be equipped with the latest communications system between the principal's office and all of the classrooms. Steam heat, with a coal-burning boiler also are planned.

Separate Rooms

The music department will have separate rooms for vocal and instrumental teaching.

Minter observed yesterday that the Mt. Savage School is costing approximately 60 cents per cubic feet because of many money-saving modern innovations whereas the national average for school construction is between 90 cents and $1.25 per cubic foot.

The architect won't admit that he is superstitious. But he is keeping his fingers crossed. The date the bids on the new Central School are due is Friday, the 13th of April.

For the sleek look, ensemble each item of your costume carefully — stockings especially, today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHO DOES NOT marvel at the sleek costumes on the fashion pages? But the same perfection can be yours if you are willing to do the head and footwork that achieves it. The trained stylists who create such costumes consider no amount of thought and preparation too much to expend.

For example, a sylist may have a salon full of fabulous and expensive hats to choose from, but her search won't end there if she does not find the one that has a close affinity with the rest of the costume. The tireless quest may end up at the much more humble hat bar, since price is never a factor in assembling a harmonious costume. A look of continuity, the gotogetherness of the items is the major consideration.

For a Sleek Look

To attain the sleek look, nothing in your ensemble from the posy in your buttonhole to the stocking on your leg, is small enough to leave to careless chance.

In fact, with the new short slim skirts revealing greater lengths of leg, the stocking must be coordinated with considerable skill. The shade must be carefully chosen or it will break the hard-won straight line of your new spring outfit's silhouette.

Your best selection is a hosiery shade that is color co-ordinated to the main color of your costume. This does not necessarily mean matching, like dark navy hose with a navy suit. On the contrary, the smartest hose are much lighter in tone so they are merely a misty reflection of the color worn above.

All brands of stockings are color-keyed to the popular spring clothing colors, so with the list of mixmates below you can easily get the just-right shades you need. With some costume colors, several stocking shades are listed to allow for varying shoe colors.

New Stocking Shades

With dark or misty blue clothes, choose hose in misty blue, smoky violet or flesh; with brown, tawney-toned stockings; with burnt orange, apricot or sunny beige; with a beige costume, neutral beige; with gray, cloudy gray, flesh or misty blue; with red, rose beige; with violet and mauve, pinky beige and violet taupe; with dark green, golden beige; with black, flesh or off-black.

Flattery tips: The long slender heel to slim the ankle; the shadowed seam for slenderizing the leg; the hazy colors for keeping the legs beautifully inconspicuous.

Today's Sermonette

bomb at Hiroshima killing 100,000, but it doesn't worry us, it does not stir our conscience. And the dreadful thing about it all is we are developing a good conscience about it all.

Trueblood also says when a good conscience comes to a man by any other way than the gospel it is the invention of the devil. The thing that makes war so fearful is that we forget that we are human beings, sacred individuals for whom Christ died.

War is the devil's power over sinful men. Dr. Albert Schweitzer calls it reverence for life. It is he who tells us to look beneath the "Thou shalt not kill" and see what God wants us to see, namely, that life is precious. It is therefore a legitimate question: Where can men learn this reverence for life? How can we lose this hardness that permits us to read in the paper that millions of children are starving, and then sit down and enjoy a nice meal? There is only one place, and that is beneath the cross of Jesus. There we see the wages of sin is death.

Eagles And Bears Score Upset Wins

The Steelers, first half champions of the LaSalle High Bowling League, took two tremendous beatings, losing three games to the high-flying Redskins last week and dropping two out of three this week to the cellar-dwelling Bears. "Big Jim" Connelly led the Eagles to their 3-0 victory over the Redskins with 145-418. Joe Fair topped the losing Skins' with a 137 single and 404 total.

In the other match, although losing two games, the Steelers picked up a game on the Redskins. Jerry Liobel led the victors with a 190 single and 411 set. Jack Vocke and Eddie Dove topped the losing leaders with 189-478 and 190-449 respectively. The standings:

County Red Cross Drive Reaches One-Third Mark

Approximately a third of the Red Cross goal for Allegany County has been collected according to William C. Walsh, campaign chairman.

Through Cumberland divisions, Walsh reported Saturday, $8,806 has been collected of the total county goal of $26,796. No returns have been received from the county divisions.

The chairman stressed the importance of reporting all money and pledges to date not later than Tuesday at Red Cross headquarters in the Post Office. Historical Pageant Will Be Staged As Feature Of Somerset Festival

Pioneer Life Will Be Given Stress

MEYERSDALE, Pa. — The 1951 historical pageant of the fourth annual Somerset County Maple Festival promises to be one of the outstanding attractions.

It will be presented in the State Theatre on Broadway in the Maple City April 13, 14 and 15, at 2:30 p. m.

The four episodes will portray early Indian and pioneer life in the county and the discovery of maple syrup; transportation on the National Old Trails Turnpike which passes through the southern part of Somerset county; the organization of the Farmers' National Grange and more specifically the Somerset County Pomona Grange, and the nationality dances and music of the younger immigrants to the north county mining towns.

A chorus of 45 voices, under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Rosenberger, will sing new, specially selected numbers appropriate to each episode. Several duets and solos will be rendered by the singers who come from Berlin, Meyersdale and Salisbury. The pageant orchestra will be under the direction of William M. Schaefer, music director of the Berlin-Brothersvalley High School in Berlin.

Iroquois Encampment

The first episode will show the Iroquois Indian encampment on the Peck farm near Meyersdale, and how the Indians first learned about making maple syrup. Chester Miller, music director of the Salisbury-Elk Lick High School, will sing the vocal solo.

The mighty Iroquois were greatly feared by all the other tribes. They were farmers as well as hunters, and once they discovered how to make the syrup from the sweet water of the maple tree, they set up permanent sugar camps to which their women and children journeyed each year during the sugar-making season.

The second part of the episode will deal with the story of George Crogan, "King of the Traders," the daring Irish adventurer who figured greatly in helping England get control of western Pennsylvania from the French who were aided by the Indians. The episode will close with the North American Indian dance by nine young men from Meyersdale.

Pack Horses

In the National Old Trails Turnpike episode life will be shown of the drovers with their pack horses and herds of cattle, sheep, hogs, and turkeys; wagoners with their Conestoga six-horse bell-teams, and the daily happenings at an old drovers' and wagoners' inn.

Several famous wagoners will appear including Dan Barchus of Salisbury, Nat Slicer of Meyersdale, and "Bella Hans" (John C.) Livengood, grandfather of editor emeritus William S. Livengood of the Meyersdale Republican. To his Conestoga wagon he hitched six iron-grey horses of which he was very proud.

In the pageant some very famous people will travel again through Somerset county on the Old Trails Turnpike. Some of these will be General Braddock, Christopher Gist, Mason and Dixon, Phineas T. Barnum and Jenny Lind, and President Polk and his wife. This episode will also feature a "bout" between two drovers, a square dance, and a clog dance by a wagoner, all of which contributed an evening's entertainment at the average inn on the Old Pike.

The third episode will bring the time down to the formation of the first National Farmers' Grange and later the Somerset County Pomona Grange. It will be under the direction of Miss Alice B. Ogline, present Somerset County Grange Master. She will be assisted by Miss Mildred M. Shultz, lecturer of the Somerset Grange.

The fourth episode will be furnished by the citizens of Windber, Boswell, and Central City in the northern part of the county. They will present nationality dances and accordian solos. Miss Agnes Shontz, instructor of the Shontz Dance Studio in Windber, will do Hungarian and Indian dances.

The entire pageant is under the direction of Miss Anna Bolden and Mrs. Rosenberger. The general committee is composed of Lawrence Lowstuter, Mrs. Silas Walker, A. J. Kerin, Mrs. Frances L. Imler, Walter W. Gress and Philip J. Reich.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 11 (AP) — Legislative leaders have decided to hold the session over until tomorrow to complete work on the $165,000,000 Budget Bill.

Although four of the five conference committees created by the two Houses to settle differences on controversial legislation were reported in agreement, the budget conferees still have not yet held their first meeting.

It was learned that the policy now agreed upon calls for the two Houses to act on the four other conference committee reports, then recess overnight to permit the Budget Committee to reach agreement on terms of the big appropriations measure.

This would call for the House and Senate to reconvene at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Under normal conditions the average person's heart beats more than 100,000 times every 24 hours.

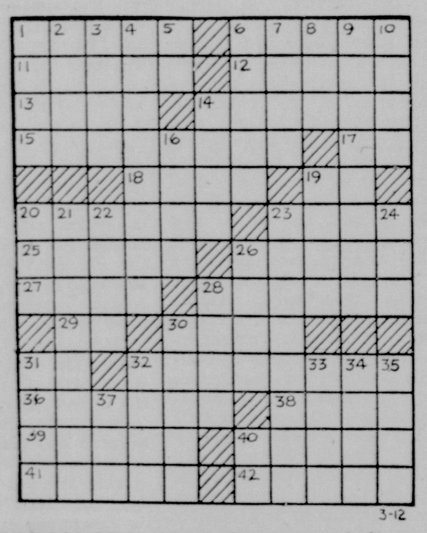
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D I L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J L N F X N J C I E C G G L Y E L Y H G D X F V M N C P H J X, O L P P C N F I W L G P H T X Z H K K M ' X N P C A X P D X T N H J X — F N I F X Y.

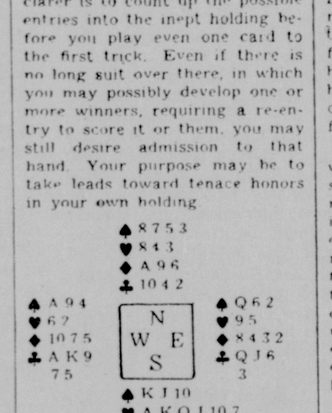
"The Authority on Authorities"

COUNT ENTRIES FIRST

WITH practically all of your side's really high cards concentrated in your own hand, opposite a weak dummy, one of the most important of your duties as declarer is to count up the possible entries into the inept holding before you play even one card to the first trick. Even if there is no long suit over there, in which you may possibly develop one or more winners, requiring a re-entry to score it or them, you may still desire admission to that hand. Your purpose may be to take leads toward tenace honors in your own holding.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	2 ♥	Pass

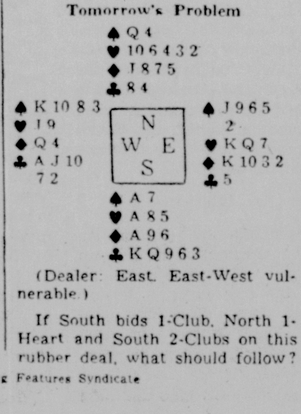
South could have made an extra trick in that contract, as the cards lay, but failed to exert the least bit of care, so scored only ten tricks. He was lucky, therefore, that North had not caused him to be in a contract of 5-Hearts because of his holding an ace opposite the game-demand two bid.

West took in his club K and led the A, which South ruffed with the heart 7—a very bad play. He cleared trumps with the A and K, then led to the diamond A so he could finesse the spade J. After that lost to the A, West put forth a third club, which South ruffed. Now, unable to get into the dummy to take the marked finesse against the spade Q, he had to keep leading from his own hand and so lost a trick to that card, therefore having to settle for exactly ten tricks.

You probably have already seen what South did incorrectly on the second trick. He should have ruffed that with a heart honor instead of the 7. That important card was smaller than the dummy's 8. After scoring two top trumps, he could then have used the 7 to the 8 as a re-entry to dummy. Counting up first and noting that he needed two dummy entries for two spade leads, he could hardly have failed to see how the second was buildable.

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Club, North 1-Heart and South 2-Clubs on this rubber deal, what should follow?

RFC: "Royal Fruit Cake"

The Senate Banking Subcommittee's probe of "influence" in Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans has brought out new demands for reorganizing or completely liquidating that agency. Sen. Kem (R., Mo.) introduced on March 5 a joint resolution for "termination of the powers and succession" of the RFC. Calling the agency "this royal fruit cake," Kem said a fundamental principle of American constitutional government is that "control of the federal purse strings should remain firmly in the hands of the elected representatives of the people in the Congress."

President Truman last year proposed to transfer the RFC to the Commerce Department, but the Senate vetoed the plan. At the same time Congress allowed a second Presidential plan, to shift the Federal Mortgage Association away from RFC to the Housing and Home Finance Agency, to go into effect. A new presidential reorganization plan now awaiting action by Congress would put the RFC under a single administrator.

The lending authority of the RFC was extended to June 30, 1954, with two additional years for liquidation, by a bill approved May 25, 1948. Congress at that time placed a top limit of $1.5 billion on outstanding RFC loans and investments at any one time.

Under earlier statutes the RFC would have expired on June 30, 1947. On that day President Truman signed a bill giving the agency a one-year extension of life, but ordering the rapid liquidation of its outstanding loans and security holdings and limiting new business to a total of $2 billion. The legislation provided also that no new loans could be made to foreign governments, to states, or on real estate.

The RFC was originally established by Congress in 1932 to meet financial emergencies of that period. In May 1946 President Truman said it would probably continue as a "more or less permanent agency."

In March 1949 the Hoover Commission on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government recommended that the RFC, described as "accountable to nobody," be shifted to the Treasury Department. The Commission's final report, made on April 1, 1949, "strongly" recommended liquidation of the RFC and its replacement by "guarantees by the government operating through the Federal Reserve banks of loans to be made by commercial banks." Three commissioners, among them Secretary of State Acheson, dissented.

Founded at the request of President Hoover, the RFC's original function was to shore up banks, railroads, other institutions which needed new capital to weather the economic collapse of 1929-33. Even advances to states for relief purposes were made as loans. Under President Roosevelt the agency was given a more direct relief role. As R. W. Robey reported in the Washington Post in December 1933: "Through pouring funds into the economic organization at any legal available point, it has become a positive inflationary force."

In World War II the RFC loaned almost entirely to Allied governments and to defense industries. Under President Truman it has become concerned largely with small business. It now says that during the course of its operations, 90 per cent of RFC loans have been to small business (loans of less than $100,000), about 51 per cent to companies wanting to borrow less than $25,000.

In the last six months of 1950, of 1,579 business loans extended by the RFC, 1414 were for less than $100,000. More than half that total (841) were for $25,000 or less. Dollar-wise, however, big business loans predominated. Of the total of $140,987,000 lent to business, only $40,011,000 was accounted for by loans of $100,000 or less.

Russia Still Imperialistic

A radio "forum" recently asked its listeners what headline they would most like to read in the next day's newspaper. A sizable number said something like this: "Russians Revolt—Overthrow Communism."

Many observers are convinced that a majority of the people of Russia would vote against communism in a free election. Nowhere in the world where the voting is by genuinely secret ballot has communism ever won a majority.

But the men in the Kremlin know that, and they have gone to extremes in eliminating any chance of a successful uprising by force of arms. In a major war fought outside their own borders, they might have a powerful underground movement to cope with, but that's the maximum that could be expected.

But if this imaginary headline did appear in tomorrow's newspapers, what would it portend? Russia might no longer be Communist, but that land would still be Russia. Russia before 1917 was an imperialist country, just as it is today.

Russia has always been interested in controlling the Balkans, the Dardanelles, Manchuria. She has always shown concern about Korea, China, Japan. She has habitually been suspicious and uncooperative.

Ambassador Bedell Smith, in Moscow after the war, found himself facing the same bad manners and conspiratorial unpleasantness reported by Neill S. Brown as minister to Russia in the 1850s.

So it is safe to predict that if communism were overthrown for good in Russia, the U. S. would still have trouble with Russian imperialism. The task of containing Russia might be made easier if the Kremlin lost the support of Communist traitors in Washington, but the land of the steppes would still be a tough nut to crack. It is dangerous oversimplification to regard communism alone as the enemy.

The Great Deterrent

The declaration by Dr. Vannevar Bush that the atomic bomb could destroy Russia is the most emphatic statement on the subject which has come from any qualified American. And Dr. Bush does speak with authority. During World War II he was director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development and as such was the leader of the 30,000 scientists whose coordinated work resulted in giving America this new military weapon.

From the standpoint of America's and Europe's security it was heartening to have Dr. Bush speak as he did. But he also pointed out that the condition which now gives this country so great an advantage over the potential enemy could not be depended upon to keep the peace indefinitely. Nor is it of itself the complete safeguard.

The possibility always exists that the Soviet Union will learn all the secrets of atomic energy and be able to give them practical application.

The United States has sent an ambassador to the court of Generalissimo Franco in Madrid. The checks will be going over later.

How To Keep Well

Hidden Exercises

THE relationship between exercise and obesity is a moot question. Physicians in general agree that weight loss following running, jumping, bending, and twisting but the reduction is brought about chiefly by sweating. Any football or basketball player may part with 10 pounds in this manner in a vigorous game.

Exercise requires energy and it is conceivable that the individual who eats sparingly will lose more weight in the circumstances than one who consumes enough calories to make up—and more—for the energy that has been burned. On a low calorie diet, the exerciser will achieve greater success than the nonexerciser. Does fat accumulate over a muscle that is being exercised? This is a debatable point even tho the theory is advocated widely among beauty experts who make it their business to slenderize hips and busts by this means. Some claim even better results by combining physical exertion with massage. The only answer we can give is that fat still settles over the jaw muscles even tho they are on the go in those who eat all the time.

We do believe, however, that exercising the abdomen, legs, and pelvic girdle is important in obesity because it helps strengten the muscles which affect posture. Often there is a shift in the distribution of fat leading to strain on the back and legs along with increasing relaxation of the muscles of the abdomen. These conditions can be overcome by keeping the muscles concerned as strong as possible thru the "daily dozen". But it is not easy to go through a routine of calesthenics every morning on getting up. Discipline is required to bend on the count of one, touch the toes on the count of two, and return to normal at three. This has been labeled humorously, "the bedroom jerks."

More than a decade ago an Englishman described a method of exercising that could be done in working hours with out attracting attention. The plan was devised specifically for "fatties" and the constipated. It comprised a type of progressive resistance exercise capable of doubling the power of the normal muscles within four to six weeks.

The individual pulls his abdominal wall in and out at least 50 to 100 times during the day. Meanwhile the diaphragm is given a workout by breathing five times in a row. Each expiration is slightly less than the inspiration, so that by the fifth inspiration, the chest cage is expanded and held highly. This amounts to taking a deep breath and holding it. The pelvic floor is exercised by alternately drawing up and relaxing the anus. This is important because the pelvic floor frequently is weakened in the obese, leading to constipation, rectal prolapse, hemorrhoids, and urinary troubles. The fourth maneuver is most difficult to learn. It consists of moving the muscles along the sides of the abdomen by drawing the hip and lower ribs on one side. Furthermore, the head and body must be kept erect when walking to encourage the proper stance.

Those who advocate these invisible exercises recommend that they be done while traveling, waiting for a bus, or sitting at a desk or dinner the table. The secret is to do them so often they become habitual.

TINY BABIES

Mrs. F. writes: Is a very small baby given the same treatment as a premature?

REPLY

As a rule, yes, because a baby under 5½ pounds needs special attention. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet describing the care given prematures.

ACTH AND PAIN

D. T. writes: Does ACTH kill pain?

REPLY

Yes, by attacking the source of the disease, rather than through an analgesic action such as occurs with aspirin, codein, and morphine.

WEIGHT GAIN

Mrs. G. writes: Does reading while eating make a person gain weight?

REPLY

No, but eating while reading may do so.

ARTHRITIS SYMPTOMS

M. L. writes: Some physicians say I have arthritis and others say I do not. Could I have arthritis without swollen joints?

REPLY

Yes. Swelling is only one manifestation of the disease. Pain, stiffness, and crepitation (gritting sounds) are others.

STREPTOMYCIN

D. F. G. writes: Will streptomycin arrest tuberculosis of the lungs more than once? I have just broken down again after four years of health.

REPLY

It is possible and worth trying. Failure is likely, however, if the organisms are resistant to the streptomycin received previously.

NOT A SIGN

Mrs. F. writes: Are mentally ill people always dizzy?

REPLY

No. Dizziness is not a symptom of mental impairment except in the slang sense of the world.

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

President Truman's Temperament Is Major Topic Abroad; Hasty Replies To Oral Questions Worry Europeans; Impact Of American Ways Noticeable In Greece

(Ed. Note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

ATHENS — The chief subject every American is asked about, no matter what country he is traveling in, is Harry Truman's temperament. Why, you are asked, does your president write so many letters? Why does he call people so many names? Why does he make so many quick statements in press conferences?

Few people in the United States realize how widely the President's letter to Paul Hume, Washington music critic, was published—from London to the smaller cities of the Balkans. In Turkey some newspapers, having heard that the President once hurled an uncomplimentary epithet in my direction, got mixed up and thought the Hume letter had been written to me.

Leaving personalities strictly aside, however, the net effect of the President's mercurial disposition is to give the rest of the world an impression of American unsteadiness and a feeling that we are likely to fly off halfcocked. This applies to press conferences just as much as Presidential letter-writing, as two cases will illustrate.

A couple of weeks ago, Mr. Truman was asked at a press conference whether the United Nations forces in Korea would cross the 38th Parallel. He replied that he was leaving this entirely up to General MacArthur. Now, it so happened that this was not true. But true or not, nothing he could have said could have injured our relations more with other UN nations, for several reasons.

First, they feel important political decisions of this kind involving further embroglio with China and Russia are not up to the American military commander but to the entire UN. Second, both the French and the British repeatedly urged, requested and begged us not to go above the 38th Parallel prior to MacArthur's previous disastrous advance. Third, we are now demanding that Europe rearm under an American ground commander, an American naval commander and air commander. Unfortunately, Mr. Truman's hasty press conference statement makes them think twice about who would decide political matters regarding European defense.

The other Truman press conference boner was his famous statement that we are considering dropping the a-bomb on Korea which brought British Prime Minister Attlee hotfooting it to Washington.

Questions Sometimes Loaded

Most people don't remember that the three most recent Republican president's refused to answer oral questions at press conferences and that it is only a man of extraordinary versatility, such as Franklin Roosevelt was, who can get away with it. Every week, as 200 newsmen face the President, they come armed with questions which either they or their editors have concocted on a score of difficult, sometimes intricate, problems. Some are friendly, some are cauculated to embarrass, some merely want information. Presidents Coolidge and Hoover found it wiser to answer these only when handed in in writing, in advance, and this system of written questions began through the same kind of boner as that which Mr. Truman has occasionally been guilty of.

During the Washington Arms Conference in 1921 President Harding, who then permitted oral questions, was asked whether the treaty banning fortifications applied to the Japanese mainland which, of course, included Japanese islands. He replied in the affirmative, whereupon the State Department had to rewrite the entire treaty to clarify this issue. After that Harding permitted only questions in writing.

American Impact On Greece

You don't have to read the signs at the railroad stations to sense the difference between the Communist and capitalist countries when you pass a border in Europe. The minute you get into Greece from Communist Jugoslavia you can tell the difference in a dozen different ways — the availability of taxicabs, the speed of doing business, the vigor of the atmosphere. Part of this is due to American money and American methods, which have had a terrific impact on Greece during the last three years....Greece now rates as one of the most efficient countries in Europe. Gen. Reuben Jenkins, a former Georgia national guardsman, deserves great credit for training the Greek army into an aggressive, compact fighting force which could throw 10 divisions into battle overnight with 10 more divisions available in a week....Greek airways now cover the country. Whereas it once took days to get around Greece by boat, airplanes now reach almost every corner in a matter of hours. Much of this enterprise is due to American aid and encouragement. U. S. Ambassador Jack Peurifoy had a lot to do with persuading the Greek government to open its border to Jugoslavia at Salonika, thus permitting American food shipments to enter by the shortest route. I was on the first train from Greece into Jugoslavia carrying American food, marking a new milestone in Jugoslav-Greek friendship. Most people wouldn't realize the significance of this first pioneer train unless they remembered that, only brief months ago, Jugoslavia was still the chief source of arms for Communist guerrillas which had kept Greece in a state of bloody revolt for three years. In contrast, Jugoslav officials, with U. S. Ambassador George Allen, came from Belgrade to the Greek border to participate in a friendly ceremony with Greek officials and the U. S. consul at Salonika, Glenn Abbey....The greatest contribution to people-to-people friendship in the Near East over a long period of years has been supplied by Roberts College in Istanbul and the American Farm School in Salonika, under Charles House. Both have turned out thousands of youngsters who not only have improved their own country but have strengthened the friendship between the United States, Greece and Turkey. Wherever you go in the Near East, you bump into Roberts College graduates who are working for this better understanding.

Matter Of Fact

WASHINGTON

GENERAL OF THE ARMY MacArthur's prediction of a stalemate in Korea, and the news of another heavy Chinese offensive, should be read in context with the planned indiscretions of a Russian diplomat in this country. Neither the diplomat in question, nor the man he talked to, can be identified. But the diplomat's remarks are worth repeating.

The Russian asserted at the outset that the only reason the "imperialist" forces had not been finally defeated is that the Chinese do not have the necessary airpower and other modern weapons. In the last war, he said, the Soviet Union built a great air force and masses of weapons without outside technical assistance, and while the Nazis occupied key industrial areas in Russia.

The Chinese had unlimited manpower, and no part of China was occupied. Given "technical assistance" from the Soviet Union, Chinese deficiencies in airpower and modern weapons could in time—perhaps in a year or so—be remedied. Then the "imperialists" would be driven into the sea.

Meanwhile, the diplomat said flatly, neither the Russians nor the Chinese would entertain for an instant any proposal for a settlement which permitted the Americans to remain in Korea, at the 38th Parallel or anywhere else. Moreover, if by some chance the "imperialist" forces again reached the Manchurian and Soviet Siberian border, or if the Americans attacked the Chinese mainland, the Soviet Union would be forced to intervene openly in the war.

Base For Interpretation

These remarks can be best interpreted in the light of the Russian and Chinese roles in the Korean War. In the first place, it is now established, from documents captured in North Korea and from other evidence, that plans for capturing South Korea were first agreed upon between Mao Tse-tung and Stalin during Mao's first mission to Moscow, in December 1949.

From the first, Mao's contribution was to be in manpower, accordingly, the Chinese armies began to concentrate in Manchuria well in advance of June 25th. The Fifth and Sixth North Korean armies, which formed the spearhead of the attack, were sent across the border. These armies were actually composed of Chinese nationals of Korean origin, who had trained and fought with the Chinese Red Army. The Soviet contribution consisted of weapons, including tanks and aircraft, for the Koreans (for which the North Korean government was charged full value).

Meanwhile, the Chinese armies were kept in reserve in Manchuria, in case the plans miscarried. And the Kremlin, for its part, promised the Chinese to intervene with the Soviet Siberian air force if China itself were attacked. The plans of course did miscarry, and Mao, fulfilling his part of the bargain, sent in his best Chinese troops. But it is a striking fact that since the Chinese intervention, the Chinese have been fighting almost barehanded, with none of the equipment which the Russians initially supplied to the North Koreans.

In view of the foregoing, a reasonable interpretation of the Russian diplomat's remarks is about as follows:

Soviet Objectives

First, it is the primary Soviet objective if possible to persuade this country and its allies that no settlement of the Korean War is possible, and that the war is therefore endless and hopeless. If the UN forces now withdraw, the Kremlin will have enjoyed a marvelously cheap victory.

Yet if the UN forces do not withdraw, and the Chinese are defeated, it is a secondary Soviet objective to make as certain as possible that the UN forces do not take action which would make it necessary for Stalin to honor his bargain with China, and intervene openly.

Finally, it is clear that the Russians are extraordinarily reluctant so to strengthen the Chinese

These Days

The Missing Link

IN ALL THE excitement about Europe, with such voluminous and expert testimony about how many divisions we must send to defend the Rhine and other touristic rivers, little or nothing is being said about Central or South America.

It would seem that this is the missing link in our policy. These two American continents are joined together in an association of mutual self-interest which makes for a natural alliance. Besides, we are, with increasing rapidity, recognizing that with the probable exception of diamonds, the American continents can provide all essential minerals and metals necessary for our production and defense. In fact, with sensible capital investments, the American continents could supply all the raw materials essential to our well-being.

Yet, so strong is the European tradition among us that we plunge into constantly more expensive adventures on the continent of Europe, while we ignore altogether the great riches on the American continents.

Governor Dewey's metallurgical knowledge failed him when he testified before Senator Connally's committee, for the Governor seems to have forgotten the resources and reserves of Brazil and Chile in his excitement over how many divisions General Eisenhower requires, something about which General Eisenhower has been discreetly silent.

Herbert Hoover, who has always been a mining engineer and a metallurgist, who wrote a classical textbook on the subject and translated another from the Latin, contested Governor Dewey's worries in the following language:

"I presume Governor Dewey's statement was made in reply to one of mine, and Governor Dewey limited his statement to continental United States. I said that it is possible, by proper economic policy, to develop all of the necessary and critical raw materials in the Western Hemisphere. I include the whole hemisphere, and not the United States alone . . .

"Now, supplies of many of these critical commodities are a matter of price. For instance, if there was a sufficient price, and I do not think that it is a very much larger price, probably five cents a pound in the present buying power of money, this country could produce all of the zinc and all the lead, and the Western Hemisphere could produce all of the copper that it would require. As to uranium supplies they would be more costly, if we had to get them out of the Western Hemisphere. There is also cobalt and chromium and there are aluminum ores. They are all possible at a sufficient price. So that the argument does not run in full. It only runs to the expenditures."

So, I looked up a few facts:

Antimony ore is available in Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Honduras, th United States and Mexico.

Bauxite, from which aluminum is made, is available in British Guiana, Curacao, Jamaica, Surinam and the United States.

Chrome ore is found in the United States and Canada, the Philippines and Cuba.

Cobalt ore is found in the United States and Canada.

Copper is found in Chile, Peru and Ecuador, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Lead ore comes from the United States, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Canada, Mexico and Newfoundland.

Manganese is found in the United States and Mexico, but more in Brazil, Chile and Cuba.

Petroleum comes from the United States, Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia.

Tin ore comes to us in vast quantities from Bolivia. There is also tin ore in Brazil and Chile.

Much is said about the lack of tungsten. Argentina, Brazil, the United States, Canada, Mexico, Bolivia and Peru supply tungsten.

Vanadjum comes from Peru and the United States.

Zinc comes from the Argentine, Bolivia, Peru, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

This is neither a complete list of metals nor a complete list of what is available on the American continents. It is a sample to cut sharply into the argument that these two great continents, which for centuries have been regarded as nature's treasure house, have suddenly become Old Mother Hubbard's cupboard merely to establish a political argument. Brazil alone, with adequate capital investment and engineering skill, can show the politician that it is not necessary to kill American boys to get metals.

As for uranium, there is ample on the American continent and everybody knows it, including Joe Stalin—and the Geiger counters are chasing each other to find samples.

If we think of the American continents more, and devote ourselves to cultivating the good will of our Latin neighbors, we will be showing some common sense.

Best Investments

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Fla., March 11 —This week I am not discussing the immediate effect of inflation which I have already covered. Rather, I am telling you what will happen 10 years hence. During the past 10 years our dollar has declined in value to about 50 cents. If we should get into World War III, I expect, during the 10 postwar years, our dollar will become worth less than 25 cents. How can readers protect their hard-earned savings under such conditions?

Health And Education

Cold statistics show that the greatest wealth consists of good health and good judgment. The most wasteful people and the poorest investors are those who sacrifice their health for money, pleasure, or social position. They will ultimately be treated by society as an orange peel is treated after one has sucked out the juice. Hence, wise investors will put health first. The next best investment is to give our children good, practical education and sane religious ideals. Therefore, storing up physical, mental and spiritual resources is of great importance. These are the best hedges against long-term inflation. The less the dollar becomes worth, the more these reserves will be worth.

With these blessings you surely will also want a home. If you have none and have the funds, buy one now. When you buy commodities for less than they can be produced, or buy land for less than it can be cleared, or buy a house for less than it can be built, all for your own use, you are sure to make money. Some day people will see the light and switch some of their bank accounts, which may constantly become of less value, into good land and houses. Remember there are over two hundred billions of dollars almost idle in bank accounts or disposable government bonds which could be spent for better homes.

What About World War III?

Only Mr. Stalin knows whether World War III will start in 1951. His present policy seems to be to scare us, with violent propaganda, to spend hundreds of billions more on armaments and thereby force serious inflation and depression upon us. Russia may believe that the easiest way to beat the capitalistic system is to make it nonprofitable. If so, this surely will cause our people to scramble for real estate, commodities (oils, metals, etc.) and the stocks of merchandising companies. They will buy no bonds except "convertibles."

Some ask who will then have the money to buy farms, houses, and other real resources? My answer is that the farmers, merchants, and even wage workers who now have over a billion of almost idle funds will then have the money. Not being satisfied with what they now have and hating to pay taxes, I fear they will force the government to print more paper money and issue more bonds. As a result, if World War III should come, I expect to see, during the post-war years, letter postage at 25 cents, hair cuts at $5, and common labor at 100 per day.

We Have The Brains

Conditions in the United States will be tough for all who are now living on their money; but those with character, education, and energy to work will come through okay. Just as the brains of man overcame the wild beasts, so the brains of the United States, England and Western Europe should overcome the savages of Russia and elsewhere. Their representatives now yelp and howl, like animals, at the sessions of the United Nations; but we have nothing to fear if we continue to build up our health, our intelligence, and put our money into real property instead of depending upon paper profits or perhaps even bank books.

We may temporarily "lose face" by quitting Korea. Indo-China, India, Burma, and China will appear to scare us off. If we avoid

RESPONSIBLE LEADERSHIP

He was a good man, and full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. Acts 11:24. Read verses 19-30.

All too frequently the spiritual estate of the Christian fellowship is in the hands of unspiritual leadership. What a lift the church would experience if it were in the hands of men whose goodness followed the pattern which Jesus described!

He thought of a good man as a humble man. When he wanted to define humility he dramatized it when he stooped and washed his disciples' feet. "If I, your Lord and Master, wash your feet, you ought also to wash one another's feet."

Also, a good man, according to Jesus, identified himself with humanity everywhere. "If all men count with you . . . If you can walk with kings nor lose the common touch . . . you'll be a man." (Kipling) The selfconscious feeling of national, religious, and racial groups that they alone are the people who count, is one of the fountain heads of the world's woe.

Again, Jesps would regard a man as good who honestly sets out to find the ultimate truth that lies back of this bewildering, measureless universe. The more staggering the universe becomes, and the more hopeless the conditions, the more necessary it is to have a personal God.

Let Us Pray: Give us a spirit, our Father, that seeks to measure life alongside the life of Jesus. Amen.

Dairy Calf Club To Elect Officers

Officers will be elected Tuesday at 8 p.m. by the Allegany County Dairy Calf Club at a meeting at the office of Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, at the Court House.

Various phases of dairying will be discussed at the business meeting. Any boys interested in joining the club may do so Tuesday.

Conference Planned On Wage Boosts

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county schools, will confer with members of the County Board of Commissioners Tuesday to discuss the cost of a proposed increase in teachers' pay.

Kopp will present figures on the total cost of the program.

The county commissioners suggested an increase to the teachers in the lower brackets in order to enable them to meet the rising cost of living.

Allegany county starts teachers with a bachelor's degree at $2,400 instead of the state minimum of $2,200. The top county scale is $3,900.

Matter Of Fact

Communists, with aircraft and heavy weapons, that the Chinese might become in fact supreme in Asia.

"Technical assistance" is no substitute for this sort of equipment, which Chinese industry cannot conceivably produce in the foreseeable future.

The fact is that the Chinese have been playing Russia's game in Korea, with no compensating advantages to the Chinese. If the current offensive fails, the Chinese will then have no alternative but to admit failure, or to commit all China's by no means inexhaustible reserves of trained military manpower to Korea, in an attempt to drown superior UN firepower in human blood.

The Chinese Communist leaders are anything but fools, and they must be fully aware that the Chinese are paying the piper while the Russians call the tune. A settlement becomes possible when it is in the interests of both sides to settle. This is why it is still hoped that the Chinese will eventually cease to play Russia's game in Korea, and will become willing to settle on reasonable terms. This hope may well be dashed—the Chinese may by now be left without a shred of independence. But there is no reason to assume that the hope is forlorn, if the UN stands firm.

This means that we should now spend less on nonessentials, but along with military preparations, we should invest more in good religion, good health, good education, good land, and good houses, which should double in value, war or no war.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—LET'S PUT aside this dreary nonsense of war and want, tyranny and taxes. Mightier events are astir.

Spring is here and Elliott Roosevelt is in love again. Old Faithful has broken through the hard crust of wintry bachelorhood once more, breaking ground like a blushing crocus and restoring the faith of a lot of us in romance and spring itself.

Elliott's lucky umteenth wife-to-be is a fine looking matror named Minnewa. Friends and admirers of the distinguished commentator on the American scene are in a veritable tizzy over the impending nuptials. They see in this union an historic note. This will be the first time Elliott ever married anybody named Minnewa.

There are a few bothersome and irritating little details to attend to before the happy day. Minnewa is married and there's the business of what to do with her child, and there's always the chance that the new union will upset the delicate balance of Elliott's support of his own scattered children.

But love will find a way, and if all goes well Elliott will be safely married again before the first rose blooms, a source of comfort to the country in times of stress.

Mickey Rooney, another man of distinction and career dabbler in matrimony, has taken cognizance of this tender season and its traditional implications. Through his studio, MGM, and a spokesman, Mickey has issued a statement which should enable all insomniacs to cease their restless tossing at night.

Mickey and his latest estranged wife, Martha Vickers, are going back together for old time's sake. They feel, according to the spokesman, that such enduring ties as they had known can never really be cut. After all, they were united in the holy bonds of acrimony from June 3, 1949 all the way to the following Dec. 6.

But spring is more than a time of blue skies and the rebirth of the land and the spirit. It is a time of quick storms, too, a time when a wan and chilled waft of air can pierce the precious zephyrs of the season. Babs Hutton, for instance, is fresh out of husbands.

Babs made an unnerving discovery recently, and one that came as a distinct shock to all true followers of her previous brushes with wedded bliss. The millionairess discovered, she said, that her fourth husband, Prince Igor Troubetzkoy, actually was interested in her money!

We can all afford to sympathize with the young lady in her shattering disillusionment. It must indeed be a blow to a wife to learn that her mate, home from a hard day's work on the ski slopes of San Moritz or the Chemin de fer table at Cannes, is coming home not to see what the little woman has cooked for supper, or notice how well she laundered the curtains, but to count her money.

It must have been a bolt from the blue for this sensitive little housewife. How can a girl ever tell? That's what I always say. Well, Babs, in the game of matrimony we've got to take the good with the bad. Better luck the next four times!

Another sad chapter of this vernal equinox is the case of poor little Denise Darcel. Her husband, Peter Crosby, conked her with a glass of champagne at a little family eating place named El Morocco recently. She left him, it is said, when she discovered that the scoundrel had used domestic champagne.

Like many a separated wife who has had to take in washing to make ends meet, Denise promptly went to work—doing a song and grind at Ciro's on Miami Beach. One can appreciate her desire to get away from it all.

As long as we're recounting the cloudy side of spring, it should be stressed that the showers of April are known to produce flowers in May. One searches for a sign, however. It could be Elliott. It could be Mickey. Or it could be the news from London that Winston Churchill is back in the House of Commons after an attack of boils.

But one of the most encouraging of all recent items was a notation that a Boston astrologer had discovered a very large asteroid racing toward the earth thousands of miles an hour. He said he thought it would burn itself out harmlessly when it his the heavy atmosphere above the earth. But, he added with a satisfied little cackle, he wasn't too sure.

There were 335,000 high school teachers in the United States in 1940.

We are in a state of Emergency.
We must build our military strength—and,
at the same time, we must keep our economy strong
for the long pull. Inflation bleeds both!

One way to hit at the heart of

Inflation —

more production

Right now, our nation faces a tremendous production job.

We have been producing at near-capacity to meet our civilian demands. Now we must also produce guns, tanks, planes and other war materials to build our military strength.

How do we do it?

We must shift part of our production from peacetime to war goods. This means fewer civilian goods to buy until we can increase our production of both defense and civilian goods.

Increased production calls for improved management and labor skills, more factories, expanded plants, and new machinery.

If Government, management and labor pull together—if every one of us works harder, accepts the fact that living is going to be tougher—we can do the job!

What's more, by increasing production, by making supply catch up with demand, we not only make America stronger, we also do much to help to check Inflation.

5 more things that must be done to check Inflation—even with price controls

1. Support increases in taxes: To put our Government on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.
2. Maintain credit curbs: To reduce the competition for civilian goods.
3. Increase personal savings: To provide investment money for greater production and to lessen the demand for goods.
4. Buy only for real needs: Overbuying only increases shortages, and adds to the inflationary pressures.
5. Cut non-military expenditures: To provide money for vital military needs and to hold down tax increases and borrowing.

These things won't be easy for any of us to do. We must also forego increased wages and profits unless they are the result of increased production. But everybody will agree it's worth sacrificing to prevent the Sixth Column Enemy—INFLATION—from bleeding our economy.

This message is one of a series on Inflation brought to you by the life insurance companies and their agents, who believe that keeping America strong is the job of each and every one of us.

You can help check Inflation by doing your part and by letting your representatives in Government know that you support every action they take to stop Inflation—The Sixth Column Enemy.

Brigham Young Plays St. Louis In NIT Tonight

St. Bonaventure Faces St. John's Redmen In Other Quarter-Final

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Seeded favorites swing into action in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament tomorrow while NCAA officials try to fill remaining gaps in their championship event opening the following week.

St. Johns of Brooklyn, seeded No. 1, will play St. Bonaventure and Brigham Young, No. 3, will face St. Louis tomorrow night in invitation quarter-final games at Madison Square Garden.

Brigham Young, champion of the Skyline Six, and St. Louis, the team that licked Kentucky, clash in the opener at 7:45 p. m. (EST). The second game will start at approximately 9:45 p. m.

The other quarter-final games are set for Tuesday night, sending North Carolina State's national scoring leaders against Seton Hall and Arizona, the Border champs, against Dayton. N. C. State is seeded second and Arizona fourth. Semi-finals are Thursday and finals Saturday.

Meanwhile, the 16-team NCAA field is filling up gradually, with only four spots to be determined.

Three of these are "at large" representatives from the eastern sector which Asa Bushnell, a member of the selection committee, promises will be picked by early tomorrow afternoon.

Seven teams are under consideration for the vacancies. They are Holy Cross, Villanova, Toledo, Louisville, Cincinnati, Connecticut and Washington and Jefferson.

The fourth opening in the NCAA field will go to the Southwest Conference champion, which is to be determined.

Texas A. and M. got the jump toward this title by beating Texas, 45-33, last Friday night in the first game of a best-of-three playoff series. The second game is scheduled tomorrow night at Austin, Tex., where the Aggies haven't beaten Texas in 17 years, with the decisive game, if necessary, Tuesday night.

University of Washington wrapped up the Pacific Coast Conference crown and an automatic NCAA bid by winning its second straight from UCLA in the playoff last night at Seattle, 71-54.

Here is the NCAA setup, as it stands now:

Eastern Regional

At Raleigh, N. C., March 20 — North Carolina State vs. at large team; Kentucky vs. at large team.

At New York, March 20—Columbia vs. Illinois; at large vs. at large.

Western Regional

March 21—Kansas State vs. Arizona; Brigham Young vs. San Jose (Calif.) State or Montana State.

March 22—Oklahoma A. and M. vs. San Jose State or Montana State; Washington vs. Texas A. and M. or Texas.

(Semi-finals March 23 and finals March 24).

San Jose State and Montana State were named last week as "at large" teams for the western eliminations. St. Johns of Brooklyn was picked as one of the four "at large" representatives in the east. The draw for the "at large" teams has not been made.

In the opening round games of the N.I.T. Saturday, the St. Louis Billikens downed LaSalle (Philadelphia) 73-61, Seton Hall walloped Beloit (Wis.) College, 71-57, St. Bonaventure eliminated Cincinnati, 70-67, and Dayton defeated Lawrence Tech, 77-71.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Frisco Sidelights

SAN FRANCISCO

THIS IS A sparkling and hospitable city. I hadn't been here half a day before I was invited to the Bohemian Club and a prize fight at the Cow Palace which was between Joe Louis and a gent named Andy Walker who boxes like somewhere in his breeding there had been a cross with a wrestler. As the battle proceeded, it turned out the name of the auditorium was most appropriate.

Now at lunch, we were joined by a gay, genial companion who began to tell stories of his career and experiences, and these proved to be most entertaining. First he exhibited a prop ticket made up by the Union Pacific Railroad which he pulled out of his pocket and unrolled. When completely unfurled, it reached out to the butler's pantry. Then he related his adventures in visiting Herbert Hoover who was President of the United States at the time.

"First of all," began our friend, "my wife and I had a compartment so I decided to take the upper berth after she had made up her mind, since she has a whim of steel. Now, I could never get used to pajamas and have always stuck to go d old-fashioned nightshirts. As I was climbing up the ladder, some idiot had left the electric fan turned on and the tail got caught—that is, of the garment. I had to unbutton and shed the shirt to save my life and just in time, too. I switched the gadget off and slept in my underwear, since I wasn't going to risk a clean one, and the first was in shreds." (A funny idea, even if not true. Editor's note)

"We got in the dining car for breakfast all right, and I looked over the menu and saw the prices were pretty high, so I kicked my wife gently under the table, and remarked to the steward,

"'You know we eat a very light meal in the morning.'

"'That's too bad,' he said, 'because I was told there would be no charge, and you are to be the guests of the railroad.'

"'Let me look again,' our friend added. 'I find I feel quite a lot hungrier than usual today.'

The big blowoff is when he reports about arriving at the White House.

"Mr. Hoover greeted us," he went on, and then said, "'I want to put a White House car at your disposal while here.'

"'Oh no,' I protested. 'You may need to use it yourself.'"

These are just some samples of San Francisco wit. The man, himself, is a first-class citizen and very wealthy so I was told. He folded up his ticket and went on his way.

That night we rode out to the Cow Palace, and, after some painful preliminaries, old Joe Louis came ambling down the aisle into the ring. He looks about the same on the outside, except for a bald spot which glistens in the lights, but something must have run down inside. I had seen him in most of his great fights, and I fully expected he could close up for the evening any time he thought he ought to leave to catch a plane.

In the first round, he hit Walker with a left hook that turned his legs to rubber, and I thought the old champion could have finished him then, but might be carrying him a few rounds to give the crowd a show. It is true his opponent would wrestle and hold and run. Neverthelsss, old Joe hit him with everything he had, both rights and lefts, and he couldn't put him down for the count. Walker was pretty well chewed up, although still on his feet when the referee stopped it.

The Palace was crowded to the rafters, and it echoed with boos for the old champ as his hand was held up in victory. At the start, he was the hero and loudly cheered, until the spectators realized he couldn't knock out the California fighter, and then they turned. I suppose that's what they pay their money for—to express their feelings, but on my way home I felt it was a sad sight for the great Louis to have to hear this barrage of boos.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 11 (INS)—"Brigadoon," the Allen Lerner musical hit for which M. G. M. paid a fortune, is being readied for Gene Kelly and Kathryn Grayson. Gene, in Europe, and Kathryn, getting ready to go there, have not been together on the screen since the highly successful "Anchors Aweigh."

Gene Kelly

Lerner, himself, arrives next week to write the script, but the picture is not penciled in for production until late summer or early fall. Kelly has first to make "Huckleberry Finn."

The dances are as important in "Brigadoon" as the songs, and there is nobody better on staging and originating these routines than Mr. Kelly.

Jeanne Crain, who is probably the most easy going and least temperamental actress on the 20th lot, for the first time in her life put in a pitch for a role. She wanted the Anne Baxter part in "Doctor's Diary" and a chance to work with Joe Mankiewicz and she made no bones about it.

So, Jeanne, one of 20th's important stars, was given the good news on Saturday that she gets the role that Anne Baxter had to forfeit because of approaching motherhood.

Ann Blyth's tests were excellent, but it was planned to borrow her for another picture. Negotiations are on to sign Charles Laughton for the role of the dean.

In Rome traveling with Rita Hayworth is her old friend Lola Leighter and Lola's husband, Jackson. That's why I believe that Rita will only stop briefly at L'Horizon to see Rebecca and Yasmin and then head for America.

I know she has plans to get here next month, and when she arrives there will be discussions on motion pictures. She has several stories she likes, which she will bring with her. It's my guess Lola will make the trip with her.

I believe right now Rita could use some money since she is receiving little from "Loves Of Carmen," her last picture.

Bob Crosby won't make any money out of his personal letter from President Truman. It's a nice one!

Last week, Bob wrote the President suggesting that the name of government bonds be changed from sevings bonds to security bonds and that the slogan, "Invest In Your Own Security," be adopted to sell them.

A few days ago, Bing's brother received his answer. H. S. T. wrote that the suggestion was so well received in Washington that the Treasury Department is seriously considering a completely new campaign on his idea.

It's no way to win friends and influence people to dodge photographers. That's exactly what Gloria De Haven and Nicky Hilton did at the Captain's Table when the camera boys tried to get their picture together.

At the same place Roddy McDowall was with Susan Morrow whom he took home early. Then he came back with another girl. Fine goings on, Roddy.

Ave Gardner flew back to New York with Frank Sinatra from Palm Springs last week, so it seems there's no let up to this romance.

The Woman's Home Companion has bought the rights to Will Rogers' love letters to his wife.

It was printed that Barbara Hutton's divorce intention was posted in a women's prison in Mexico in keeping with the law that it appear in a public place, but the exact spot was never revealed. It was posted in the ladies powder room!

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11 (AP)—The New York Giants scored a run in the top of the ninth inning to break a tie and defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3, today. The Giant victory squared the weekend exhibition series at one game apiece.

The winning tally came across when Jack Lohrke scored from third base after Clint Hartung's long liner to left field with one out.

DODGERS TOP BRAVES

MIAMI, March 11 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers scored five runs in the ninth inning to overcome the Boston Braves' east coast team, 10-9, before 7,780 here today.

Four hits and two walks off Bob Hogue, with Tommy Brown's double off the leftfield wall, the climax blow, turned what promised to be an easy Tribal win into defeat.

Wayne Belardi's four hits featured Brooklyn's 19-hit attack while Sid Gordon's three-run homer was the feature blow for Boston. After Preacher Roe hurled three perfect innings and Rookie Charlie Gorin blanked the Brooks with four hits, all the pitching was bad. Score:

Lou Boudreau, former Cleveland manager, made his debut in a Boston uniform and played well afield but failed to hit against the pitching of Bubba Church, Ken Heintzelman and Robin Roberts.

Ted Williams played his first exhibition for the Sox and hit one single in four times at bat. Boston's only two runs came in the third on a flurry against Church. Score:

Pen-Mar Loop Will Operate With 7 Teams

Interstate League Approves Schedule

The Pen-Mar Baseball League will function as a 7-team circuit this year with all of the 1950 clubs back in line but Keyser Ridge.

Meeting yesterday at the Frostburg American Legion Home, the league decided to open its season April 29. Each team will play 12 home games and 12 games away. The closing date is August 26 while the playoffs will get under way on September 2. Playoff semi-finals will be best-of-three games while the finals will be best-of-five contests.

Teams entered for the 1951 race are Klondyke, Wellersburg, Eckhart, Ellerslie, Mt. Savage, Zihlman and Barrelville. Saturday games will start at 3 p. m. and Sunday contests at 2:30.

The player limit was set at 25, including manager.

All games determining a playoff position or championship must be not less than nine innings.

Persons desiring to umpire in the league are requested to contact President Charles Poisal, phone 6481-W.

Approves Schedule

The Interstate League met yesterday at Romney and approved a 25-game schedule for each team. The season opens Sunday, April 29 with Cumebrland Black Sox at Cumberland Moose (Penn Avenue Field); Moorefield at Romney and Centerville at Hyndman VFW.

The Everett American Legion applied for a franchise but was too late. If there are any withdrawals, however, Everett will be given first consideration for the berth.

By-laws were revised and approved by unanimous vote. A special provision makes servicemen who were signed eligible to play in league games when they are home on furlough during the regular season or during the playoffs.

The season ends Sunday, August 26.

Major Leagues Vote Today On Happy Chandler

Commissioner Needs Twelve Of 16 Votes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 11 (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler will get a final "yes" or "no" on a new term tomorrow morning by secret ballot at a joint meeting of the major leagues. No other candidate will be on the ballot.

Chandler was given a "fighting chance" by Clark Griffith of the Washington senators, one of his staunchest supporters, after the two leagues met separately for some three and a half hours at the Shoremede Hotel.

A list of about 30 men, including Chandler, was presented by the four-man screening committee. Biographical data on each was submitted to the owners who were asked to keep the list in confidence.

It was learned however, that it included George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues; Frank Lausche, governor of Ohio; J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, and Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Securities Resources Board. An owner said there was no dark horse candidate.

Both the pro and anti-Chandler groups still professed confidence. It was reported that a five-team stand pat block was lined up on each side with Chandler likely to get a majority of the vote but not the necessary 12. At St. Petersburg, he had a 9-7 margin on one of two ballots. The other was 8-8.

This is the way the lineup was reported by informed baseball men:

FOR CHANDLER	ANTI-CHANDLER
Detroit	New York Yankees
Philadelphia A's	Boston Braves
Washington	St. Louis Cardinals
New York Giants	St. Louis Browns
Cincinnati Reds	Chicago White Sox
Chicago Cubs	Pittsburgh
Boston Red Sox
DOUBTFUL
Philadelphia Phillies
Brooklyn

Although Chandler was denied a new contract Dec. 11, 1950, he will come up for vote as a new candidate. If he gets 12, he's in, he will succeed himself as commissioner. If he loses, baseball will continue screening candidates for the job. Chandler has said he will serve out the last second of his term expiring April 30, 1952.

Both Ford Frick, National League president, and Will Harridge, head of the American League, said "it would be a legal question" whether Chandler could be removed from office if he is rejected tomorrow and still insists on finishing out his term.

Ferrier Scores At Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 11 (AP) — Lanky Jim Ferrier of San Francisco played it safe down the home stretch today to capture top money in the $10,000 Miami Beach Open Golf Tournament by a one-stroke margin.

Ferrier went the last 18 holes in 69, three under par, for a 72-hole total of 273 to nose out Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and burly Chuck Klein of San Antonio, Tex.

Ferrier was four strokes under par for the Normandy Isle Course after covering today's first nine in 32, and with one nine-hole lap to go was two strokes better than Klein's and three under Snead, the defending champion.

Taking no chances on the backstretch, Ferrier played even par for eight holes, and at the par four 18th, knowing he could win the $2,000 top prize with a five, babied his ball up the middle of the fairway and took his full quota.

Leading at the 54-hole mark by one stroke with 204, Ferrier clinched the top money today with his performance on the outgoing nine, closing with three straight birdies at the seventh, eighth and ninth for his 32, which was just a stroke higher than the competitive record.

Klein, the runner up last night at 203, took 33 for the first nine to fall two strokes behind Ferrier.

Still trying hard for a successful comeback after a layoff of more than two months with a fractured bone in his left hand, Snead also covered the first nine in 33.

Both Snead, with a 35, and Klein, with a 36, beat Ferrier on the back nine, but neither had the finishing kick necessary to overcome Big Jim's lead and they finished with 274s to collect $1,200 each.

Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., closed with a 68 for 207 and fourth place. In a three-way for fifth were Jack Burke, Jr., Houston, Tex.; Al Besselink, Mt. Clemens, Mich., and Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass.

Johnny Bratton, Charlie Fusari Fight This Week

Welters To Tangle In Chicago Match

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—The eliminations to determine a successor to Ray Robinson as welterweight champion begins in Chicago Wednesday night when hard-hitting Johnny Bratton of Chicago faces blond Charlie Fusari of Irvington, N. J., in a 15-rounder for NBA recognition.

The winner of this fight must meet Kid Gavilan of Cuba within 45 days, according to the NBA edict. The survivor of the second elimination then must meet England's Eddie Thomas within three months.

New York, which is not a member of the NBA, will not recognize the Bratton-Fusari victor as champion. Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York commission, says there must be a series of eliminations before a champ can be named. He also insists that Billy Graham, high-ranking New York welter, be included in any tournament.

The Wednesday bout will be telecast and broadcast by CBS.

On Friday, Irish Bobby Murphy of San Diego, and lanky Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia, will tangle in a Madison Square Garden ten rounder. This bout should be a slugfest all the way. It will be telecast by NBC and broadcast by ABC.

Bucceroni, 23, has won 30 of 31 fights, and has an 18-fight win streak going. Murphy, beaten by Harry Matthews in a thriller nine days ago, has a 55-4 record.

Roland La Starza, once beaten New York heavyweight contender, faces Keen Simmons of Bayonne, N. J., in the main ten at Providence, R. I., Monday night. Archie Moore, No. 1 light heavyweight contender from Toledo, tackles Abel Cestac of Argentina, in a ten at Toledo Tuesday night.

CONDON KINDERGART

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Fully Clothed And In Her Right Mind

"THE (New York) Daily News' was built on legs," its late publisher, Joseph Patterson, once remarked, "but when we got enough circulation we draped them." This extraordinarily shrewd method of attaining success is not confined entirely to publishing. It's been done in Hollywood, notably in the case of Hedy Lamarr whose first film to be seen in this country displayed her almost entirely undraped. Subsequently, . . . well, there's no sense crying over spilt milk.

John Crosby

Another conspicuous example of the same technique is Miss Faye Emerson, a girl of many talents, whose undraped neckline was easily the most spectacular fashion note of 1950. Well, Miss Emerson built her circulation to a point even "The Daily News" would envy. Then she draped. The new draped or heavily wrapped Emerson, in fact, could get through January in Fargo, North Dakota, without adding anything except her winter earrings.

• — • — •

It's the policy here to keep the readers informed of the new fashion trends in TV. And Miss Emerson is unquestionably the arbiter in these matters. Well, this is the late word, girls. Cover up. Not long ago, Miss Emerson was observed in a dress with the most enormous white collar seen in these parts since the days of the Pilgrims. Looked like something out of Nathaniel Hawthorne, modified by Louisa M. Alcott. The real Miss Emerson happened to be sitting about a yard away from the filmed Miss Emerson at the time which afforded an excellent opportunity to test the theory, advanced by several scholars, that transcribed women are preferable to live ones. Well, I don't know. Preferable in what way? You can turn the transcribed ones off, of course. But in most other respects, there are serious shortcomings in electronics.

Where were we?

Besides dressing warmly, Miss Emerson has changed a lot of other things around on her show. Some time ago, Miss Lilli Palmer characterized the current crop of television females as "a lot of chattering dames." This was not only one of the most trenchant bits of criticism of the winter but one of the most effective.

• — • — •

Almost immediately, Miss Emerson began displaying her brains, of which she possesses a good many, almost as flagrantly as she had once . . . well, I mean the intellectual climate of the show changed radically. If you have been listening in on Faye recently, you would have heard Patrice Munsel and Garson Kanin discuss how stage an opera. Sam Levenson and somebody's mother talked about the influence of television on children.

Just last week Miss Emerson unveiled three foreign correspondents to whom the United States is alien land—Anton Smole, of Yugoslavia, K. Balaraman of India, and Alex Faulkner of London. She asked each one to name the biggest story they had sent back to their own countries from this one, a very lively idea indeed. My sole criticism came at the end when she asked each correspondent if he thought there would be a war this year. All said no. "That's very interesting," said Miss Emerson, "because the feeling over here is that there will be war." I consider that statement a little sweeping.

• — • — •

At various other times, Robert Coles, chairman of the Hayden Planetarium, and Willy Ley, an authority on rockets, thrashed around in outer space with Miss Faye. Paul Hume, Harriet Van Horne and Bosley Crowther delved into criticism, especially the sort of criticism emanating from Blair House. And the head of fraud bureau of the Ridgefield Park, N. J., police department gave a very instructive lesson on confidence games. All these things I found educational. Miss Emerson, incidentally, has ceased chattering almost entirely, sometimes just selling a little Pepsi Cola and letting the guests handle the rest of the talk.

The Emerson show is now entirely on film, which has brought along some problems. Miss Denise Darcel, for example, devoted a large part of a 15 minute show filmed a month in advance to explaining how kind, how gentlemanly American men were. The next day, the tabloids were full of the story about her husband drenching her with champagne at El Morocco.

Eagles Honor 63 Members At Memorial Rites

Flower Garden Is Setting For Pageant

"Think more of the heritage you will leave behind than of the gold you can gather during your lifetime," William L. Wilson, local attorney, told more than 500 Eagles and guests at yesterday's memorial service in the Fraternal Order of Eagles Home.

Wilson was orator for the annual service held by Aerie No. 245 to honor the 47 members who died during the past year and 16 who lost their lives in World War II.

The 3,100 member lodge held the impressive ceremony amid a white setting denoting a spring flower garden with girls standing on either side of the altar dropping red carnations on a Bible as the names of the deceased members were read.

Present Ritual

The program began with the processional, played by the Colomy Orchestra. Rev. Kenneth W. Grove, pastor of Emmanuel Methodist Church, delivered the invocation.

Members of Allegany High School Choir, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Willison, presented "Sing and Rejoice" with Carole Reith as accompanist.

The lodge ritual was given by Worthy President Floyd S. Elliot, Worthy Chaplain Thomas J. Hopwood and Past Worthy President John W. Harbaugh.

Herman L. Myers, worthy secretary, read the names of the members to be honored as the flower placing ceremony was conducted.

Pageant Is Given

The memorial pageant began with a prayer by Rabbi Herbert N. Wilner, of B'er Chayim Temple, followed by the Allegany High School Choir singing "O Bread of Life," by Franck. The oration was delivered by Wilson after which the choir sang "Ode To America."

Rev. Louis Glantz O.F.M. Cap., pastor of SS. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church, pronounced the benediction.

Among the members honored at the ceremony was Past State President Harry G. Rice.

C. William H. Baer, past president, was chairman of the Memorial committee assisted by Herman J. Miller.

Attendance at this memorial service was the largest in many years, according to officials.

Woman Seeks $2,500 Damages

A Cumberland woman, who contends that her feet were seriously injured when an employe of the local store of Peoples Service Drug Stores, Inc., allegedly dragged a large basket over them, has filed suit in Allegany County Circuit Court for $2,500 damages against the drug store firm.

Mrs. Madeline Wright, 321 Bedford Street, through her attorney, William H. Geppert, filed the suit Friday.

In her declaration, Mrs. Wright contends that on or about last September 2 she went into the local Peoples Drug Store on Baltimore Street as a customer. She asserted that while standing in an aisle beside the cigar counter she was "negligently and carelessly" struck by a large basket which was being dragged across the floor by Robert Lancaster, an employe of the store.

Mrs. Wright added that the basket ran over both her feet, lacerating, dislocating and injuring her toes and feet. She asserts that she has lost the use of one toe which will have to be amputated along with part of her foot.

Fire Truck Lurches Into Ditch

South End Fire Company's pumper is seen lodged in a ditch off the end of Winifred Road after the vehicle became caught in a rut Saturday afternoon as it was speeding to quench a grass fire on the road. The fire truck was extricated yesterday morning. Officials said it suffered only minor damage in the mishap and that it will be back into service soon. Nobody was injured as the heavy truck slipped off the soft shoulder of the road. An auxiliary pumper from Central Fire Department is being used until South End's truck can be placed back into service.

South End Lad Hit By Glancing Shot From Rifle

Ronnie Fisher, 10, Wounded In Thigh

A 10-year-old South Cumberland boy was shot yesterday afternoon while playing with companions in Constitution Park.

Ronnie Fisher, son of Mrs. Leona Maphis, 619 Maryland Avenue, was admitted to Memorial Hospital with a bullet wound in his right thigh. Hospital attaches said the bullet is lodged in his leg and that he was resting comfortably last night.

Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, of the Cumberland Police Department, said he received a call from an attendant at Constitution Park about 1:30 p.m. and that he and Officer W. P. Crabtree investigated. They drove to the eastern edge of the park, dismounted and brought the Fisher boy back to the squad car and to Memorial Hospital.

Lt. Lilya said Fisher and five other boys, ranging in age from 11 to 14, were on a hike in the park and had eaten their lunch and were shooting a .22 calibre rifle in the extreme eastern section.

Howard Davis, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Davis, 613 Maryland Avenue, was shooting at a piece of wood when a bullet ricocheted and struck Fisher, Lt. Lilya said.

Police said last night that no charges had been preferred.

To Attend Conference

F. W. Eiler and James B. Gerdeman, of Eiler Chevrolet, Inc., will leave here Wednesday for a trip to Baltimore and Washington, D. C., with other members of the Chevrolet Sales Managers' Forum.

Large Crowd Hears Address By LeTourneau

Between 800 and 900 persons crowded into the auditorium of Centre Street Methodist Church at 2:30 p. m. yesterday to hear Robert G. LeTourneau, designer of earth-moving machines, tell them how he literally made God a "partner" in his business.

LeTourneau spoke Saturday night and yesterday morning at Keyser, W. Va., and then made a hurried trip to Cumberland. Shortly after he talked here, the Christian business man boarded his own plane and flew to Canton, Ohio, where he was scheduled to speak last night.

Rev. Arthur Scrogum presided at yesterday's mass meeting. He is president of the Cumberland Ministerial Association, which sponsored LeTourneau's visit.

The audience was so large, Rev. Scrogum said, that a number of persons had to stand to hear the business man's down-to-earth message.

The speaker said in part,

"There are two things I like to do. One is to design machinery, turn on the power and see it work; the other is to tell people about the power of the Gospel and see it work in their lives."

Tri-State Art Exhibit Concludes This Week

The annual Tri-State Art Exhibit, currently on display at the Cumberland Free Public Library, will come to an end Friday night.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, requested that owners of the various works of art come to the library Saturday to claim their belongings.

More County Air Markers Seen By Spring

Jamison Seeks Boost In Program

More air markers in Allegany county is one of the aims of the State Aviation Commission, according to a letter received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The letter, from R. A. Jamison, director of the State Aviation Commission, to, William H. Lemmert, board president, said the commission is preparing to expand its air marking program throughout the state this spring.

Jamison stressed that particularly in Allegany county is there a great need for more air markers to insure greater air safety.

Warren G. Mullenax, operator of the Cumberland Airport, said last night he believes there should be 12 or 13 air markers in the county, but only about five of them may be seen readily from the air.

The commission director has asked the county commissioners to forward to him the name and address of the owners of suitable buildings, where permission might be had for the painting of air markers on roofs. These markers feature an arrow pointing north and list the latitude and longitude. Those near a community also include the name of the community.

Jamison listed some general requirements for roofs for air markers. They should be in good repair, with a total roof area of between 1,200 and 1,500 square feet needed. The building should be in a prominent location, on the outskirts of a community and/or near a main highway or railroad.

He added that the view should not be obstructed by trees or tall adjacent buildings.

The county commissioners have taken the matter under advisement and Lemmert emphasized that he hoped county property owners would cooperate.

To Address Rotarians

Drivers Escape Injury In Area Traffic Mishaps

Tractor Trailer Is Badly Damaged

Two motorists miraculously escaped injury in two unrelated highway traffic accidents near Keyser, W. Va., according to West Virginia State Police.

Norman J. Keehl, 25, Detroit, Mich., walked away unhurt after the tractor-trailer he was driving left Route 50 coming down Allegany Front Mountain yesterday morning. State Police said the site of the crash is known locally as both Shanty Hollow and Mountain Hut.

The Detroit man, who was driving the truck loaded with frozen egg yolks, said his truck brakes would not hold when he applied them as he rounded a curve. As a result the big truck tore up 40 feet of fencing along the highway, pulled up four posts, uprooted one tree and broke branches on others before coming to rest at the foot of a 40-foot bank.

State Plice said the tractor was almost split in two by a tree which it struck. Keehl estimated the damage at about $15,000, principally to the tractor and trailer, which were valued at around $24,000.

The other driver who was fortunate in not being hurt, despite his accident, was listed as Russell DeVore, Jr., about 20, Oak View, Westernport. His late model automobile tore down 100 feet of fencing and one telephone pole along Route 220, about five-and-a-half miles south of Keyser, police said. His car, almost a total wreck, came to rest on its top.

Man Fractures Leg In Wreck

Joe Lewis, about 50, Frostburg, was admitted to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, last night for treatment of a fractured left leg which he suffered in a head-on collision on Route 36, just north of Mt. Savage, State Police reported.

The Frostburg man was a passenger in an automobile which Robert Goldsworthy, 23, Mt. Savage, was driving north on Route 36. Goldsworthy, who sustained a laceration over his left eye and bruised both knees, was treated in Miners Hospital and released.

William Henry Booth, 31, RFD 1, Vale Summit, was driving the other car south on Route 36. He sustained lacerations and abrasions but did not require hospital treatment.

State Trooper Charles DeWitt, who investigated, said that Booth was driving on the wrong side of the road. The trooper is continuing his investigation. No charges have been filed.

Both automobiles were extensively damaged.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. CARL H. CLAPP

Thou Shalt Not Kill. Matthew 27:3-5

Today's sermonette is a digest of the message preached yesterday at St. Mark's Reformed Church by the pastor, Rev. Carl H. Clapp. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

In one of the city parks of the City of Pittsburgh there is a tree surrounded by a heavy iron fence. On the fence is a metal plaque with this inscription: "This tree was planted by General U. S. Grant."

The purpose of the iron fence is obvious, to save the tree from abuse. In many respects the moral law is like the iron fence which God has erected around certain sacred things to protect them.

Rev. Clapp

At the moment our concern is about the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill." This is the iron fence which God has put about human life. The character out of the passion story which illustrates this is Judas Iscariot. Here was a man who violated many of the commandments.

I am impressed by the fact that Judas was so near Jesus at all times. The availability of Jesus was at hand. Even to the last moment Judas could have repented. But after he had killed himself there was no repentance. The sense of this commandment is the sacredness of human life. It says our bodies are God's temple, and this command is the iron fence God has built around it.

There are many ways of destroying this temple. Dr. Rogness says a house can go to ruin by what you do or by what you do not do to it. It is so with God's temple, the body, and the life which inhabits it. A man can kill himself or others in many ways, by shooting, or driving his car on the sidewalk, eating, drinking or prostitutes. But the command is, "Thou shalt not kill." In all these cases man is breaking down the iron fence.

The commandment embraces not only the negative, "Thou shalt not," but also the moral demand to love and befriend our neighbor.

How should we care for the temple? Elton Trueblood has said our greatest need is the cultivation of an uneasy conscience. We have become hardened and calloused to death, and to killings and to suffering. We have read of Hitler and his killing so many, or the atom

Cited For Incident Near Cresaptown

Lester W. White, 3 Altamont Terrace, has been released from the Allegany County Jail for a hearing at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday before Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdew on a charge of violating a State Motor Vehicle law.

State Police Corporal Samuel Conrad arrested White Friday after conducting an investigation into the manner in which White allegedly was driving a privately-owned school bus in the Cresaptown area.

The corporal said White had been employed by the owner of the bus to drive children from Allegany High School as far as Cresaptown. He also transported children from Cresaptown School to the vicinity of Rawlings, Conrad added.

Children who rode the bus home last Thursday from Allegany High School told Cpl. Conrad a fellow student, Robert Athey, of Bowling Green, drove the bus away from the school and as far as Warner's Store in Cresaptown. There he left the bus to board another bus back to his Bowling Green home, he told Cpl. Conrad. White rode on the bus with the children, Cpl. Conrad said.

From Warner's Store to the Cresaptown School, White drove the bus, pupils told Cpl. Conrad.

Cpl. Conrad added that five of the eight or 10 children, who were on the bus between Warner's Store and the Cresaptown School, have been asked to appear at the hearing Wednesday morning.

White was lodged in the County Jail about 6 p. m. Friday and released on bond about noon Sunday.

Bowling Green Tax Area Will Be Discussed

Delegation Plans Hearing Tuesday

A special meeting will be held at the Bowling Green Fire Hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock to discuss provisions of a bill to establish fire hydrants and a street lighting system in that community.

Copies of the proposed legislation, House Bill 444, have been received here.

A hearing on the bill will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the State House in Annapolis before the Allegany County Delegation.

Charles M. See, chairman, said the county legislators are anxious to have a good representation from the area at the hearing.

Tonight's meeting is being held so residents of the proposed taxing district may have an opportunity to discuss questions which have arisen since a rough draft of the bill was discussed two weeks ago.

The bill sets up the special taxing district to finance the installation and maintenance of a system of fire hydrants according to fire underwriters specifications and to set up a lighting system for the community.

Some 80 homes in the rapidly growing community are included in the taxing area. The value of real estate in the district is estimated at about $850,000.

In general, the bill provides for levying a tax of up to 30 cents to pay for a lighting system, water rental on hydrants and their maintenance, plus an additional tax of 25 cents to defray costs of water pipes and hydrants and purchase and installation of street hydrants, to be discontinued when the cost of the facilities is paid in full.

The bill includes provision for a referendum within 60 days of passage of the act.

Proposed Central High School Features Functional Equipment

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

When the designs for the proposed new Central High School become reality, Lonaconing will boast one of America's most modern and functional schools.

That is the belief of S. Russ Minter, Cumberland architect, who has drawn the plans for this new building, which may cost in the neighborhood of $1,500,000.

In the first place, the architect explains, the visualized Central High School will be completely fireproof. It will be made of reinforced concrete which will not burn.

Many Glass Blocks

Although the exterior walls will be of brick construction, there will be extensive use of glass blocks to allow more light to penetrate into the building.

The building, as proposed in Minter's drawings, will have ribbon-type windows and almost the entire wall surface above these windows will be in glass block.

Most of the classroom portion of the building for junior and senior high school pupils will be two stories high. One-story sections will include the manual training shop, the cafeteria, the library, music room, gymnasium and locker room and the auditorium.

Also in the one-story portion of the planned school is a small corrective gymnasium, for boys and girls with physical defects. Minter said that the Mt. Savage School, now nearing completion, also will be equipped with a corrective gymnasium.

Minter called attention to the fact that in general, Mt. Savage and Central will offer similar modern features.

Designs Differ

The big difference between the two new schools is that their functional designs will be different. In the first place Mt. Savage School was designed for all 12 grades whereas Central will take care of only the last six years, the junior and senior high school levels.

Mt. Savage School is a shell-type design. One shell will house the junior and senior high school sections and the other the elementary grades. The two shells both connect with the gymnasium, auditorium and cafeteria, but pupils from the two shells will not have to walk through the opposite shells.

Minter said that the Central High School will be of horizontal plane design. Another noticeable difference between the planned Lonaconing school and the actual Mt. Savage school is that there are more special rooms for shop, laboratories and other functions of that type in the Central plan.

Black-Out Curtains

Each of the 33 classrooms in the Central School will be equipped with audio-visual education aids,
